STOCK MARKET BOILS AGAIN

Children as Teachers.
No Black Republic.
No Socratic Methods.
That Noble Experiment.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

DR. O'SHEA, superintendent of public schools in New York, wisely emphasizes the importance of making children of foreign born parents home teachers. In 41 public schools children will receive a series of 10 leaflets for teaching English to parents.

AN EXCELLENT idea, and as old as divine wisdom. Children have taught their parents from the beginning. The helpless child, filling the mother with tenderness, has educated the father through the mother, gradually abolishing cannibalism, slavery and serfdom, and will abolish poverty eventually.

PHILANTHROPY had its origin in the love and influence of children. Lady Godiva riding naked through the streets to lighten the poor people's tax burden, and the old male gorilla, club in hand, at the foot of the tree, keeping climbing leopards and snakes from his wife and small baby in the upper branches, show the influence of children on parents.

Read about that gorilla in Drummond's "The Greatest Thing in the World" or his "Ascent of Man." The books are not at hand where this is written. The greatest thing is love, and through love children educate their parents.

THE British allege Russia is "planting new-fangled ideas in the minds of South African natives," trying to establish a black republic in Southern Africa on Communist lines.

That was tried, with encouragement from this country, in Liberia, but did not work.

SOUTH AFRICAN natives will not have the slightest understanding of bolshevist talk. Communism might as well talk of establishing a reproduction of Oxford or Cambridge at the edge of the Congo. To create a Republican you must have the materials of which republics are made.

We are having trouble enough with our experiment here, our nearest approach to Republican government thus far being a benevolent rule by plutocracy.

WILLIAM M'ANDREW, who was superintendent of Chicago schools, leaves for Athens to spend a year studying Socrates' methods of teaching. His plan, may heaven thwart it, is to revive the Socrates method in modern schools.

SOCRATES, if Plato describes his method accurately, touched a new peak in boredom. Instead of saying what he had to say, he went around Robin Hood's barn with questions and answers tiresome beyond measure.

Whether or not Socrates was guilty, as alleged, of filling young Greeks with disrespect for the gods, and in spite of the marvelously heroic hemlock drinking episode, you can hardly blame the Athenians for getting rid of him.

What modern education needs is moving pictures, with condensed verbal elucidation, not Socratic dialogues.

LEADERS of prohibition say election means "utter repudiation by the people of all proposals modifying the Volstead act, or in any way interfering with prohibition as it is."

Prohibition leaders ignore one feature of the campaign, which need not be revived here.

They should not forget that Gov. Smith got twice as many votes as any Democratic candidate ever got. There may be some prohibition meaning to that.

HERBERT HOOVER did not proclaim himself at any time a convert to prohibition as it is. He called it "a noble experiment," meaning, presumably, it is on trial. He would not call government by the people "a noble experiment," because he believes it is an approved and permanent success.

HOWEVER, the Volstead act will not be changed or the Eighteenth amendment either, for many a year.

Meanwhile, those foolish enough to drink bootleg alcohol will lose the lining of their kidneys, and, otherwise, prosperity will continue.

"RUTH, amid the alien corn," would be interested in three other Ruths, all in American politics. Three women were elected to Congress last Tuesday, and all three are named Ruth. Ruth McCormick, daughter of the able Mark Hanna, in Illinois; Ruth Bryan, in Florida; Ruth Pratt, in New York. All three possess intelligence and ability well above the congressional average.

If you believe in omens, name your next daughter Ruth.

ROY W. HOWARD and F. G. Bonfils, owners of the only two remaining newspapers in Denver, finally realized the wisdom of a saying attributed to the late Joseph Pulitzer, "Don't fight, advertise." While Dana and others tried to make him fight, Pulizer went ahead, building up his newspaper. And Dana's newspaper exists no longer.

BONFILS, real boss of his neighborhood, killed his morning paper and Howard killed his evening paper, one taking the morning, the other the evening field.

They will make more money, produce better newspapers and merchants will reach all the people more economically.

FEWER and BETTER newspapers, is the modern trend.

GOV. SMITH announces he will never again be a candidate for office. He has been in politics for 25 years, received last Tuesday the biggest vote, numerically, ever given to any Democratic candidate for president, and is content to retire.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT'S election in New York, where he ran ahead of Hoover and the popular Governor Smith, and

MARKETS BOIL OVER IN WILD TRADING

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Skyrocketing of the high-priced industrial stocks and specialties, the overbulled mercantile shares and the technically cornered pool "pets," took active form again today as buying demand swept over the big board from all parts of the country. The tickers were clogged, trading was handicapped and reliable quotations obtainable only through special channels.

It was a day to try the patience of brokers and traders alike. After the first rush to buy General Motors had forced that stock up a few points at the opening, the paper profits were cashed in on a tremendous scale, forcing the price back to the level of Friday's close. A span of 45 minutes between ticker quotations and actual transactions on the floor handicapped speculation in many of the well-known stocks.

INTEREST RATE RAISES

Banks sent hurried calls into the call loan market, and the rate moved up to 7 per cent. Nothing daunted, the bulls tapped new sources of money in the outside market, indifferent to the cost of money as long as there was a generous supply.

Early in the afternoon the commission houses sent out bulletins that the pace of the market had been to swift and suggesting a lightening of the load.

"The wild trading which has greeted the Hoover landslide," said Jackson Bros., "cannot but suggest that the buying pace has been too rapid to continue without some sort of a corrective adjustment."

The big bulls were suspected of taking huge profits as the session advanced. At any rate General Motors, United States Steel and the oil and copper stocks were thrown on the market heavily, blocking the advances in prices.

ELECTRICS GO UP

The money-making prospects of the electrical manufacturing firms were pushed into the limelight as the demand for General Electric and Westinghouse continued. General Electric's new 7-point jump to 180 was easily the feature of this group.

SINGS TO OPERA SUCCESS, HER "DAD" IN GALLERY

Former Massachusetts Mill Worker Makes Debut in Metropolitan.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Clara Jacobo, once a mill worker in Lawrence, Mass., stepped up last night into that golden world toward which she had struggled for nearly 15 years—the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House.

She made her debut in "Il Trovatore," whose tuneful arias she could sing at an age when most children are learning kindergarten ditties. After she had sung with Giovanni Martinelli the old familiar "Miserere," which she used to sing all by herself as a child, as soprano and tenor, there is no doubt in the minds of her old friends from Lawrence that she is a success.

From an incouspicuous seat in the gallery, a sturdy little old man, with drooping gray mustachios, listened intently to her every note uttered. Later he went back stage.

"Papa!" shouted a chorus of Italian voices, and he was dragged up to a place by his daughter's side—in the lights.

Angelo Jacobo, born in Naples, once a grocer in Lawrence, and now a comber in a woolen mill, forgot then all the English he had ever known. He could speak only Italian—and not much of that. Clara's mother is dead.

CLARA JACOBO

ADMITS HE SHOT TWO IN JAIL BREAK

Sam Jaworski confessed in Criminal Court today that it was he who strode into the county jail on August 18, 1927, and slipped to his brother Paul Jaworski, the doomed murderer, two revolvers that enabled Paul and Jack Vasbinder, another condemned killer, to shoot their way out.

Sam admitted that he shot two guards in that jail delivery and tried to shoot a third.

Sam pleaded guilty today and was sentenced to serve from eight to 25 years in the Western Penitentiary.

When the trial started Wednesday Sam pleaded not guilty. When court convened this morning his lawyer, W. F. Daniels, and Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park, conferred in whispers for 15 minutes. And then Daniels addressed the court:

"Your Honor, I wish to change the plea of the defendant from not guilty to guilty on all six counts as charged in the indictment."

PRISONER GRINS

Judge Ambrose B. Reid pronounced sentence. Two deputies took Sam by the arms and led him from the courtroom to the county jail. Sam was grinning.

As Sam was being marched out county detectives strolled into the spectators' section and arrested the third of the Jaworski trio—young Tom. Park said Tom and the two Jaworski witnesses who were arrested yesterday would be hailed before an alderman late today on charges of conspiracy to perjure. This move indicates that Tom is being accused as the ringleader of any perjury movement made to acquit Sam.

The three Detroit witnesses, Bartender Joe Balsdell; Walter Harry Penzcak and Gasoline Salesman Theodore Zemla, testified they had seen Sam in Hamtramck, Mich., on the day of the jail break.

Sam had two friends in court when he was sentenced. His mother and a sister, present at all other sessions, were missing, along with the seven Detroit witnesses who came here to testify that Sam really was in Hamtramck, Mich., his home town, on the day of the jail break. However, young Tom and another sister were there, seated in the spectators' section.

NOT A PERJURER

In sentencing Sam, Judge Reid said he had taken into consideration that, while others may have perjured themselves on the witness stand for Sam's sake, Sam himself had not.

The sentences were divided thus: Three to seven years for felonious assault and battery; two to seven years for felonious assault and battery; one to seven years for felonious assault (Sam fired at this guard, but missed); one to two years for furnishing arms; one to two years for aiding in the escape. On the last charge of carrying concealed weapons sentence was suspended because the offense doesn't carry a penitentiary penalty as all the others do.

The maximum for these offenses is from 16 to 32 years. The minimum

8½ MILLS CITY TAX JUMP LOOMS

Preliminary figures compiled from department estimates of next year's expenses indicate a tax increase of 8½ mills for 1929, Mayor Charles H. Kline said today.

The present levy is 25 mills on land and 12½ mills on buildings.

The Mayor made it clear that the total compilation had not been submitted to him and that he had had no opportunity to scan the estimates in detail.

The Mayor's statement resulted from inquiries as to when the official budget would be presented to Council. He replied that the estimates were being set up in budget form by the statisticians and that he expected to send the printed form to Council next week.

Mayor Kline indicated that his first task would be to pare down the departments' estimated expenses with the view of submitting to Council the minimum cost of operating the city next week.

When the budget is submitted to Council another paring process is bound to follow, particularly in view of the election in 1929 for a Mayor and four of the Councilmen.

The 1928 budget totaled $25,115,780 and, on the basis that each mill of tax yields approximately $750,000, it was unofficially estimated that the tentative budget in preparation for next year shows an aggregate of more than $30,000,000.

Triple Auto-Car Crash Fails to Hurt Anyone

One auto crashed into another and both were upset and a third machine sideswiped a street car in Forbes street, near Braddock avenue today—and nobody was hurt!

Police were told that Sebastian Boes, 28, of 5510 Darlington road, and Wesley S. Howell, of 6727 Hodge street, were racing eastward. Howell's car hit Boes' and both overturned. Max Lampenfeld, 21, of 27½ Wick street, following, turned to the left to avoid the wreck and sideswiped a westbound Swissvale-Rankin trolley.

Howell's car was righted and Howell sped away, police said, promising to arrest him later. Lampenfeld and Boes were arrested.

Allegheny General Fund All Pledged

The Allegheny General Hospital's drive for a $5,000,000 fund went "over the top" today. Workers reported additional pledges of $487,880, making the total amount $5,002,426.38.

Scenes of wild jubilation followed the announcement at a luncheon of the workers in the ballroom of the William Penn otel that the amount raised during the past 48 hours had carried the fund well beyond the goal. Dr. Maitland Alexander presided. Among the gifts announced was $300 from John F. Peters, maker of braces and shoes in the hospital's orthopedic department.

HOOVER'S VOTE SWELLS TO 19,099,787

Associated Press.

Tabulation of scattered additional returns from a dozen states has pushed Hoover's national total past the 19,000,000 mark and Smith's over 13,500,000.

With the votes of Tuesday's polling still far from complete, the unofficial standing last night was:

Hoover	19,099,787
Smith	13,532,996

The President-elect added more than 500,000 during yesterday and Gov. Smith about 544,000.

ASK MASS. RECOUNT

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Petitions for a recount of the votes cast in the presidential contests in this state Tuesday were being circulated throughout Massachusetts today. The action was taken after a conference between members of the Republican State Committee and the Hoover volunteer committee.

Complete returns of the state gave Gov. Alfred E. Smith a margin of 21,702 votes over Herbert Hoover. It was said that, as Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole (D.), who opposed Frank G. Allen, lieutenant governor, in the gubernatorial contest, had asked for a recount, it would be no added difficulty to conduct the two recounts simultaneously.

The petitions must be signed by at least 1,000 citizens, 200 of whom must be certified in each district. The papers must be filed at the State House by 5 o'clock today.

Hoover's Majority In N. Carolina 50,000

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Herbert Hoover's majority in North Carolina is now expected to be in the neighborhood of 50,000 when official returns of the election are tabulated by the state election board two weeks hence.

Returns unofficially tabulated here, many of them official figures, today gave the President-elect a lead of 46,558, with 148 of the state's 1,763 precincts missing.

The vote was: Hoover, 310,156; Smith, 263,825.

6 Women Members For Illinois House

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Illinois House of Representatives will have six women members, two of whom were elected Tuesday. The other four are holdovers.

SUN-TELEGRAPH TO GIVE WELFARE FUND SHOW

The Variety Club of Pittsburgh will give a midnight entertainment Friday night, November 23, at the Stanley Theater, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, for the benefit of the Welfare Fund.

In this simple announcement, made today, lies news of thrilling interest to theatergoers in particular and the public in general.

The midnight show will be the greatest bargain of its kind ever offered in Pittsburgh. The cream of the theatrical profession will participate. A distinguished audience will attend. Both in quality and quantity it will be a show of surpassing interest. And the best seat in the house will cost only one dollar!

The Welfare Fund, also known as the "Community Chest," an arrangement by which the leading philanthropic and social service agencies of the city co-operate in raising money, will receive every penny taken in at the box office. For gross receipts will be net receipts, as the result of the willingness of all concerned to give their services without charge.

The actors and actresses, the musicians and stage hands will work for nothing. The theater will be had without payment of rent. The show bills will be printed and posted on the billboards gratis.

GARDNER DEFIES 'GANG PLOT'

Threats to frame District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner as an antidote to the tale of graft and collusion being told to the grand jury have been made by the racketeers.

Gardner revealed this today as he finished quizzing a dozen witnesses brought in after county detectives raided 19 East Liberty saloons and speakeasies and two Oakland clubs. Gardner did not disclose the source of the threats, nor was he inclined to take them seriously.

DEFIES THREAT

In the last two weeks a dozen tales of plans to frame him have come to his ears, Gardner said. He discounted the ability of the racketeers to carry out their threats, and declared they would have no effect upon the conduct of his investigation.

METROPOLITAN PLAN AHEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Returns from approximately two-thirds of the state in the voting for the 14 proposed amendments to the state constitution show only four of the amendments leading.

The vote for the amendments was light, compared with that cast for the political candidates and in some counties the interest was so small that no serious effort was made to tabulate them prior to the official count, which began today.

The four amendments that show a lead are Number Six, which would give the courts the right to divide election districts without regard to the number of voters; Number 12, which would permit inheritance exemptions to residents of other states which grant reciprocal exemptions; Number 13, which would permit the optional

CONGRESSWOMAN AND EX-CONVICT HUSBAND

Two women named Ruth and the wife of a congressman and ex-convict will go to the Seventy-first Congress to represent the 17 women in the United States who sought Congressional election. Here is Mrs. Katherine Langley, Pikeville, Ky., re-elected to the House of Representatives, and her husband, John W. Langley, who served 10 terms in the House and then before he was paroled 11 months of a two-year Federal sentence for violation of prohibition laws.

CAMPAIGN COST 15 MILLION, SENATE COMMITTEE TO START PROBE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Investigation of the cost of the record-breaking presidential campaign will get under way at once, Senator Frederick Steiwer (Rep.), of Oregon, chairman of the special Senate elections committee, declared today.

Full inquiry into all expenditures of national, special and state political groups "as far as is necessary" will be undertaken, he said.

Based on reports already made by officials of the two major parties and the estimated expenditures of state and special political organizations, the presidential contest cost upwards of $15,000,000, it was estimated here today.

The Republican and Democratic national committees alone spent over $10,000,000.

So far, Senator Steiwer said, no complaints of irregularities in expenditures have been received by the committee. Of its own volition, however, the committee is anxious to have complete report ready for the Senate when Congress convenes.

It is for this reason, he said today, that telegrams were sent to the other four members of the committee asking whether they can attend a meeting here next Tuesday or Wednesday.

In addition to Senator Steiwer, the committee includes Senators Dale and McMaster, Republicans, and Bratton and Barkley, Democrats.

FARM FUND FIRST

It is probable that one of the first items of expenditure to be gone into by the committee is the allocation of $600,000 by the Democratic national committee to George Peek, Western agricultural leader, for the campaign in the farm belt states.

If the Democrats desire to have an inquiry into Republican expenses in the South, distributed through Col. Horace Mann, G. O. P. Southern campaign manager, their request will be given careful consideration, Senator Steiwer said.

While the estimated total of $15,000,000 for expenses seems high, it was suggested in committee circles that based on the unusual activity of each political organization in the campaign just closed, and the total vote obtained, the money expended represented a smaller per capita cost than in 1924.

BIG SPENDING IN SOUTH

Both parties, it was pointed out, spent large sums in the usually "solid South"—a section heretofore overlooked in this connection.

The combined radio bill for the two major parties will account for nearly $2,000,000 of the total outlay, it is thought. This represents an entirely new item of expense.

Other unusual costs included the particularly long country-wide speaking trips of both vice presidential candidates, it was pointed out.

Whether the amounts spent by various church organizations will be investigated has not been determined.

WILD TRADING IN MARKETS

but Westinghouse was also a favorite, the stock being taken in large doses above 118. Radio Corporation had the benefit of a very favorable earnings statement for the first nine months of the year, and the stock jumped upward to around 240. Montgomery Ward came through with a new 23-point jump to 389, which completes a gain of 272 points for the year.

At 1 o'clock the tickers had clicked off 2,565,400 shares; but, as the tape was 45 minutes behind, this was not an accurate gage on the activity of the big market, which appeared to be headed for another 5,000,000-share session.

Selling of the motors late in the day blocked the progress of the rally in that section of the market. General Motors fell below 220 and Chrysler below 125.

seem to indicate a Roosevelt nomination in 1932, if the Democrats decide to hold a convention.

LADY ASTOR, from Virginia, via the House of Commons, is delighted with the election and begs Mr. Hoover to "stamp alcohol from New York."

It will take the new president a long time to get around to that problem. Other things come first.

Meanwhile, bootleg whisky is rapidly stamping out those foolish enough to drink it. That may comfort Lady Astor. Bootleggers are killing off their customers.

MOUNTAIN 'WILD' GIRL SEIZED

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Skeptical police today were holding for protection and observation Anna Sincosky, 23, of Cumbula, Schuylkill county, who was found in a wild, mountainous region six miles from here where she said she had lived for five months in a rude shelter of boughs and poles.

Authorities found her yesterday after a hunter had discovered her in the mountains. She told police she had fled from her home to escape a "road house gung." Some credence was given her story by the fact that records show she had been arrested in a raid on a roadhouse.

Miss Sincosky was scantily clad and badly cut and bruised when brought here, apparently the result of an attack she claimed she suffered at the hands of two men several days ago.

The girl was given a hearing last night and was committed to Schuylkill county prison on a technical charge for the purpose of giving her "protection" from the "gang" and for observation.

Even Women in Kiefertown Tote Guns

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 9.—Even women of Kiefertown, declared to be the worst town in the world of its size, carry guns as protection against each other. This became known when Gladys Green admitted concealing a weapon under her apron. She said she feared Eva Brown and other women who had threatened her. Gladys was given her choice of a $100 fine or 90 days in jail.

JAWORSKI GETS 25 YEARS

mum is as low as one day in the workhouse.

Sam already has spent more than 13 months behind bars. He has been in jail since October 1, 1927, and all that time will be applied to the sentences.

This was the second time Sam was tried on these charges. The first time, in March of this year, he was found guilty, but was able to obtain a new trial.

There was a report about the courthouse today that Paul Jaworski, the undisputed leader of the mob that lifted payrolls and murdered guards, had refused to testify for Sam, but the report was not believed.

Paul is in the county jail under sentence to be electrocuted. When he was brought back from Cleveland a month ago after being captured in a gun battle, he said this: "They're framing Sam; they know he's not the one that got us out." However, Sam's change of front today pretty clearly shows that Paul, who awaits his dealth philosophically, was just trying to save brother Sam from doing what Paul calls a "stretch."

Dead Men Figure In West Va. Election

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Dead men played a large part in Wood county's election.

Arch Wells, Republican, died several days before the election, but was named by the voters as justice of the peace of Williams district. He was unopposed. The office will be declared vacant by the County Court.

John C. W. Busch, who died Sunday while a non-partisan candidate for election to the non-partisan Board of Education in the Parkersburg Independent School district, was defeated by 91 votes.

Bliss Roberts was killed in an automobile accident near Hundred, Sunday, but voted for his favorite candidates. Prior to his death he had mailed an absentee voters' ballot to election officials.

NORTH SIDE RUM PLOT JURY MAY BE LOCKED UP

The jury trying 57 of the 73 defendants in the North Side section of the Federal booze-conspiracy case will be locked up during the trial, according to a report circulated in the Federal Building today.

No confirmation of this report was obtainable at the office of the District Attorney. It was pointed out that should the jury be locked up at night during the trial, it would be the first time this procedure was put into effect here.

The trial is listed for next Tuesday and is expected to last about four weeks. To keep the jury intact during the entire trial would necessitate a court order. The oldest attaches of the Federal Court say that never within their knowledge has a jury been locked up here except for deliberation on a verdict.

NEW CONGRESS LINEUP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Final congressional results have been tabulated and, although several recounts will be necessary because of close votes in contests for the House, it is shown that the next Congress will be made up as follows:

Senate—Republicans, 55; Democrats, 39; Farmer-Labor, 1; vacant, 1 (seat of Senator-elect Vare, Pennsylvania.)

House—Republicans, 269; Democrats, 165; Farmer-Labor, 1.

The composition of Congress was as follows:

Senate—Republicans, 47; Democrats, 46; Farmer-Labor, 1; vacant, 2.

More Marines to be Recalled From China

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Additional U. S. Marines shortly will be withdrawn from China, Secretary of State Kellogg announced today, after a conference with Secretary of Navy Wilbur.

The number and the places from which the Marines will be withdrawn are to be decided later.

For several months the United States has been gradually reducing its armed forces in China. The force totaled approximately 5,000 last year.

Shaler Twp. Resident Wills $13,000 to Kin

The will of Eugene C. Schwarzwaelder, of Shaler Township, probated today, disposes of a $13,000 estate. He leaves $1,000 to Helen Kovalick and the remainder to his son, Charles E., and the testator's two sisters, Mrs. Clara L. Hatch and Mrs. Minnie S. Konstanzer. The son and Walter E. Hatch are the executors.

TEXAS BOLTERS WEAK, CLAIM

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Politics cooled from a boil to a simmer in Texas today, though the warring factions of the Republican and Democratic parties were as far from agreement as ever. Passing of the election robbed them of their field of battle, however, and there was little they could do about their differences beyond issuance of statements.

Democratic leaders declared that the revolutionists would be unable to force regulars to resign from their posts. They pointed out that Herbert Hoover won in the state by a few thousand votes and that his support came from 150,000 Republicans, plus the bolting Democrats. When the Republican strength is subtracted from this total, they said, the bolters' numbers would fall far below the total vote for Smith, which was made up of regular Democratic ballots.

Last available figures make Hoover's total 342,956 and Smith's 327,671. One county has not been heard from and in 103 the count is incomplete.

Harry M. Wurzbach, the only Republican Texas sends to Congress, apparently has won by a very narrow victory in the Fourteenth.

Slayer of Joost Girl To Get Sanity Test

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Vincent T. Rice, 17-year-old Staten Island youth, who confessed strangling to death his high school sweetheart, Alice Joost, entered a plea of not guilty of murder today pending examination of him by alienists. Supreme Court Justice Johnston allowed the defense 10 days for the examination. If the defense decides there is ground for a plea of insanity, it will change the plea to guilty and ask the appointment of a lunacy commission to hear evidence and make recommendations to the court, defense counsel indicated.

Senators Re-elected Without a Penny

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—It didn't cost Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Senator Greene, of Vermont, a cent to be re-elected, they reported to the Secretary of the Senate today.

And neither received any contributions.

'MUTE' TALKS, MOTHER IS JAILED

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Anna Friedman was in jail today because her "mute" 5-year-old boy talked.

She sued R. H. Macy & Co. for $50,000, alleging that one of the department store's trucks struck her son and took away his power of speech.

During the trial of the case a court attendant asked Hyman Friedman which of two other small boys had pinched him in the hall. "He did," said Hyman, pointing.

The court attendant talked to the judge. The judge talked to Mrs. Friedman. She was held in lieu of $10,000 bail on a charge of perjury and conspiracy.

"It is the most outrageous case of attempted fraud I have ever seen," Supreme Court Justice Gibbs said. Mrs. Friedman had testified that Hyman had not spoken a word since the accident, which occurred October 13, 1923, when her son was seven months old.

The woman averred that the truck had run on a sidewalk, upsetting the carriage in which Hyman was lying. The company gave her $2,500 for her own injuries, but refused to pay $25,000 for the alleged injuries to the baby. The company offered $12,500, but she refused it.

called after the East Liberty and Oakland raids was not fruitful, Gardner said. He expected to get farther on the trail of graft through testimony of a half dozen witnesses who were to be examined on the clearing house lottery known popularly as "the police pool."

The detectives who carried out Gardner's raids last night reported finding liquor in all but four of the places visited. What Gardner wanted to know as the aftermath of those raids was the origin of that liquor and what arrangements had been made to get it to the ultimate consumer in safety.

BIG CLUBS RAIDED

The Frontenac Club, Craft avenue, and the Christopher L. Magee Club, in Boquet street, were hit by the raiders. No liquor was found, detectives reported. Detectives William S. Black, Philip Goldberg and Michael Ford ordered Eugene Apple, a steward at the Frontenac Club, and Joe Meyers, a porter at the Magee Club, to appear today.

The second squad of detectives reported finding moonshine and gin in two of the four places they visited. Vincent and James Tedsco were found in a saloon at Fifth and Frankstown avenues and they were ordered to appear today, as was Con Max, the alleged proprietor, who was absent when the raid was made. Word was left for Max to appear also.

The other raids were at 6359 Penn avenue and the saloons of Walter Bing, Frankstown avenue, and Charles Nesbitt, the latter known as the Euclid Inn, located at Euclid and Penn avenues.

The third raiding squad did not use the front door of a saloon at 6546 Penn avenue, as they noticed a padlock order from the Federal Court. Business was going on as usual, the raiders say, and they entered through a side door and arrested D. Morcpit, alleged proprietor. Liquor was found in the place, they say.

Other establishments in East Liberty that were visited were at 6214 Broad street; a tailor shop at Station street and Larimer avenue; 6411 Frankstown avenue; 6447 Frankstown avenue, and at 6475 Frankstown avenue.

WITNESSES READY

Most of the witnesses this afternoon were to tell the special grand jury more about the $140,000 clearing house lottery which was freely spoken of in the grand jury room yesterday as "the police pool."

From information unwillingly supplied by Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, of Greentree, whose printing shop, it is alleged, turned out the lottery tickets, a trail of collusion was being followed in the direction of some high places. District Attorney Gardner said Reed had named the nominal operators of the pool, but no one connected with the graft probe believed the men he named were anything other than nominal.

Gardner was anxious to learn who received the income from the 100,000 ticket's which Reed's printing shop turned out for the "Pitt Saturday Clearing." He wanted to know, too, who was guardian angel for the local activities of the Louisiana lottery and a half-dozen other lotteries for which Reed's shop printed tickets.

The tickets—about 200,000 of them—were brought in by county detectives in two raids, one before and one after Reed had testified. They were held as evidence and Reed was told to be ready for a return engagement before the jury.

GARDNER PLEASED

When the grand jury finished its work for the day Gardner announced that he was highly gratified with the turn the probe had taken and expected to continue along the same line today. To that end subpenaes were sent out last night for witnesses expected to know why giant lotteries flourished, with, apparently, almost everyone but the police aware of it.

Other subpenaes were for witnesses whose testimony was needed to round out the story of liquor graft given piecemeal to the jury in the last six weeks. Gardner was preparing to add some silent testimony on that score—the bank records of police officials and racketeers. These records may be called for before the week ends.

From the records Gardner expected to learn whether Pittsburgh banks hold a boodle fund similar to the one uncovered in Philadelphia, where mysterious accounts of police and racketeers held $12,000,000—the wages of private crime and official corruption.

MAN SUING OVER NAME IN "SHOW BOAT" LOSES

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The application for an injunction brought by Wayne Damron, of Catlettsburg, Ky., against Edna Ferber, novelist, to restrain the sale of her novel, "Show Boat," was dismissed today by Supreme Court Justice E. V. Gavegan. In the novel Miss Ferber described the opening of the "Black Diamond Saloon" in Catlettsburg by "Big Wayne" Damron and "Little Wayne" Damron.

Damron asserted that he, known in his home town as "Little W[illegible]" had never been engaged in the liquor business and he sought the injunction on the ground that his name was used for advertising purposes without his consent.

In dismissing the application, Justice Gavegan said that in his judgment Damron's name had not been used for advertising or trade, but solely as local color for the story. Consequently, he said, Damron had no redress under the statute under which he brought his action.

CASH, STOCK AWARDED AS BONUS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Distribution to its stockholders of the greatest bonus ever paid by an American industrial corporation has been ordered by the directors of General Motors Corporation.

Common stockholders are to receive the equivalent of a 150 per cent stock dividend, an extra cash dividend of $43,500,000 and an increase of $43,500,000 in annual dividend disbursements.

The action of the directors followed recent announcement by President Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., that a "pleasant surprise" was in store for the stockholders. The directors' plan is subject to the vote of the stockholders at the December 10 meeting. Under the plan each holder of a common share of the present stock will receive the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50, an extra cash dividend of $2.50 and his annual dividend hereafter will be $7.50 instead of $5.00.

STOCK DIVIDEND

The stock distribution planned is in the form of a split-up of the 17,500,000 shares of common stock outstanding, into 43,500,000 shares, or on the basis of 2½ new shares of $10 par value for each old share of $25 par value. The dividend rate on the new stock was set at $3, the equivalent of $7.50 on the old shares.

The increase in the dividend rate calls for an annual outlay of $130,500,000 against the present dividends of $57,000,000 a year, without the extra dividends which have been a feature of General Motors' policy. Hereafter, a statement from the directors said, extra dividends will depend on the corporation's profit-making ability. It has been the policy heretofore to distribute approximately 60 per cent of its earnings to stockholders.

SEES BENEFIT IN 2-PARTY SYSTEM

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.
International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 9.—President-elect Hoover is hopeful that the "Solid South" is an obsolete term in American political jargon.

He sees the disintegration of the old party alliances below the Mason-Dixon Line in last Tuesday's election as marking a milestone in United States history.

He believes that the political forces which put 50 new electoral votes in the Republican column from Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas are permanent rather than merely transitory, and hopes to consolidate the Republican position in the enemy territory with a view to re-establishing in genuine form the two-party system throughout the entire South.

NO PERSONAL ELATION

Political intimates of the President-elect who are with him at his home on San Juan Hill here are authority for the fact that of all the pleasing elements in the final election returns, before him today, none affords Hoover so much gratification as the break in Dixie.

His satisfaction arises, they declare, neither from the standpoint of personal triumph nor purely partisan interest, but rather because he foresees a quickening of political interest and a stimulus to political competition for the entire nation in the more keenly competitive alignment expected to develop from the history-making results south of the Potomac.

It is no secret among Republicans that a major aim of the campaign strategy was to crack the "Solid South." Hoover himself gave considerable attention to that part of the campaign, appealing for the abandonment of sectional political thinking in three campaign utterances.

Hoover's friends repudiate charges from Democratic sources, made in the thick of the battle, that the Republican appeal in the South was in fact an exploitation of the sectionalism against which Republican leaders inveighed in their public declarations.

It is because he believes that the Republican victory in Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas is based upon the solid rock foundation of bonafide new interests in the South, rather than upon the quicksands of sectionalism, that Hoover sees the results in these states as political weather vanes of more than passing interest.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Organization of a new bandit chasing squad composed of 300 policemen, divided into 12 units, was being effected today, pursuant to orders of Director of Public Safety Harry C. Davis.

The squad will be equipped with automobiles, motorcycles, shot guns and machine guns.

KNOW ROTHSTEIN SLAYER; 2,000 SLEUTHS HUNT HIM

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—District Attorney Joab H. Banton declared today that the identity of Arnold Rothstein's slayer has been known to the police for 24 hours, and that 2,000 detectives are at this moment combing New York for him, and guarding all exits from the city.

The District Attorney declined to supply any hint as to the identity of the suspect. Asked if the man was a friend or former associate of the slain gambler, Banton said: "I cannot answer that question at this time."

Meanwhile, Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris made known that an autopsy on Rothstein's body had revealed the gambler was shot while sitting down, bearing out the theory that he was attacked unawares, possibly while playing poker or discussing with his creditors his enormous stud poker debts.

It was understood that in addition to Rothstein's attorney, Maurice Cantor, the District Attorney was to question members of the gambler's family and other intimates of Rothstein in the hope of determining whether any "death bed" statements had been made naming the slayer.

Jimmy Meehan, ex-convict and notorious gambler, who had been sought for several days for questioning, was reported to have voluntarily appeared at the District Attorney's office today. He already has been interviewed by police, who located him during the night.

Meehan is reported to have described Rothstein as a man who "could win a million easily," but "squawked when he had to pay any losses." It was the "squawk" over paying his last debts that police believed caused Rothstein to be murdered.

It was reported that Meehan had ridiculed the theory Rothstein had been slain in his last poker game at the Park Central Hotel.

The gambler said, it was reported, that those at his final game "had more to gain by letting Rothstein live."

Asked if he would take the case before the grand jury immediately, District Attorney Banton said it was not his policy until an arrest had been made.

WANTS SMITH TO RUN IN '32

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Albert S. Burleson, postmaster general under President Wilson, expressed regret that Alfred E. Smith had announced he would not run for public office again and said otherwise he would favor the New York Governor for the presidential nomination in 1932.

Apparently the teachings of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson have been forgotten by the southern people," Burleson said.

"The result of Tuesday's election is very disappointing to one who understands the fundamental principles of his party and knows why he is a Democrat," he said.

"Religious freedom, state's rights and honesty in public office are to be treated as inconsequential issues and ignored. Religious bigotry and hate, frequently hiding in a cowardly way behind the Volstead act, seem to have controlled.

"I regret that Gov. Smith announces his retirement. Otherwise, I would favor his nomination in 1932. His candor, his courage and his masterly conduct of the campaign command the admiration and approval of his party associates."

Perryopolis Coal Mine Is Sold

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The W. J. Rainey Company last night announced completion of a transaction whereby it purchased the No. 21 mine of the Jamison Coal and Coke Company. The plant, including about 80 acres of coal land, is located at Perryopolis. The purchase price was not disclosed.

WARREN WORTH BAILEY IS DEAD IN JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 9.—Warren Worth Bailey, 73, militant editor of the Johnstown Democrat and former Congressman, died today at his home here. His health had been failing for the last few months, although he continued to write editorials for his newspaper.

Mr. Bailey purchased the Democrat in 1893 and was its editor and publisher for the remainder of his days. In 1912 he was elected to Congress and re-elected in 1914.

Mr. Bailey had been ill about six weeks, although his condition did not become serious until last Monday. He had suffered several heart attacks.

Mr. Bailey was a prominent Pennsylvania Democrat. He was elected to Congress in 1912, representing the Blair, Cambria and Bedford county district, and was re-elected in 1914. He was defeated for the seat in 1916, 1924 and 1926.

In 1924 Mr. Bailey contested the election of his Republican opponent, Anderson H. Walters, publisher of the Johnstown Tribune, but his contest was thrown out after months of investigation.

The former Congressman and his brother, Homer Bailey, purchased the Carlisle (Ind.) Democrat in 1877 and later sold that publication to purchase the Vincennes (Ind.) News. The News was sold and Mr. Bailey went to Chicago, where he was an editorial writer on the Chicago News. He also was employed by the Chicago Evening Mail. In 1893 he came to Johnstown and acquired control of the Democrat.

Mr. Bailey was born on January 8, 1855, in Hendricks county, Ind. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Faught Bailey.

He is survived by his widow and two children, all residents of Johnstown.

East McKeesport Road Opens Today

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Dates for the opening of three new sections of state highways were announced yesterday by the department of highways. A stretch of concrete roadway over three and a half miles long between Clymer and Dixonville, Indiana county, recently was opened to traffic and a half mile of concrete in East McKeesport, Allegheny county, will be thrown open today. Traffic will be permitted on the third section, two miles of concrete between Hamburg, Strausstown and Lebanon, in Berks county, on November 14.

COUNTY RUSHES 1929 BUDGETS

Indications are that County Commissioners will begin work on the 1929 budget early this year. County Controller Robert G. Woodside has completed the budget for general county offices earlier this year than in many years past.

A decrease in requests amounting to over $212,000 is shown in the budget for next year. Controller Woodside shaved the requests down so fine that only absolute necessities for maintaining the offices were allowed to stand.

Director Norman F. Brown, public works department, is at work on the budget for his department. This budget is about completed. It will be submitted to Commissioners when finished.

Authority to advertise for the printing of the budget submitted by Woodside was granted today by Commissioners.

RADIO COMMISSION POWER TESTED IN COURT CASE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Litigation affecting the entire future of radio was set in motion today when WGY, Schenectady station of the General Electric Company, was given a hearing on an application for an injunction restraining the Federal Radio Commission from putting into effect its recent reallocation orders.

If the station wins its case and prevents the radio commission from curtailing its power, more than a hundred of the "little fellows" also affected by the commission order, will follow in its trail.

If the big station loses its suit other opposition to the commission's mandates will be unlikely.

DOCTOR'S DIVORCED WIFE WANTS ALIMONY

Mrs. Julia Blair Jenny, Cathedral Mansions, divorced wife of Dr. Thomas G. Jenny, prominent Pittsburgh physician, filed suit in Common Pleas Court today to collect alimony which she charges the physician has neglected to pay her during the last six months.

The couple, married in 1911, were divorced in Reno on May 8, this year, and an award of $200 a month alimony was made to Mrs. Jenny by the Reno court. The divorce was granted Mrs. Jenny, who went to Reno to contest divorce action instigated against her by Dr. Jenny.

In his suit Dr. Jenny charged his wife with "being unreasonably jealous." He first went from Pittsburgh to Reno to establish a residence there, prior to filing his suit in October, 1927.

Testimony taken during the Reno proceedings have been introduced in the divorced wife's suit to collect back alimony by her attorney, Harry Weisberger. This testimony brings in the name of "the other woman," whom it names as Mrs. Frances Kramer. The woman, according to the testimony, called Dr. Jenny her "daddy darling" and he reciprocated with "baby."

Mrs. Jenny, according to the testimony, said that she overheard a telephone conversation between Dr. Jenny and Mrs. Kramer, reported in the testimony as follows, with Mrs. Kramer as the speaker:

"Hello, darling, I could hardly wait till morning, sweetheart, so I thought I would call you tonight."

This conversation took place upon the doctor's arrival home from a Florida trip, it is testified.

The testimony also states that Mrs. Jenny saw the husband kiss Mrs. Kramer goodby in the Pennsylvania Station prior to the start of a Southern trip. The physician, it states, boarded the train with his wife and then excused himself for a moment. And from the railroad car window Mrs. Jenny saw what she saw.

Testimony filed in the alimony suit makes up a record of over 100 pages.

Dr. Jenny maintains offices at Penn and Negley avenues.

It was a happy day in Aspinwall for the children when of their own accord they "canceled" school for a day and paraded. The occasion was Aspinwall voters' settlement at the polls of a long-discussed question: Should $80,000 be authorized in two bond issues, one for the borough and one for the school board, to erect a municipal playground? Voters thought $80,000 should.

FIRST WELFARE FUND CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED

Beginning its first campaign amid unexampled enthusiasm, the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh, newest of federated philanthropical financing organizations of the country, started on its career in a mass meeting in the William Penn Hotel last night. Today thousands of workers enrolled in the Welfare Fund's country-wide canvass will launch their campaign to raise $965,679 for the 1929 budgets of 25 social service agencies serving the Pittsburgh district.

Before a gathering that crowded the hotel ballroom, Augustus K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund and chairman of the campaign, declared that the organization made no claims toward being a community chest and urged the workers to make it plain to the people that the 25 organizations that had adopted the central financing plan similar to community chests in other cities made no claims beyond their effort to work for economy and efficient business methods.

William J. Shroder, chairman of th budget committee of the Cincinnati community chest, explained the operation of the co-eperative plan in that city and won demonstrations of approval when he stated that whereas organizations working independently were obliged to pay an average of 15 per cent of their receipts to cover solicitation expenses, the Cincinnati community chest had expended not more than 3 per cent in expenses in a period covering several years, during which $14,000,000 was collected.

COMPARED WITH BUSINESS

Financing welfare work, he said, is comparable with any business enterprise in which production, sales and distribution must be co-ordinated in order to achieve success. Business methods applied to the problems of the community were just as necessary, he declared. "Without good housing, healthful ...itions, the proper care of chil...n and the safeguarding of fam...y life, he asserted, a community ...s saddled with liabilities which hinder its progress, and without co-operation of agencies the hindrance is greater.

Miss Sophie Levin, director of the campaign, and Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund, gave final directions for the workers in the trade groups and the house-to-house canvass. In the ...ry canvass, which has been ...during the last week, ... Oliver announced that ...ions had been received ...viduals in amounts ranging from $350 to $25,000 each. The meeting was under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Dilworth, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The entertainment hit of the dinner was the production of a one-act play, "Brass Tacks," by Duffie R. West, sponsored by the Pittsburgh center of the Drama League, and given under the direction of Mrs. Lane Thompson. With keen good humor the comedy pointed the way toward the advantages of co-operative giving and was of particular interest because it had been localized to Pittsburgh scenes and at the present time. The players were Mrs. Henry E. Cole, Miss Dorothy Husted, Chester B. Story, David Colman and William C. Roe, Jr.

Preceding the dinner an exhibit of the work of the various organizations in the Welfare Fund was displayed in the reception room of the hotel, arranged by Mrs. Frances Speer Reed, of the Pittsburgh chapter of the Red Cross. Beginning Tuesday a series of daily luncheon meetings will be held at the William Penn where the team captains will make their reports. On Thursday evening a rally of the workers in the house-to-house canvass will be held in Carnegie Music Hall.

Henry Oliver Evans will address a meeting in Clifton School, Upper St. Clair township, where an entertainment and motion picture exhibition will be given for the instruction of district workers under Mrs. W. G. Kaufmann, chairman. At the same time the Welfare Fund will sponsor a dual station radio entertainment over WCAE and KDKA.

ROOSEVELT HAS 25,000 LEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—With one district still unreported Franklin D. Roosevelt today appeared to have been elected Governor of New York State by over 25,000 votes.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger, the Republican nominee, still refuses to concede the election, believing a checkup of the totals would show him a winner by a narrow margin.

Errors found in the unofficial compilation, however, have added to Mr. Roosevelt's total. A recheck of the returns in the borough of Richmond, New York City, added 3,455 to the Roosevelt plurality; in Suffolk County, 731, and in Oswego County, 405; in Oneida County Ottinger gained 1,670. The lone missing district is in New York City.

The revised state figures compiled by the Associated Press give Roosevelt 2,120,151; Ottinger, 2,094,867, a plurality for Roosevelt of 25,284. Roosevelt carried New York City by 405,512.

Both Gov. Smith and the Secretary of State have taken steps to secure an orderly and speedy official count. The governor telegraphed sheriffs to expedite the returns and the Bureau of Elections sent instructions to its county boards to "guard to the limit" all official ballots and tally sheets of Tuesday's election.

The boards of canvassers are to meet throughout the state Tuesday to canvass the returns. The contral official canvass at Albany will be made December 1.

Believing his election certain, Roosevelt prepared to leave for Warm Springs, Ga.

With Mr. Roosevelt apparently elected, it appeared that he had carried with him all others on the state ticket except Albert Conway, the Democratic nominee for attorney general. Leonard C. Crouch, also appeared to have lost his race for associate judge of the Court of Appeals, to Irving G. Hubbs, the Republican nominee.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR WELFARE FUND AID

Mayor Charles H. Kline, today issued a proclamation urging Pittsburghers to support the men and women who have volunteered their services in the first campaigning, between November 12 and 22, for the Welfare Fund.

The purpose of the fund is to assist in the co-operative financing of 25 philanthropic organizations as the first step toward united support of the community's social service agencies, the Mayor stated.

No distinctions of race, color or creed are drawn in the activities of the organization composing the Welfare Fund. The fund will minister to the needs of all unfortunates with finances collected in this single appeal which is made only once a year, Mayor Kline declared.

TWO HUNTERS WOUNDED

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 9.—Two hunting accidents, both the result of shotguns accidentally discharged by companions, occurred in Venango county woods late yesterday.

Robert C. Singleton, 35, living near Cooperstown, was seriously wounded in the head when a gun carried by another hunter went off prematurely. The wound may prove fatal.

"Banjo" Coleman, 40, was seriously wounded in the face and one arm by buckshot from a gun in the hands of Pete Mulholland. They were hunting near Carlton, when the accident occurred.

FIVE MORE MAY DIE OF BLAST BURNS

INFLAMMABLE VAPORS ARE BLAMED; TOLL IS 17

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9.—A vigorous investigation was under way today to determine the cause and fix the blame for the disastrous fire and explosion that took a toll of 17 lives, including a mother and her five children, and destroyed a factory and five dwelling houses here.

Ten other persons were so badly burned that physicians today held out little hope of recovery for more than five of them.

State experts declared after a cursory investigation that the disaster was caused by the ignition of vapors from highly inflammable liquids used by the Preble Eaton Box Toe Company, occupants of the burned building, in the construction of toe pieces for shoes.

Nearly an entire family was wiped out by the fire that destroyed their home. Mrs. Lillian Blaney and her five children, all of them under 10 years of age, were burned to death. Only two members of the family, the father and a young son, escaped.

Many dramatic and heroic rescues were effected by firemen and volunteers, in saving human torches, and rescuing bodies from the ravaging tongues of flame.

Meanwhile Lynn is in mourning for its dead, and Mayor Ralph C. Bauer has called upon State Fire Marshal George C. Neal to make a thorough investigation and to revoke all permits for plants handling inflammable materials within 500 yards of residences. It was learned that 15 drums of alcohol and seven of benzine had been stored in the plant, in addition to a large quantity of celluloid.

Following the first explosion there was a series of blasts in rapid They tore out the footste walls and released a eet of flames. This wall trated the Blaney home. The Blaney family was at breakfast when the disaster occurred.

The fire spread to five other residences with amazing rapidity. The entire fire department of the city was almost powerless in the face of the fiercely burning alcohol and celluloid, but after a hard fight got the flames under control.

Six of the dead factory employes were found in the ruins of the building. Another, a truck driver, who had just stopped in front of the door at the instant of the explosion, was found dead beside the remains of his machine. He had jumped, but had been unable to get clear of the terrible leaping tongue of fire.

The dead are:

Mrs. Lillian Blaney, 40; Thelma, Blaney, 6; Helen Blaney, 8; Arthur Blaney, 10; Harriet Blaney, 6 months; Vivian Blaney, 4; Lewis E. Puffer, factory superintendent; Percy A. Smith, 32; John E. Wilson, 25; Joseph J. McCarthy, 17; Everett Lewis, Alfred Harris, 29, colored; William Clements, 22, colored; John Crowder, 20, colored, and Charles Mitchell, 22, colored.

Tube Mill Veteran Killed by Blast

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 9.—Clarence Wigging, 35, was killed at the plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company when a charge of dynamite exploded prematurely. He had been with the company for over 20 years.

MYSTERY VEILS DEATH OF MAN IN STREET

Brought to Mercy Hospital as the victim of a hit-run motorist, a man believed to be Robert McDonald, 36, of Cable place, Oakland, died from what morgue attaches claim to be the effects of carbon monoxide. An investigation is being conducted today to locate the motorist who took the man to the hospital.

The victim was found last night at Fifth avenue and Dinwiddie street and, according to police, there are witnesses who saw him struck by an automobile that failed to stop. The person who took the victim to the hospital did not leave his name. His license number was obtained.

At the county morgue Dr. J. M. McMeans, coroner's physician, performed an autopsy and declared that there were no indications of the man having been hit by an automobile. A test showed that the man had died from carbon monoxide, Dr. McMeans said. Deputy coroners today also will attempt to have the body further identified.

Killed in Nitro-Glycerine Blast

ARTESIA, N. M., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—R. L. Carr, superintendent of the New Mexico Nitro-Glycerine Company, was killed yesterday when 600 quarts of the explosive, carried in a truck he was driving, blew up. An automobile hub cap and two bits of Carr's clothing, besides a huge crater in the road, were left to mark the spot where the accident occurred.

METRO PLAN AMENDMENT RUNS AHEAD IN STATE

use of voting machines, and Number 14, which would permit Pittsburgh and Allegheny county to consolidate.

Of these four, the voting machine proposition has a lead of 230,000.

BOND ISSUES LAG

All the bond issue amendments are running behind. The one proposing a loan of $8,000,000 to State College for buildings and equipments, which received a setback in Philadelphia to the extent of 30,000 votes, is 31,000 behind a majority. This amendment has been picking up votes as further counties came in, and its advocates have not given up hope that it may win.

The welfare bond issue is running 85,000 behind and the bond issue for highways is 120,000 in the rear.

Unofficial returns have been received from 43 counties, the totals so far in hand being:

No.	Yes	No.
1—State printing	168,041	407,284
2—State College	324,859	355,951
3—Forestry	224,105	383,250
4—Armories	120,775	413,636
5—Inheritance taxes	253,303	369,488
6—Election districts	219,716	250,753
7—Pittsburgh assessment	238,234	299,823
8—Second class city debt	251,114	288,927
9—Roads	248,588	368,879
10—Welfare	257,138	342,542
11—Philadelphia debt	232,731	276,093
12—Non-resident taxes	284,104	232,936
13—Voting machines	440,169	210,984
14—Greater Pittsburgh	265,548	249,357

BACK VOTE MACHINES

Many of the so-called organization wards of Pittsburgh gave large majorities to the voting machine amendment, additional returns tabulated today indicated. The support in such districts is regarded as due to the orders issued by W. L. Mellon and other Republican leaders.

Additional Allegheny county returns on the 14 proposed amendments failed to change the results as announced in the Sun Telegraph yesterday. The voting machine amendment received the highest majority, with the metropolitan district proposal and the amendment that will permit a reduction in the number of voting precincts following in the order named.

The proposal to increase the possible indebtedness of Pittsburgh from 7 to 10 per cent seems to have passed by a comparatively small majority. The vote on the benefit assessment plan, which would permit the assessment of non-abutting property to pay for public improvements, was close, although complete returns from the city wards may show that was approved. The amendment that would permit reciprocity with other states in granting tax exemption was approved here.

All of the bond issue proposals seem to have been defeated, the $8,000,000 bond issue for State College running better than the others. Returns from 739 of the 1,427 county districts gave:

Sour Stomach

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

EXPERT ADVICE DENIED TO M'GOVERN

A request made by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern that a real estate expert be appointed by his colleagues to advise him on property damage claims filed against the county, was denied when County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock yesterday refused to go along and sanction the appointment.

"We have two real estate experts now whose duties are to see that the damage claims are right," Commissioner Armstrong said. "I can't see why another should be employed."

"They are your representatives," McGovern replied. Commissioner Armstrong denied the experts were his appointments. "They were working for the county before I became a commissioner," said the chairman.

Commissioner McGovern averred that if he was to vote intelligently on property claims, he should be advised properly.

4 ADRIFT AT SEA SAVED

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The fate of a phosphate-laden barge, which its tug was forced to abandon a week ago, was cleared up here yesterday when a coast guard cutter landed four survivors, who told how their captain and one shipmate perished when it sank off the Florida coast.

The men had drifted for a week in a small boat without food and water. They were picked up Tuesday by a fishing smack 20 miles off Fernanda, Fla. They were landed there, fed and clothed and then brought here.

Capt. C. S. Bolt, of Moss Point, Miss., and C. Howard, of Wilmington, N. C., a member of the crew, were drowned, and the others took to the barge's only life boat.

For fear of capsizing the craft, they said they cast away their meager provisions and drifted until the fishermen rescued them. They said they signaled several craft, but none saw their plight.

Two days ago a search for the barge was abandoned by coast guard vessels.

The survivors are Rossie Williams, of Wilmington, N. C.; Thomas Ringe, of the British West Indies; Adrian Casey, Mobile, Ala., and Booker T. Little, Mount Taple, N. C.

The Men's Shop Offers

Fleece Overcoats

Fleece is the perfect overcoating—that is, the fleece fabric from which Horne Overcoats are made. It has the big, luxurious feel that men like for cold weather, yet it is deceivingly light in poundage, it is soft and downy to the touch, and it WEARS as well as any hard-finished overcoating (a feature that makes it outstanding).

Single-breasted with raglan sleeves; single- and double-breasted with set-in sleeves. Blue, light gray or oxford.

"Horne Fifty" Suits

Three classes of men make up the large army of wearers of "Horne Fifty" Suits: (1) men holding appearance the prime consideration; (2) those figuring a suit's value in terms of dollar-for-dollar wear; and (3) those putting equal weight on both. Quite natural, considering the effort we have made to make "Horne Fifties" the smartest, best tailored, best wearing suits that can possibly be sold for $50.

ALBANY WELCOMES SMITH LIKE CONQUERING HERO

By RAYMOND I. BORST,
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Gov. Al Smith was back home in the executive mansion today, tired but far from downhearted.

He returned to Albany last night more like a conquering hero than a defeated candidate for President. More than 10,000 Albanians cheered the Governor from the time he emerged from the Union Station until he set foot on the expansive veranda of the mansion.

It was the most enthusiastic demonstration Albany has ever given Gov. Smith. It even surpassed the tribute paid him by Albanians on that night last June when he was nominated for the presidency by the Democratic national convention at Houston.

The Governor started to ride to the mansion in an automobile, but the crowd broke through the police lines and blocked his machine. The police were dumbfounded. They didn't know what to do, but the Governor came to their rescue. He jumped out of his machine and started to walk along the street with the crowd to the cheers of "Atta boy, Al."

When the governor finally stood on the mansion veranda and told the crowd how glad he was to be back in Albany, tears came to his eyes.

"I shall never forget Albany," he told the crowd that jammed every bit of space on the mansion lawn. "No matter where I go, I'll always remember the people of Albany."

It was plain that the governor was having a hard time to express his appreciation of the reception given to him, a defeated candidate. He cleared his throat and continued.—

"Albany is not so many miles from New York, but I can return here and will, with gratitude, to receive the warm sympathy and neighborliness of the people of Albany."

Indicted, But Negro Wins Election

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(I N S.)—Oscar de Priest, Negro, under indictment on charges of sponsoring and protecting vice and gambling in Negro wards in Chicago, was elected to succeed the late Martin B. Madden, chairman of the appropriations committee of the national House of Representatives, almost complete returns showed here today.

De Priest was the first Negro elected as a Cook county commissioner; was the first Negro elected as an alderman of the city of Chicago and now is the first Negro elected to Congress from a northern state.

While an alderman De Priest was indicted as a collector and disburser of graft for police protection for gambling and disorderly houses. He has again been indicted, this time by the special grand jury investigating the alliance between crime and politics. His trial is pending.

Weather Conditions.

The barometer is low in the far Northeast and over the Northwest, while over much the greater portion of the country it is relatively high. A high pressure area is centered over the upper Mississippi valley, highest barometer, 30.36 inches, at Madison, and another over Utah and Western Colorado, highest barometer, 30.36, at Grand Junction, and 30.34, at Salt Lake City.

There is considerable cloudiness in the Lake region, the Ohio Valley states, and the upper Mississippi Valley states, and it is raining at a few places in the central plains. There was a marked drop in temperature since yesterday east of the Mississippi, elsewhere the temperature changes were slight.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.7 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.6, and Dam No. 6, 7.5. The dams are up.

DEPENDABILITY!

The McCulloch reputation for dependability has carried forward this chain of Service Stores to the point where it is well and favorably known not alone in Greater Pittsburgh . . . not alone in Pennsylvania . . . but indeed throughout the nation.

DEPENDABILITY!

It takes years of earnest, conscientious endeavor to build a reputation for dependability—it cannot be bought in open market like a commodity.

Before long when all the McCulloch Stores are succeeded in NAME as they are now in ownership, by DOW'S, then one of the priceless ingredients of the transition will be DEPENDABILITY.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Her So Much

Cleveland, Ohio.—"I sure recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman in the condition I was in. I was so weak and run-down that I could hardly stand up. I could not eat and was full of misery. A friend living on Arcade Avenue told me about this medicine and after taking ten bottles my weakness and nervousness are all gone. I feel like living again. I am still taking it until I feel strong like before. You may use this letter as a testimonial."—MRS. ELIZABETH TOSO, 14913 Halo Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

"BIG WHOOPEE" FOR HOOVER IN HOME TOWN

BIRTHPLACE OF WINNER HOLDS CELEBRATION

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Herbert Hoover's home folks in this quiet Quaker village, where the president-elect was born, rejoiced in his election to the presidency with the noisiest celebration the village has ever known.

The men and women who knew him as a boy, the doctor who attended him as a baby, the women who taught him in school, and the townspeople generally, participated.

From all about the county came these folks who helped mold the character of the boy who was to become America's chief executive. They released their feelings in a noisy parade that wound up in the front yard of the old Hoover homestead and then listened while speakers praised the president-elect.

There are only 800 persons who call West Branch their home. Three times that number joined in the celebration.

It was early morning yesterday when the joy-making started. Explosions of bombs started the citizens on the noisiest and merriest celebration this Quaker town has known.

The children of the folks with whom Hoover played and studied at the West Branch School were the first to hear the praises of the president-elect. To them Gov. John Hammill and Lieut. Gov. A. W. McFarlane reviewed the early life of Herbert Hoover and compared the opportunities which await them to that of the man who has won the highest office of the land.

Dr. L. J. Leech, the country doctor who was a close friend of Herbert Hoover's family had charge of the ceremony at the home.

The Rev. G. W. Guy, a first cousin of the president-elect and pastor of the Friend's Church here, where Herbert Hoover's mother preached 50 odd years ago, offered prayer. Elizabeth Sinier, of Iowa City, Hoover's first school teacher, and Mrs. Mollie Brown Carran, who taught him during his fourth grade studies, spoke briefly.

Gov. Hammill, to whom the president-elect sent a telegram of appreciation for the support Iowa gave to his candidacy, and Representative Cyrenus Cole, of the Fifth Iowa District, extolled Hoover in addresses delivered at his former home.

One Suspects He Doesn't Like G. O. P. Rule

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 9—Dr. John R. Snell, 87 years old, observed a birthday anniversary yesterday.

He said he believed the "country has gone to hell" and if he doesn't "starve to death" in the next four years "will live to see another Democrat elected President."

"I was born under a Democratic administration," Dr. Snell said, "and damned if I am going to die during a Republican one if I can help it."

LIFE TERM FOR BOY BANDIT

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Robert Collins, 17-year-old bandit, accused of murder in the death of Claude D. Hurt, president of the State Bank at Citronelle, Ala., was found guilty and sentenced to life in the penitentiary.

His counsel announced there would be no appeal.

Collins was indicted jointly with Jack Jarvis, now under death sentence.

Collins, Jarvis and Willie Hanson on July 14 attempted to rob the Citronelle bank. Hurt grappled with Collins and was shot and fatally wounded by Jarvis. Jarvis at the door of the bank shot Hanson so badly that he died several hours later after capture by a posse.

Hanson made a dying statement that Jarvis shot him for bungling the robbery.

Grocer Shot as He Scorns Holdup

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Jacob Krenowitz, 62-year-old grocer, was shot and killed late yesterday in his store on Fifth street when he refused to obey the command of a youthful armed bandit to turn over his money. The killer escaped.

PATIENT CAN SEE AFTER EYE-GRAFT OPERATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Several days ago the dextrous fingers of a surgeon grafted on to the failing eye of Bert Ferguson the cornea of another man's eye, which had been removed because of a tumor.

When the bandages came off yesterday Ferguson could discern objects 10 feet away. The cornea appeared healthy, but doctors said another two or three weeks must pass before they could definitely determine whether it would continue to adhere to the eyeball.

"The transplant is attached; that much we know," said Dr. Iago Galdston, of the New York Academy of Medicine's information bureau. "The man has a certain degree of vision he did not have before. He has not normal clarity of vision, but he has better vision than before the operation. The only question now is whether the transplant will continue to adhere and become stronger, or whether it will slough off."

The operation was performed by Dr. Ben Witt Key at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary. It embraced a larger area of tissue than any previous surgical feat of its kind, Dr. Gladston said.

Ferguson has one glass eye and gradually had been losing the sight of the other.

ROAD MEN HELD FOR EXTORTION

MEDIA, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Morris Cantor, of Philadelphia, and Horatio Underwood, of Harrisburg, state highway inspectors, were held in $500 bail each by Justice of the Peace Cooper on a charge of extortion.

A superintendent of the Comerford Construction Company, which has been building a highway near Media, brought the charge against the men, alleging that employes of his company had been harassed and threatened by them.

CHINESE PUT ON TRIAL IN KILLING

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Opening its case with circumstantial evidence before Judges Albert S. J. Owens and George S. Solter in Criminal Court, the state yesterday sought to connect Richard Crinn, a Chinese, with the murder of Lee Suey, a fellow countryman who was found slain in his restaurant on August 20. Two witnesses, Sergt. Edward L. Hitzelberger, of the police, and Helen Johnson, Negro waitress in Suey's place of business, were the only witnesses called.

Chinn, who since his arrest has been held in jail, entered a not guilty plea and elected to stand trial without a jury. He is defended by Robert F. Leach, Jr.

Hitzelberger, the state's first witness, told of seeing Chinn near Suey's place of business about 5:40 p. m. on the day of the slaying, and said that the accused man appeared excited.

He testified that he questioned Chinn, but that the latter said that "nothing was the matter." When arrested the day following discovery of Suey's body, his first statement was to deny any knowledge of the murder, although he was not told for what he was arrested, the policeman testified. He also said that Chinn apparently did not understand questions put to him by police, although he said that he had talked with him many times in English.

The waitress told of finding the body of her slain employer about 7 o'clock in the evening when she entered the restaurant by a side door, having found the front entrance locked. She said that she found Suey's body slumped down in a chair with a wound in the head. The wound, according to physicians who made a postmortem examination, was made with a sharp instrument of the hatchet variety. A blood-stained meat cleaver was found several days after the killing behind an ice box in Suey's place.

The prosecution will continue its case today, with its witnesses expected to occupy the stand the greater part of the day.

Needlework Guild Holds Charity Show

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 9.—The New Castle branch of the Needlework Guild of America presented a display of 3,500 garments at the ballroom of the Castleton. This represented the annual gathering of the local branch and is the greatest in the history of the organization. The articles of clothing will be distributed to various charitable agencies of the city on Friday for distribution among the poor people of the city.

Why suffer longer with this frightful malady? Why spend any more money on expensive treatments, sanitariums and the countless number of so-called "remedies" when such a valuable opportunity as this is offered you FREE?

Let us prove the miraculous merits of our wonderful medicine by sending you a trial at no charge whatever. There's no excuse for you to suffer another day. Write us now, The Volz Company, 11-G Reed Bldg., Erie, Pa. You'll bless the day you read this advertisement!

Every druggist sells Volz Anti-Rheumin or will get it for you if you ask him to.

ELECTROCUTED IN BATHTUB

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Nov. 9. — (INS.) — Electrocuted when the cord of a heater fell into her bathtub, Mrs. Stella Wood Fiske, 62, prominent in Chicago and Santa Barbara social circles, is dead here today. Her sister, Miss Nancy Woginly, tried vainly to save her when attracted by the woman's screams.

PA. BOYS HELD IN W. VA. FOR HOLDUPS

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Confessing to a series of crimes in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland were made to Parkersburg police by Stanley Redziniak, 19, New Kensington, Pa., and Bruce Radcliffe, 19, Donora, Pa., arrested on charges of robbing an automobile service station at West Union.

The youths, in their confessions, admitted participation in a pistol battle with Mt. Pleasant, Pa., police following a jewelry store robbery, and the theft of an automobile in Baltimore. When arrested they were driving an automobile police said was stolen in Ligonier, Pa.

NIGHT AIR MAIL ON KY.-O. LINE

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Regular night flying on the Louisville-Cincinnati-Cleveland air mail route will begin Monday night, according to M. P. Jacomini, president of the Continental Air Lines.

He said the planes would leave Louisville at 7 p. m., arrive at Watson airport here at 8 p. m., leave at 8:20 and arrive at Cleveland at 11:30 p. m., connecting with both east and west bound planes to insure delivery in New York and Chicago the next morning.

SENTENCED ON STRETCHER

WOODBURY, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Bedfast because of a broken hip and several fractured ribs, Howard Johnson, now of Glassboro, N. J., was carried into Gloucester county court house on a stretcher and sentenced to 28 years in the county prison by Judge Swackhamer.

The prisoner received his injuries when he fell 50 feet while attempting to escape from jail. A rope made of a blanket parted and he plunged to the ground below his cell window and was recaptured.

Look out for

-check it with

Listerine

-so powerful against germs

WHEN you get home from a football game, gargle immediately with Listerine full strength. It may spare you a dangerous siege with a cold or sore throat or both.

Listerine attacks the disease germs which get the upper hand when bodily resistance is lowered by exposure and nervous tension accompanying a football game.

Listerine is so powerful against germs that even the virulent B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ is killed by it in 15 seconds. Repeated tests show this.

For your own protection use Listerine after any exposure to cold weather or to crowds.

Let us send you our free book, "Personal Hygiene." Address Department S. 13, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Avoid COLDS this way

Countless colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and lessen the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food.

And now Dow's make their second bow to the public of Greater Pittsburgh. Recently we opened our first store in this city, in a burst of glory. Tomorrow we expect an even more gala opening in our new North Side store at 501 E. Ohio Street, opposite James Street.

Remarkable values prevail—we have fairly outdone ourselves in spreading before the people of this community a host of special values which exceed in generosity any in the history of our many stores throughout the country. Read them carefully; they explain themselves; and take our advice to be here early to avoid the record-breaking crowds that will throng our store later in the day.

Please note two things: (1) In a short time the name McCulloch will be replaced in all the stores by that of the operating organization—DOW'S. (2) These special values, advertised herewith, on sale in the New North Side Store Only.

$1,000 FOR YOUR IDEA--JUST WRITE WINNING AD

TIME GROWS SHORT IN ZAIN TEST; DO IT NOW

It won't be long now until someone, previously without experience in advertising, wins the grand prize of $1,000 cash offered by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the best ad submitted in the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test. Ads competing for the prize must be in by midnight next Thursday, November 15.

The winner of the grand prize may receive a good deal more than $1,000. If his ad should be written about a certain firm it will give him a credit of $1,000 on the purchase of property.

ZAIN AD THINKER

FRANCIS R. CONWAY

Francis R. Conway, letter carrier, has just thought of an idea for an advertisement to be submitted in the $15,000 Zain Ad-Writing Test for amateurs. As he elaborates it in his mind, he jots it down. A grand prize of $1,000 is to be awarded for the best ad. There are other prizes, too.

If it should be written about another firm it will give him a present valued at $500, and there are a number of other ways in which extra prizes may be won.

The winner will be an inexperienced ad writer, because professionals and newspaper employes are barred from the test.

YOU MAY BE THE FORTUNATE ONE.

Even if you should fail to win the $1,000 prize to be awarded by the Sun-Telegraph, you may win one or more of the special prizes offered by co-operating concerns.

THIRTY-NINE CHANCES

There are 39 of these concerns, and the ads must be written about their business, products or service.

Your ad need not be long, and it need not be made up in the form of an ordinary newspaper advertisement. It is your ideas that are sought, and they may be expressed in the way most convenient to you, or the way you think would be most effective. If you like, you may merely write a brief letter, setting forth the selling points of the firm to be advertised or describing the merits of their goods, much as you might tell a friend. A slogan or jingle may be an excellent ad.

Do you belong to a society, club, lodge or other organization that needs money? Why not have the members get together for a few evenings and all write ads for the Zain test, with the understanding that if one of the ads prepared in this way should win the thousand dollars the money will go to the organization?

REAL ENTERTAINMENT

Two heads are better than one, and 50 heads better than two. By getting together in this way and writing numerous ads, then submitting them to all the members for criticism and improvement, you should succeed in turning out some very creditable advertisements. In any event you will spend pleasant evenings at this pastime. Zain Ad-Test parties furnish splendid entertainment. Try writing Zain ads as a substitute for bridge, dancing and listening to the radio.

Laird's, the shoe dealers at 622 Liberty avenue and 215 Oliver avenue, always have something new to show. Their children's department, on the third floor, is a spacious and pleasant department to bring children ranging in age from the cradle to the college. There is an amusement section where the children are entertained while mother finishes the shopping.

Visit the Gainaday electric washer display room in the Jenkins Arcade, and at 6104 Penn avenue, East End, or at any Gainaday dealer's, before you write an advertisement for this splendid washing machine.

INTERESTS WOMEN

Women as well as men will find a visit to Bennett's interesting. The J. G. Bennett Company, dealers in men's wear and furnishings, at 443 Wood street, has for a slogan "Bennett Means Best." The truth of the slogan will be vouched for by all persons well informed on the subject.

Max Azen's fur store at 708 Penn avenue has been established for more than a quarter of a century, and the firm's reputation for good values and honest dealing has now reached the highest pinnacle.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also in the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH PA.

Rules for Sun-Telegraph-Zain $15,000 Ad Test

1—Ads submitted for the grand prize of $1,000 must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize, contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

2—One person may submit any number of ads.

3—Write only one ad on one piece of paper. Place name of advertiser at top. Sign YOUR name and address plainly on BACK of each sheet. Also on the flap of each envelope. SEND TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

4—Ads are to become property of advertiser to use in any manner he sees fit. No ads returned. No subscriptions necessary. No blanks to sign. No entrance fee required. No coupons to clip. All professional ad writers and newspaper employes barred.

(Copyright, 1928, P. S. S.)

SPECIAL PRIZES

For the best ad written this week about their firm, the W. M. Laird Shoe Company will give the choice of merchandise to the value of ten dollars.

The following special prizes, in addition to the $15,000 in prizes originally announced, are offered in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Zain Ad-Test:

THE LEWIN-NEIMAN COMPANY, 305 Smithfield street, will give two special prizes of merchandise certificates worth $25 each for the two best ads of this period. The winning ads must be written on Lewin-Neiman Company stationery, which must be asked for in person at the wrapping desk, women's coat department, second floor.

CRUIKSHANK BROS. offer one case of "Cru-Bro" Jelly (4 doz.) for each of the five best ads submitted this period, as selected by this concern.

If the $1,000 grand prize ad be written about the GENERAL HOMES CORPORATION, this firm will give to the winner $1,000 on the purchase price of a home in Marshall Manor, Brighton road and Marshall avenue.

JOHNSON VOTE POWER TRUST REBUKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 9.—California, by the magnitude of the vote with which it has returned Hiram W. Johnson to the United States Senate, has issued perhaps the most stinging public rebuke yet administered to the national power trust.

This became apparent as belated totals from all parts of the state sent the senior Senator's vote in Tuesday's general election beyond the 1,000,000 mark and his majority over Minor Moore, his Democratic opponent, beyond the 800,000 mark.

The impressiveness of the Johnson victory was hailed everywhere throughout California as an open challenge by an aroused electorate to the power trust which Johnson has so long and so vigorously fought in the Senate.

Johnson, it appeared probable, will poll a greater popular vote even than did Herbert Hoover in his astounding sweep of the state for the presidency.

111TH REUNION SATURDAY

A three-day reunion of the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry of the Twenty-eighth Division will open tomorrow in the Albert J. Logan armory. The ladies' auxiliary of the organization will observe ladies' night in the armory Sunday night. A banquet in the Elks Temple, Duquesne way, tomorrow night will feature the first day's program. Members will participate in the Armistice Day parade.

AH!

Epsom Salts Now Like Lemonade!

All the splendid physic-action of a dose of epsom salts without the awful taste and nausea. "Esponade Salts" is real epsom salts combined with fruit derivatives, giving it the taste of sparkling lemonade. Try it when bilious, headachy or constipated. Generous bottle costs but little at any drug store. Don't merely ask for "tasteless epsom salts" or you may get a soda imitation. Always ask for "Esponade Salts" and look for the name, American Epsom Association.

TORAL GUILTY OF KILLING OBREGON

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—Jose de Leon Toral, who assissinated President-elect Alvaro Obregon, must die for the crime and Abbess Maria Concepcion de la Llata, the nun accused of inciting the assassination, must serve 20 years in prison.

The verdict of guilty was returned by the jury in the little courthouse at San Angel, near Mexico City, last evening after deliberations lasting one hour and 40 minutes. Both Toral and the nun took the sentences with stoicism that characterized their conduct throughout the trial.

When Judge Aznar pronounced the sentences, Toral arose and requested an opportunity to speak. This was refused him. Abbess Concepcion did not make such request. She refused even to address the jury just before it retired to consider its verdict. Toral, however, addressed the jurors briefly, though he stated nothing that had not already been placed before the jury.

The final session in the trial of the two was devoted to the arguments of counsel to the jury. The defense was often interrupted by members of the crowd in the court room, so that the chief counsel for Toral, Attorney Sodi, finally told the judge he could not go on.

Meanwhile, outside the court house, the crowd kept shouting: "Death to Sodi, Toral and Concepcion!"

This was continued from the time the court convened in the morning until the death sentence was pronounced.

The pronouncement of the sentences was greeted with vociferous applause.

Owing to the threats of death against the accused, and defense counsel, special precautions were taken by the authorities to prevent any outbreaks. Gendarmes were posted at every available point inside the building, and in addition guards were stationed on the roof and in front of the entrance to the court house.

Sodi had voiced the hope that Mother Concepcion would be convicted with Toral, since it was doubted if the nun would get out of the court room alive if acquitted.

The Abbess was a tragic figure of resignation and despair during the final court session. She sat with folded hands and downcast eyes, and her face was deathly pale.

The defense was given five days to file appeals. Failing this, the execution of Toral and the beginning of the prison sentence by the Abbess Concepcion will take place immediately as the final act in the dramatic murder of the former president-elect.

2 More Held in Atlanta Slaying

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Paul Seymour and Robert B. Pettit, both 19, were placed in jail tonight on a blanket charge of suspicion after they had made statements pertaining to the death of Paul Hulme, 16-year old Tech high school student, who was found mysteriously slain last Saturday.

Eight Weeks in Pittsburgh and the Prophecy's Coming True

WELL, sir, we've been making STRIDES! How many men in Pittsburgh knew anything about Howard Clothes, eight weeks ago? Perhaps you were one of many who said "Just another brand of clothes," when we moved in and hung out our shingle. But you notice, in that first announcement of ours that "Every 14th man you meet wears Howard Clothes?" That's in the Eastern cities, where we're well known.

Now, you know and we know that Quality is bound to tell. If Howard buys better fabrics, takes more pains with the tailoring, makes the metropolitan models instead of old-fogey, YOU'RE GOING TO FIND THAT OUT! As a matter of fact, several thousand Pittsburgh men have already found it out, and they're sending their friends in. It's time you investigated. Find out what real values are! Won't be long now — we'll be saying it about Pittsburgh—"Every 14th man you meet wears Howard Clothes."

Soon—An Even Greater New York Factory

If you know any clothing men, ask them about the remarkable growth of the Howard organization. Reads like a chapter in Horatio Alger. And what did it? Simply the determination of a conscientious maker of good clothes to take a smaller profit and keep up the quality—that same Quality so many talk about and so few can show you. But you'll find it in Howard Clothes. Before long we'll be moving our New York factory into huge new quarters—to take care of the tremendously increased demand — and that building will be a monument to Quality!

The 7 Howard Extras Read Them Again!

first: Tailored in our New York factory from 100% tested all-wool woolens.
second: Howard Satin coat lining replaced if it wears out in two years.
third: Howard Tuxedo includes a ribbed, flowered or figured silk vest.
fourth: Fifty per cent of all Howard Suits have two pairs of trousers.
fifth: Sizes up to 50 stout, and alterations free if you need them.
sixth: Fine imported heavy linen canvas and non-pull haircloth used.
seventh: Howard guarantees a full refund if you're not satisfied.

A Letter From Freddy Ross, the Actor

You know how particular actors are about their clothes. Read what Mr. Ross of the famous vaudeville team of Ross and Leddy has to say:

"Gentlemen: I'm not much on writing, but feel it my duty to thank you for the wonderful clothes you sold me. Have never been more satisfied with my suits and never have had more suits in my trunk. I used to pay $40 and $50 for one suit. I can get two for that price at your store. And when it comes to Alterations, the man you call Pete certainly puts on the finishing touches. I never got more service in buying an automobile from General Motors. Want to thank you for the way you have treated all my friends. With very best wishes, FREDDY ROSS."

TIDE HOLDS 1,300 ABOARD LEVIATHAN ALL NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Held at anchor within sight of her pier all night by a powerful ebb tide, the giant liner Leviathan docked early this morning and 1,300 annoyed passengers poured ashore.

The Leviathan's bow was almost against her pier for hours but Commodore H. A. Cunningham considered it too hazardous to move his ship. AAt 4 a. m., when the tide turned, the great ship reversed propellors and slowly slid into her berth.

Three hours later the first of the passengers started to leave. Many were indignant at having to pass the night aboard, missing connecting trains and engagements. Some 1,200 relatives and friends who had waited on the pier for weary hours, were back this morning, showing traces of lost sleep.

Charleroi "Bookie" Given Jail Term

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—Walter Urban, of Charleroi, was sentenced to serve four months in the county jail when he pleaded guilty before Judge James I. Brownson to conducting a bookmaker business at his pool room in Charleroi. It is the first case of the kind in Washington county in many years. A suit against J. G. Albright, Urban's partner, was not pressed.

Webster Ave. Man Found Dead in Cellar

The body of John Donnely, 65, of 1824 Webster avenue, was found in the cellar of a building at 1803 Linton street, last night by police. The coroner's report attributes death to acute alcoholism.

RAISE FUND FOR MAN SHOT BY LAVERY

The shooting of Stanley J. Brosky, 26, Saturday evening in Oakland by Precinct Detective Joseph (Bozo) Lavery, has raised keen interest in the Oakland Board of Trade and business men.

Brosky, clerk for six years in the Oakland station of the Pittsburgh Postoffice, with a friend, was sitting in his brother's automobile on Oakland avenue, when the policeman shot him.

The board of trade besides passing a resolution condemning the action of Detective Lavery appointed a committee to appear before Council and seek financial relief for the seriously wounded postal clerk, who is the main support of an invalid brother.

In the meantime individual members of the board started a fund with $50 which was placed on deposit in the Oakland Savings and Trust Company and are appealing to other business men to contribute to the "Brosky Fund."

Joseph Rosenblatt, superintendent of the Oakland station, a member of the board, said at the board meeting that Brosky was one of the most efficient clerks under him.

Brosky is in Homeopathic Hospital suffering from a wound caused by the bullet passing through his side, puncturing his right lung and shattering his breast bone. At the time of the shooting Brosky was waiting for his brother, Frank Brosky, assistant engineer at the Hotel Schenley. Lavery said he mistook him for an automobile thief. Brosky said the shooting occurred after he showed the detective his driver's license.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

ROOSEVELT THANKS GA.

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Maj. John S. Cohen, Democratic national committeeman from Georgia, today made public a telegram from Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor-elect of New York expressing his gratification that the people of Georgia, which he calls his "other state," demonstrated their loyalty to Democracy in Tuesday's election.

Mr. Roosevelt, who expects to leave New York tomorrow for his home in Warm Springs, Ga., telegraphed Maj. Cohen as follows:

"Please tell the people of Georgia, my other state, that I am proud of the splendid way in which they have demonstrated their loyalty to Democracy."

Bus Line Office Downtown Robbed

Payroll checks totaling $300 and an unestimated amount of cash was stolen from a cash box in the office of the Yellowway Bus Line, 113 Ninth street, during the night. Police investigating the robbery reported there were no marks on doors or windows and the robber evidently used a pass key.

FORCED INTO BUS BUSINESS, DECLARES P. R. R

PHILIPPINES CAPTAIN SLAIN

MANILA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Captain Conrad G. Wall of the Twenty-sixth Cavalry was found dead yesterday near Lingayen, 210 miles north of her.

The body was in a grav, a bullet through the heart and a pistol beside it. Authorities think it was a case of suicide.

Captain Well, who was stationed at Camp Stotzenburg, near Manila, went to Lingayan in command of a hiking detachment.

10 More Diamonds Found at Site Of Air Crash

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 9.—Sorting over half a ton of dirt hauled from the scene of the crash October 18 of Pilot William Hopson's Cleveland-bound airmail plane, Inspector William Tafel late today recovered 10 more diamonds of the original shipment of 700 from New York City.

The recovered gems were worth about $100 a piece, he said. More earth from the remote scene of the fatal airplane crash is to be sorted over before the case is marked "closed."

Lilliendahl Slayers Are Denied Pardons

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret T. Lilliendahl and Willis Beach, who are serving 10 years in the state prison for the slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, the woman's husband, were denied a pardon yesterday by the court of pardons.

Woman Falls on Stove; Burns Kill

SEEKS PERMIT TO RUN LINE ACROSS PA.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission was told yesterday that the Pennsylvania Railroad has been forced into the business of operating buses in Pennsylvania because of the general competition of local bus carriers and the desire of the traveling public for this type of transportation.

R. K. Stackhouse, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania General Transit Company, motor subsidiary of the railroad, explained to the Commission hearing the applications of the bus company and of himself for the right to operate a service from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh and the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line, that it meant to be an aggressive competitor and furnish the highest character of motor transportation.

Two routes across the state are proposed, one over the Lincoln highway and the other over the William Penn highway. Mr. Stackhouse applied for a certificate of public convenience to operate over the Lincoln highway for the reason that the charter recently granted the Pennsylvania General Transit Company does not include Fulton county. The bus company has made applications for an amendment to its charter and the proposed Lincoln highway route would then be tranferred to the railroad subsidiary.

Mr. Stackhouse, in his testimony from the witness stand, said he had made an extensive survey of the state to determine the necessity and demand for the proposed service and had found that it warranted the entrance of the railroad into the field of bus transportation. A large number of witnesses living in points along the proposed routes appeared this afternoon to bear him out.

More than fifty protestants were present at the hearing to protest the application for a franchise.

Counsel for the bus subsidiary made it clear at the opening however, that the company did not contemplate entering into competition with local carriers and that it would stipulate in its certificate that local business within the terminii of existing local carriers would not be sought.

Wife Kept Liquor To Keep Him At Home

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—Asserting that his wife kept liquor in their home to keep him from drinking elsewhere, and exonerating her from any blame in the case, Albert Little, of near Washington, pleaded guilty before Judge James I. Brownson to a charge of possessing liquor. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and undergo jail imprisonment for 30 days. His wife was discharged.

Shippenville Man Killed in 32-Ft. Fall

CLARION, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Wilbur K. Young, 28, Shippenville, was killed instantly late yesterday when he fell 32 feet from an oil derrick.

LIGHT COMPANY SUED BY WOMAN

Because of having been accused of taking a bank note after she had paid her bill at the Duquesne Light Company's office, Frances Henderson has brought suit against the company for $10,000 damages.

She alleges in her bill of particulars filed in Common Pleas Court that after she had paid her bill April 30 last and as she was leaving the place she was charged with having stolen the banknote. She declares that she was searched and humiliated notwithstanding her denial that she did not take the banknote in question. Later she recites the company found the note and let her go.

Car Washer Hurt, Sues for $50,00

Louisa Bukoski, a car washer for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has sued her employers for $50,000 damages, for injuries sustained when she was struck by a train in the Thirty-third street yards of the company March 16 last. She says she was crossing the tracks with due care and a train backed up against her and knocked her down fracturing her skull and injuring her spine, as well as otherwise hurting her.

Locomotive Kills Man Going to Work

MIDLAND, Pa., Nov. 9.—Run down by a shifting engine in the Pennsylvania Railroad yards here, Theodore Pina, 45, laborer, 110 Fourth street, was killed. Pina was on his way to work when the accident occurred.

VOLCANO TRAPS 3, BLOTS OUT TOWN

10,000 MADE HOMELESS BY MT. ETNA ERUPTION

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Devastating floods of molten lava in three main streams today were slowly making their way down the slopes of Mt. Etna, spreading a trail of destruction in their paths and driving the terror stricken population of towns at the foot of the volcano from their homes.

Although heavy property damage has been caused in the overflowing of fertile fields and several small villages, the loss of life was small, only three deaths being reported. These were in the town of Mascali, where three men, a father, son and grandson, were overwhelmed in their home while their fellow townsmen, helpless to aid them, watched death overtake them from beyond the lava lake. The men had returned to their doomed house to rescue various goods. They slept there over night and this morning were trapped.

Mascali, once the home of 10,000 persons, now is a mass of lava and shooting flames, nothing being left but pitiable wreckage. The simple folk of the country side have been so stunned by the disaster that gendarmes and firemen rushed there from Catania some times found it necessary to use force to drive them from the scene of the tragedy into places of safety. They are so attached to the soil and their humble dwellings that they leave only when forced to.

Etna's eruption, which began last Friday, reached an acute stage yesterday. Prof. Ponte, director of the volcano institute, estimated that the quantity of lava thus far thrown out equaled in one day that of the first two days of other eruptions. The eruptions of 1910, 1911 and 1923 each lasted about eight days, which led to fears that the present flow would continue at least several days longer.

PERILS TOWN OF 20,000

Early today one of the streams from the erupting Mount Etna reached the railway station on the outskirts of Giarre, threatening the entire village, which has a population of 20,000.

A thousand engineers and workmen worked frantically all night to prevent the flow from entering the village.

Tons of dynamite are being used to form an artificial channel to facilitate the flow around Giarre to the sea.

One of the phenomenas of the eruption is the mortality among cats and birds who, instead of seeking safety, were strangely attracted to the lava and were burned to death. A large number of American tourists have left Giarre.

The railway lines between Messina and Catania have been submerged for a length of more than 300 yards. The main stream is expected to reach the sea today.

LAY STATION CORNERSTONE

City officials, including the heads of the police and fire bureaus, yesterday participated in the cornerstone laying of the new combination police and fire station being erected at Broad street and Euclid avenue. The new public safety centralized station will cost $275,000.

The officials who participated were: Mayor Charles H. Kline, President of Council James F. Malone, Director James M. Clark of the Public Safety Department, Fire Chief Richard L. Smith and Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh. A copper box put in the cornerstone contained a copy of the ordinance for erecting the building, newspapers, a description of the building and a list of the city officials.

WIFE CHARGED WITH MURDER

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—A warrant charging first degree murder was issued against Mrs. Helen C. Mattlock who last Tuesday afternoon killed her husband as he had stablished a young model and night club entertainer as another "Mrs. Matlock"

The warrant followed an inquest at which a coroner's verdict of homicide had been returned and at which both Mrs. Matlock and Rose Jokerst, the entertainer, had testified. Mrs. Matlock is 33 and Miss Jokerst 21. The husband, Charles Matlock, an automobile salesman, was 38.

Mrs. Matlock fainted in the witness chair at the inquest.

GET SET FOR CHRISTMAS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—Depredations in the Pine Tree Grove on Vance Acres, in the Bavington district, northern Washington county, are being renewed this year as Christmas time nears. A large number of small pines having been stolen, apparently for Christmas trees. Many were cut down a year ago and left to decay. H. G. Vance, proprietor of the farm, threatens action against tourists and others. His Pine Tree Grove is highly prized and furnishes a large number of Christmas trees each year.

KEYES GRANTED BRIEF DELAY IN BRIBE CASE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—A delay of five days was granted District Attorney Asa Keyes when he appeared in Superior Court yesterday to plead to an indictment charging him and seven others with bribery. Judge Douglas Edmonds ordered the suspended prosecutor to make his plea on November 15, denying a request for additional time.

An expected plea for a change of venue from Los Angeles did not materialize, but attorneys said such a request might be made later. Paul Schenck, attorney for the accused prosecutor, said he did not believe a fair and impartial trial for Keyes could be had in Los Angeles county.

Buron Fitts, who resigned as lieutenant governor of California to become district attorney here in December, appeared for the state against his former chief. Fitts before his election to the high state position, was chief criminal deputy under Keyes.

Keyes and his co-defendants are charaged with a plot to "fix" cases before the district attorney's office, particularly those of former officials of the defunct Julian Petroleum Corporation.

SUN-TELEGRAPH TO GIVE SHOW

of the theatrical profession. The Variety Club is an organization of young men connected with the stage and screen in various capacities. The club has heretofore devoted itself almost exclusively to promoting sociability among its members. Now it seeks to widen its field of usefulness by doing something for humanity.

The club was organized by eight or nine young theatrical men of Pittsburgh on October 10, 1927. It rented a room at the William Penn and installed a piano and phonograph. It was called Variety Club because of the variety of the theatrical interests represented in the membership.

Visiting actors made the room their headquarters. New members were received. Today, after only one year of existence, the club has 50 active members and as many more honorary and non-rsident members, the latter chiefly actors, movie stars and men prominent in public life. The club outgrew its quarters long ago and took over the suite formerly occupied by the Old Colony Club on the club floor of the William Penn.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP

Go into the Variety Club's rooms and you will find the spirit of merriment and good fellowship in the air. The piano will be going, and perhaps the radio, too. You may find seated at the piano an actor or composer trying a new song. On the walls you will find numerous autographed photographs of the most brilliant stars of the theatrical profession.

That is the color of the club, which will give its first annual banquet late Sunday night, November 11—a banquet that promises to be unique in a number of respects.

John H. Harris is president of the club; Dr. Albert I. Wise, vice president, and David Brown, treasurer.

The club has felt that it ought to justify its existence by doing something for the community. In that feeling lies the origin of the great benefit show that has been arranged.

The printing of show bills will be contributed by the Liberty Show Print Company and the Exhibitors' Service. The General Outdoor Advertising Company will attend to the display of the bills.

The show will also be advertised by radio announcements.

The shows in the city that week, from which acts will come for the benefit will include "Hit the Deck," with Queenie Smith and George Purcell, at the Nixon; "The Age of Innocence," with Katherine Cornell, at the Pitt; Hammerstein's famous musical play, "The Golden Dawn," at the Alvin, and first-class vaudeville at the Sheridan Square, Harris, Harris South Hills, Davis, Penn, Stanley, Schenley and Grand.

All seats will be reserved, and all will be sold at the uniform price of $1. Tickets for the benefit will be placed on sale at all the theaters not later than next Thursday. The first to buy will get the choicest seats.

Boy Shoots Brother During Quarrel Over 50 Cents

WORSTED IN FIGHT, YOUTH SEIZES GUN AND FIRES; FLEES FROM HOME.

Remorse clouded the home of Alexander Wirth, at 618 Hazelwood avenue, today, where Joseph Wirth, the eldest of 11 children, had been shot in the abdomen by his brother, William, one year his junior, who fled from the house after the shooting.

The victim is reported in a serious condition in St. Francis Hospital. Police began a search for William.

According to Lieuts. Harry Shunk and Frank McNichols the shooting occurred in the kitchen of the Wirth home last night. Joseph, after donning his best suit, discovered 50 cents missing from the pocket. He questioned his sister, Margaret, 13, who admitted taking the money after being told to do so by her mother, the officers said. Joseph is alleged to have slapped Margaret's face. William, in another room, hearing the girl's cries, ran to intervene.

The two brothers engaged in a fist fight and William, said to have been worsted in the battle, ran upstairs for a revolver and returned, firing a shot in his brother's abdomen. William then fled from the house.

The shooting was witnessed by several children and Jean Lennon, 14, of 616 Hazelwood avenue, who was playing in the Wirth home.

Homicide Detectives Sylvester Henry and William Harris questioned the wounded youth at the hospital. He admitted slapping his sister's face, detectives say. "She was writing a note and I thought it was about me," the sleuths quoted him as saying.

The father and most of the children were at home at the time of the shooting, but the mother was absent. The father is a butcher in an East Liberty meat market.

TWO CASTS ACT THE SAME PLAY!

LORAINE HOKE, HARRIET BURKHART, SARA ALLISON, DOROTHY FRANCIS, EDITH PEACOCK, OLIVE MILLS

Something new in the line of high school class plays will be introduced early next month when the Dramatic Club of the Bellevue High School presents the mystery comedy drama, "Ann-What's-Her-Name," in the high school auditorium. These girls, with prominent parts, are starting rehearsals.

BETTY COFFROTH, ELEANOR GILMORE

In order that all members of the club will have chances to participate, two casts are to be prepared and each cast will present the play, on a separate occasion. The casts are being coached by Miss Daye Brunton, in charge of dramatics in the high school.

Injured by Train Asks $50000 Damages

Louisa Bukoski, 163 Fortieth street, a car washer for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has sued her employers for $50,000 damages for injuries sustained when she was struck by a train in the Thirty-third street yards of the company March 16, last.

Borough Orchestra Holds 4th Rehearsal

The North Boroughs Community Orchestra held its fourth rehearsal last night with the orchestra of the Odd Fellows Orphans' Home, Davis avenue, North Side. The community orchestra now numbers 18 members, according to Fred W. Penfield, of Avalon, director, and others are expected to affiliate with the new organization soon. Any resident of the North Boroughs and vicinity, who can play any musical instrument, is invited to join, Mr. Penfield says.

BREAKS DOWN TELLING OF TROUBLES

Breaking down completely in telling his domestic troubles to Judge Thomas J. Ford, of Common Pleas Court, Albert J. Scherm, Jr., Bon Air Farms, near Wilkinsburg, who wants a divorce from Elizabeth B. Scherm, had to be taken off the stand temporarily by his counsel, Charles B. Prichard.

The libellant told the court after he had composed himself that his wife stayed out all hours of the night and on some occasions did not come home until 7 o'clock in the morning. When he wanted to know where she had been trouble usually followed. On one occasion Scherm testified he told his wife it was time for her to settle down and she told him she would do as she pleased.

The wife, according to the husband, threw a milk bottle at him as well as dishes. He said he even prayed with her to do better, but to no avail. Finally the doctor told him he would be in better physical condition if he ate regularly and quit worrying. The wife, he said, did not prepare his meals at meal time. The couple were married in 1919.

WILKINSBURG LEADER'S TAX RECEIPT CHALLENGED

William H. Turner, president of the Wilkinsburg Business Men's Association, councilman and life-long resident of the borough, faced a new situation in his political career Tuesday when an over-zealous woman-watcher challenged his right to vote.

His tax receipt was in his office safe at his place of business on Wood street, and the leader of the Wilkinsburg Democrats was compelled to go and get it. Mr. Turner for the past 14 years has been a member of the borough council and on one occasion was an unsuccessful candidate for burgess.

JEANNE KING

Miss Jeanne King, University of Pittsburgh student, is on the committee for the annual "Frosh Fair" to be held in Logan Armory, Thackeray street, next Wednesday. "The Melancholy Dame," Negro comedy by Octavus Roy Cohen, will be given at that time by freshmen members of Pitt Players, campus dramatic organization. Numerous other features are on the program, including a performance by a "mechanical man."

UNION SERVICES AS CURE FOR CHURCH ABSENTEES

What is the remedy for small Sunday night church audiences?

Ministers of Ben Avon and Emsworth, for several years, have sought solution of the problem in Sunday night community services. They say they are satisfied with results—that the plan does not impair the efficiency of the individual churches or the loyalty of the membership. The larger union gathering, they hold, is preferable to the small individual groups.

"In a community such as this virtually everyone is able to attend the morning service," said the Rev. Dr. William T. Lytle, pastor of the Ben Avon United Presbyterian church, one of the four participating churches.

"The need of a night service in the individual churches is not so marked as in districts where a considerable number of the members can attend only the Sunday evening service. The union services were tried in Ben Avon and Emsworth for several years during the World War. The old plan of individual services was then restored, only to be replaced again by the union meetings.

"We ministers feel that the union service does not lessen interest in the individual church but that it does foster community spirit, good-will and a broader religious outlook. In addition when an outstanding speaker is in the community he becomes available for the members of all churches. On special days the plan lends itself to united observance. For instance we are planning an Armistice Day service next Sunday night in which each pastor will have a part."

Other churches joining in the Sunday night union service are the Ben Avon Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. Dr. G. Meade Dougherty, pastor; the Emsworth United Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. J. W. Springer, pastor, and the Ben Avon Presbyterian church which is without a pastor at present.

REBEKAHS WILL BREAK GROUND FOR HOME

Ground will be broken next Monday afternoon for the new Rebekah Home of Western Pennsylvania Odd Fellows to be built on Davis avenue, North Side, adjacent to the present Odd Fellows home. The Rekekah Home is now in Avalon.

The new building will cost $75,000. Representatives of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows and of the Rebekah Assembly have been invited to the ground breaking.

Mrs. Carrie Bartley is president of the home organization and Mrs. Garnet E. Drake its secretary.

THREATS JAIL NORTH SIDER

Charged with threatening speakers and persons attending a meeting in St. Nicholas Lyceum, East Ohio street, North Side, Peter Rodinz, 38, of 1123 East Ohio street, is being held in the North Side Police Station on a suspicious person charge.

Rodinz is alleged to have brandished a stilleto at the meeting last night.

Bridge Inspector Struck by Train

John Bazz, 59, an inspector for the City Public Works Department, is in a critical condition in Homeopathic Hospital, having been struck by a passenger train while walking along the railroad tracks beneath the South Highland Avenue Bridge. He was inspecting the structural work of the bridge and failed to note the train approaching.

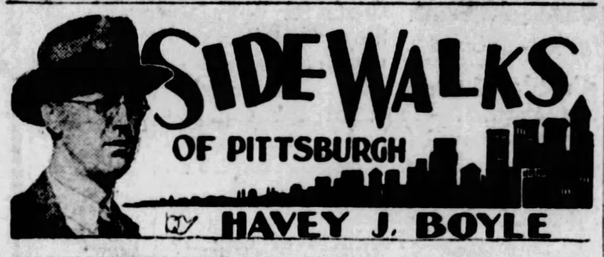
Injured by Train Asks $50000 Damages

Louisa Bukoski, 163 Fortieth street, a car washer for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has sued her employers for $50,000 damages for injuries sustained when she was struck by a train in the Thirty-third street yards of the company March 16, last.



IN PITTSBURGH the glow of pre-Armistice Day campfires put the veterans of the great war in a mood to recall old days at the front. When you listen to veterans you can see what a difficult time professional pacifists have, for give any war sufficient time to lose its naked horror, and up come tales of the strife that make the young men (not in the last war) resolve they won't miss the next one.

Among a group of veterans in the Plaza Restaurant the other day, where the Maj. John Baird Atwood Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was holding a luncheon, one of the raconteurs was a Chinese, Yee Sears Foong, who wears a discharge button which indicated that he "belonged."

MR. FOONG has that reticence peculiar to his race, but after some urging, Mr. Foong through the cigar and cigaret smoke of the assemblage, told of what happened to him.

He served as a cook at St. Aignan, France, whence he was discharged in 1919. He wanted to see the old folks at home and so he made his way to China. He was proceeding up the Yangtze, with about 100 fellow-countrymen, when his party was attacked by one of the many groups of bandits in China, a number so large that for a time Mr. Foong thought he was in Chicago. A ball and chain were placed on his legs and he reports that while he thought he had seen a top-sergeant in all his glory in France, the top kicker in the bandit crew made the American species seem like a shrinking violet.

The gist of the arrangement with the bandit-chieftain was that Mr. Foong should write to his mother and urge her to mortgage the ancestral home and thus get the number of yen demanded for his release.

MR. FOONG had to wait 29 months until the $900 arrived. During his imprisonment Mr. Foong faced a firing squad innumerable times, but owing to the fickleness of the bandit chief something always happened to postpone the imminent obsequies.

At last he was released, managed to get to his home to see his mother, and then somewhat prudently returned to America, where in spite of some little shooting from time to time, Mr. Foong found comparative peace and comfort.

He learned in a letter from his mother that still another bandit crowd had burned the ancestral home. Mr. Foong is still a cook, but now instead of hearing complaints from enthusiastic American soldiers who were not backward in demanding their food, Mr. Foong holds forth at the Bamboo Inn where tea and crackers, and the American dish known as Chop Suey, are served the customers.

SUCH plays as "What Price Glory?" and "The Big Parade," made a sincere effort to strip war of romance, and in spite of harrowing scenes, both failed. That they failed is evidenced by the glow in the eyes of veterans as they sit around and talk about the red days in France 10 years ago. There were moments, no doubt, when some of them were sorry they were ever born to witness the tragedy of war, but now after 10 years that something in human nature where war is concerned has dimmed the frightfulness while it makes purple and glorious the exciting days and nights in the rain and mud of Northern France.

Stepped Into Ditch Brings $10,000 Suit

Grace Platt, 1021 Peralto street, who stepped into an unprotected ditch in front of 928 Altaview street, April 12, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Frank Marella & Sons, for $10,000 damages because of bodily injuries she says she sustained. The firm in question dug a ditch for a sewer, it is claimed there was no light on it and on account of it being unprotected, she has been permanently injured.

Hurt in Auto Crash, Asks $20,000 Damage

Frank Boyle, Jr., Banksville avenue, suffered concussion of the jaw and was otherwise hurt when the automobiles in which he was riding collided with the car of William M. Smith, July 4 last, in Library road and $20,000 damages is wanted from Smith as a result. The suit was filed in Common Pleas Court by Little & Little, alleging that the accident was the result of negligence on the part of Smith.

Thieves Get $500 In Ewing St. Home

The home of William M. Lee, at 4004 Ewing street, was entered by thieves who forced a side door. After ransacking the rooms they escaped with jewelry and clothing valued at $500, police were informed. The theft was discovered by Mrs. Lee upon her return home last night.

Dropping of Coin Results in Injury

Stooping to pick up a coin which he had dropped on the platform of a car of the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company cost George H. Miller, Wexford, serious injury and the railways company a $15,000 damage suit.

Miller claims that he boarded a car August 4, last, at Wexford. After he was on the car he dropped the coin. The safety doors were open and the car in motion. As he stooped his body came in contact with a projection on a milk platform. As a result he injured his spine, shoulders and other parts of his body.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 9.

Offers pouring in all day for the purchase of the Democrats. All want the title but no one wants any of the cast.

I bet preachers are looking for a new act more than I am after election. It will take them months to get their minds back on religion.

Nobody knows yet who is governor in this state. There is a Jewish fellow running and if he gets it and makes a good governor for four terms why the religious issue won't come up again for President till 1936.

Smith carried all the Democratic states he didn't go into and Hoover had a cinch in all the Republican ones he didn't speak in. I believe a "dumb" candidate could have beat 'em both.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

BUGS BAER Says

THOSE 43,000,000 votes shrunk to 27,000,000 on Tuesday.

Which means that 16,000,000 people registered and then decided to go to the movies.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

If it had rained in the West, Smith would have done much better. But it seems that western farmers consider it effeminate to carry parasols.

A tornado in Florida would also have assisted AL. That state went Republican for the first time in the school books.

But the real blow arrived when it failed to snow in Texas.

The only real happy man is Joe Robinson.

Joe doesn't have to be vice president.

Mr. Curtis is the new White House caddy.

Mr. Dawes is ready to show Mr. Curtis how to act when nothing is happening.

It does not require excessive diplomacy to smile for the news reels, but it does require obese dignity to wear a high silk hat in such a manner that people will not think you are Grover Whalen.

Grover has just about monopolized the high hat business in America. He has been in every news reel for the last six years. Of course, the vice president is limited to dedications, welcomes and noddings in the affirmative.

Mr. Dawes made a good master of ceremonies. The only time they fooled him is when they asked him to dedicate the cornerstone in a new railroad roundhouse.

After the seventeenth lap around the structure Mr. Dawes said: "You got me this time. But the next building I dedicate must have corners on it."

So you can see that the job is not all velvet. Mr. Robinson feels no sorrow in his defeat. He was not yet ready to retire from public life anyway.

Mr. Dawes' term of office indicated great will power and restraint. He smoked a pipe when cigarets will get you much more publicity.

Nothing much remains now but the big parade up Pennsylvania avenue on March fourth. If Mr. Robinson can finish first in that he still has a chance.

STOLEN LOVE

Joan Is Disgusted and Wants to Break Her Engagement

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Mrs. Barstow puts herself out to be nice to Joan for her son's sake. Joan becomes hysterical when Bill visits her and offers to marry her. Mrs. Barstow invites her to spend a week-end at her cottage in the mountains. When she returns, Ruth questions her about her love affair with Bill. Bill disappears after he has an argument with Rollo's dad. Joan refuses to accept Curtis after he proposes to her. Later, however, she becomes engaged to him. Curtis' mother visits Aunt Evvie and questions her about Joan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"WELL, you eat something. I'm not going to have you go out of here without anythin' in your stummick. You ought to look at yourself in the mirror. Dark circles under your eyes, pale as a ghost. Hand shakin' so you can't hold your coffee cup. Now you keep on lookin' that way and Curtis'll be finding himself another girl—"

"I wish he would!" the words came out of their own accord, explosively.

Maisie's spoon clattered into the prunes, splashing the sweet brown juice up over her starc' clean housedress.

Joan looked down at the ring, blazing on her finger. Symbol of her pledge to Curtis. Symbol of Curtis' promise to her. Promise of ease and wealth, of beauty and the soft things of life. Slowly she took it off. Placed it carefully on the table beside her.

"Maisie, I can't go on with it. I've tried. I—I can't do it. I can't—"

Maisie slapped down the last saucer. "You didn't go ... this hurriedly," she said slowly. "You had plenty of time to think it over. You knew he was going to ... you long before he did. An' ... u were going to pull out the ... to do it was when the first ... got into the papers. You ... have denied it then. But you told him it was all right. You held out your hands to him and told him you were glad.

"I saw you with my own eyes, Joan, you did it right in front of me. An' now when you've got your pretty ring, and Mis' Barstow has pretty near broke her neck bein' nice to you, you talk like that. I don't understand you." She poured the water out of the dishpan and hung it on its nail over the sink, still with her eyes turned away.

Joan went on drying the blue cup in her hands. It was all true, everything that Maisie said. Everything.

Maisie glanced at the clock on the shelf. "It's quarter to nine. You'll be late," she said.

"Yes, I must hurry."

After a while Joan walked over to the table, and put the ring on her finger. "All right—I got into it. I'll see it through."

Even then Maisie didn't answer.

Joan went to work with a stone in her side, where her heart had been.

Eugenia Laird gave a bridge party for Joan. All afternoon she hovered around the table at which Joan was playing. She was always hovering around Joan now. "And this is Joan Hastings," she'd gush, introducing her to some one she hadn't met. "You know Curtis is practically my big brother, so that makes Johnnie a sort of sister-in-law, or something, doesn't it?" Poor Eugenia, who had expected to marry Curtis.

"How cruel it all is," Joan thought. "She's in love with Curtis, and that nice Darrow boy is in love with her. I suppose she won't take him seriously because he's so short and fat. And Curtis is in love with me, and I'm in love with—"

But she wouldn't say Bill's name, not even in her thoughts. She was so fiercely loyal to Curtis. She was going to spend her whole life making him happy. . . making it up to him because . . . because. . . .

"Your play!" her partner called.

"Oh!" Joan came back with a jump.

Eugenia came back to their table at tea time. "My dear, did you ever see anything the way Connie Howard is brazening it out?" the plump, matronly little person at Joan's left demanded.

"I simply had to ask her," Eugenia cut in quickly. "Her mother and mama were such old friends, you know, and mama intends—"

"Oh, of course!" the little matron said. "Everybody will have her; they'll have to. But isn't it weird?"

"Which is Connie Howard?"

"Haven't you really heard?" Eugenia marveled. "I thought you would, of all people, because she and Curtis—"

"Gene, what are you telling the poor girl!" the pretty matron giggled. "She'll think he's the man in the case!"

And they all shrieked again.

"Well, you see," Eugenia began, sparring for words. "She and Curtis did go around together—a long time ago. She was really very nice in those days. Highbrow, sort of. And this fellow she met was an actor. Not professional, you know. I ... theaters. I wouldn't ... good looking.

began to laugh again. "Heavens, how do you tell it?"

"You draw the curtain," the little matron said demurely, with twinkling, not too kindly eyes. "That's the way they do it in the plays. And when the scene shifts you have our Connie in one of those interesting homes where erring girls can find a friend. The nerve of her! Right here in San Francisco, and yet I always said it was a good idea in its way."

"It was only accident that she was found out. One of the social workers recognized her. Her own family thought she was at Columbia taking a course. They really did not know—she fooled them all. Look at her now—bold as brass, and she knows we all know. But what do you suppose happened to the baby, Gene? There was one. Mrs. Donald said she saw it—imagine!"

"Rather dumb of her," the flapper at Joan's right commented.

"What happened to the actor?" Eugenia asked. "Did anyone hear? Mama said she thought he left very early in the game—"

"Very likely," the young matron said. "Under the circumstances. They never linger long!"

"Well, I haven't any sympathy for her," the flapper said, "and I'll say she has her nerve to crash back into the old crowd again after a baby—"

"Still the Howards. An old family like that. People will simply have to pretend they don't know . . . probably marry some day . . . with all that money . . . some men will do anything for money. . . ."

Their voices broke over Joan, sharp and jagged, pattering her with stones. "It's I they're stoning—I'm the girl—I'm just as bad—I might have been she. . . ."

Patter, Patter, Patter. The sharp edged voices breaking over her head. "Not even a gentleman . . . imagine how degrading. . . ."

She couldn't stand it. Couldn't sit there listening. Have to do something. Say something. But the room was whirling so fast, and there wasn't any air. You can't do anything without air . . . "Let me . . . window . . ." she whispered thickly.

"She's going to faint!" Eugenia cried sharply. "Here—help me—get her into the hall—"

But Joan didn't faint. She just clung to the window in the hallway, breathing in the air, gathering courage, courage.

Someone must have sent for Curtis. She felt his arm around her, half carrying her down the stairs to the waiting car.

"Air's so thick in there you could slice it. Cigarets and perfume and food. Lord! How do they stand it . . . poor child . . . white as a sheet!"

She looked up into his eyes, so tender and anxious for her. "It wasn't that, Curtis. It was—hearing them talk about Constance Howard. I—couldn't bear it—"

CHAPTER XXV.

SMOOTHLY, swiftly, Curtis' roadster spun through the leafy quiet of the park, over the pleasant road to the beach. Past the old windmills and the sand dunes, to the ocean. The white-tipped waves rolled in with a dull roar, the salt wind blew, gulls flapped overhead on strong gray wings.

They had not spoken all the long drive.

"Feel better?" he asked at last.

"Yes," she answered, "the wind helps, and the sound of the breakers. It makes me feel quieter—inside." And she was thinking of another drive to the beach. The night she met him, at his mother's house. She wished she had never gone to Mrs. Barstow's. Better never to have known him, than to suffer so much pain.

He slipped an arm about her, comfortably, "Poor Johnnie, poor little girl."

Day Dreams -:- By Madge Geyer

WHAT'S wrong? She's not a bit like her own gay self. She's so quiet and dreamy and faraway that everyone's wondering. All she wants to do is to sit and dream. Her eyes are starry, and wistful and full of dreams. Nothing interests her and she seems to be living in another world.

The answer? She's in love! Perhaps she doesn't realize it yet, but these are the surest signs of all. Day dreams fill her every second. Nothing matters but thoughts of HIM! If you were to ask her of what she was thinking, she'd probably blush and start and stammer, "Oh, nothing!" But there is something the matter and that something the biggest thing in her life. Love is claiming her now and her day dreams will soon be fulfilled.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Terror Hangs Over Farmhouse Because of Junior

MY mother-in-law's voice broke into the helpless weeping of the old as she said that she would not be satisfied with Junior's condition until she heard him say "Granzie." Knowing (what she had not yet learned) that our boy had not recovered consciousness after his fall from the tree, it was all I could do to keep from wailing out my secret terror that we might never hear him speak again. That Dicky shared my fear I knew from the haunted, anguished look in his eyes.

Katherine, however, gave us no chance to dwell upon our fears. She waved us ahead of her with a slight but mandatory gesture, speaking cheerily to Mother Graham as she followed us.

"You'll be hearing him call for his 'Granzie' before you're strong enough to climb the stairs if you don't look out. Be sure to lie perfectly quiet and let Marion wait on you. You might make her a cup of tea in a few minutes, Marion," she added as she closed the library door behind her.

It was like her to ask no questions as we climbed the stairs to Junior's room. But I knew that she was as anxious as we were for a glimpse of the boy on whom she has lavished the love and care which in happier conditions she would have given to a child of her own. She went straight to his bedside where Lillian at once made room for her and bending over the unconscious little figure scrutinized him with an attention which held both professional interest and tense personal concern. But there was no hint of any fear in her clear eyes when she turned away from the bed.

"I'll get into my uniform," she said, "and be back here in a jiffy. I left Marion with Mother Graham," she added, looking at Lillian. "The poor old lady has recovered from her swoon and will be all right now, if she keeps quiet. Will you?"

"Take that job over?" Lillian finished. "Of course. I knew she must have fainted, from the sounds that floated up to us. But neither Harry nor I dared leave Junior, and we had herded Katie into the bathroom with instructions to give it a thorough cleaning—it was the first job I could think of which would keep her upstairs and quiet until the excitement died down. I'll take her downstairs with me now."

"Don't let Katie go near my patient unless she has a muzzle on," Katherine warned. "We've persuaded Mother Graham that Junior is asleep and will be perfectly all right when he wakes up. It would upset her terribly, might send her right back again, if she guessed the truth."

"I'll take care of Katie," Lillian said grimly, and when a few minutes later Katherine came back into the room in her uniform, looking to me like the incarnation of efficiency and hope, Mrs. Underwood went out of it, her husband promptly following her.

"I'll just see that there's no noise downstairs, or outside," he said. "Is there anything else you want done?"

With a sudden recollection I looked at my wrist watch.

"Yes, there is," I said, "Father's train gets in at one o'clock—he went to the city yesterday, you know. If you'll meet him—and tell him——"

"There won't be much to tell by that time," Mr. Underwood returned with determined optimism. "You'll see the kid'll be all right again by that time."

I wanted to believe him, but my fears wouldn't let me. Katherine, after arranging a small table for her convenience at the head of the bed, had drawn a low chair to a position where she could watch Junior's face and was paying no attention to either my husband or me. Dicky was pacing restlessly but noiselessly up and down the room, and I stood at the foot of the bed with the superstitious little feeling that I must not move my eyes from my little son's face lest he slip away from me.

How long I stood there, watching, I do not know, but after what seemed an eternity, Katherine rose, crossed to Dicky and said something to him in a low voice. Then she moved her chair enough to make room for another close to her and I felt my husband's hand on my arm, heard his voice in a low command.

"Katherine says you must sit down over here. You can see him just as well."

With my eyes still on my boy, I moved with him to the chair and sat down. As he bent down to put a cushion at my back, I heard him whisper: "Oh, God! Madge, if he dies I've killed him. But he begged so hard to climb the tree by himself."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Local Infections Poison the System

THERE are a good many diseases which are referred to as "infectious diseases." Each is due to some particular germ or poison.

Typhoid fever is an example.

Today I want to tell you about what the doctors have classified as "pyogenic infections." A common variety is what the layman calls "blood poisoning."

There is a group of such diseases. Some are due to pus-producing germs. other ailments with similar symptoms are caused by an intoxicating or poisoning agent, a toxin, developed within the body. Still others come from chemical substances produced somewhere in the tissues.

DR. COPELAND

Perhaps you have cut or torn your hand. This gives a gateway for the entrance of dangerous germs. They find their way into your tissues.

At first the wound appears to be healing as it should. As a matter of fact, however, the germs have found a breeding place. They multiply rapidly. They are born and die by the millions. Out of this mass of debris comes a poisonous substance. It is absorbed by the body and poisons the system.

Lockjaw and erysipelas are examples of this sort of infection. Without the external wound, but entering the body in some other way, the germs of diphtheria do their deadly work. The dangerous toxins are developed.

No matter what form of infection we meet, there are certain familiar symptoms. Chills and fever are the first ones. Then we have the intoxication, depression, profound prostration and other evidences of serious disease.

Besides the infections I have mentioned there is another group, known as local infections. These have been made familiar by the frequent references in the press and conversation to the dangers of bad teeth, infected tonsils, diseased gall bladder, etc. The effects upon the human system of such poisoning are well known.

A focus of infection may produce serious blood poisoning with all the profound symptoms of general poisoning. Instead of this serious condition, there may be one or more of a multitude of annoying and perhaps obscure conditions. We are paying more and more attention to the origin of these.

Among such disturbances we find joint or tendon troubles. There may be pain in the knee, in the finger points, in the muscles, anywhere in the body, indeed.

What we often hear described as "muscular rheumatism," "chronic rheumatism," "neuritis," "neuralgia," or "arthritis"—any and all of these ailments may come from focal infections. Besides these we may have inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart or of the heart muscles, ulcer of the stomach, inflammation of the kidneys or gall bladder, and appendicitis.

Obscure ailments have not been completely treated unless a careful search has been made for the remote cause. Perhaps I have said enough to drive you to your doctor for the important survey which you should have. I trust that will result in increased comfort and better health.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. Q.—Will equal parts of peroxide and lemon juice act as a skin bleach?

A.—Yes, but it might be wise to use a good cold cream after applying the preparation, which may prove drying to the skin.

N. E. K. Q.—What would cause a swelling of the ankle, especially at night, seems to vanish by morning?

2.—What will clear up dandruff?

3.—What causes a fine network of blue and purple veins to show up prominently in the legs from the hips down—showing through hosiery and especially noticeable when wearing a bathing suit?

A.—May be due to an arch condition or to a possible kidney affection. Have an examination to determine just what treatment you need.

2—Careful shampooing and rinsing and the use of a good hair tonic should bring about results.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Formal Attire

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please let me know the correct attire for a gentleman at a strictly formal dance?

The question came up recently in discussion and I was advised that the tuxedo is used altogether, but when is the swallow-tail suit used, other than at a night wedding? K. M. T.

AT a formal dance gentlemen wear full dress—the 'tail coats.' Dinner jackets are for informal dances. Tail coats are worn, too, for the opera, for evening weddings and for formal dinners, receptions and evening musicales.

The Signature

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

What should a married woman's signature be? A claims in all cases she should sign her names as MRS. J. BROWN. B claims it should be signed ANNA BROWN. J. P.

AIS wrong, for letters, whether social or business, should never, never, never be signed:

VERY TRULY YOURS,
MRS. J. BROWN.

The correct signature for a business letter or for a letter to someone who must be told the formal name of a married woman is:

YOURS VERY TRULY,
ANNA SMITH BROWN
(MRS. JOHN BROWN.)

ANNA BROWN is correct too, if the married woman does not wish to use the surname of her maiden name.

Eating a Sandwich

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When eating in a restaurant, is it correct to use a knife and fork to eat a chicken sandwich that has no dressing whatsoever?

Your column has helped me many times and I wish to take this opportunity to thank you. BEE.

YES, it's better to.

(Thank you for your friendly words. It was kind of you to say that.)

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, November 10

AN active and a progressive day is forecast from the mutual as well as the lunar configurations. With Mercury well aspected by Luna and Saturn, with a friendly beam from Sol, all should thrive throught application, sound judgment and well-developed plans. New contracts and fresh undertakings, through persistent and constructive efforts, should thrive. Heart and home affairs are also under benefic sway, making for social domestic, artistic and affectional well-being.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a satisfactory and happy year if they will forge ahead with resolution and industry, formulating their plans well and actively pursuing constructive methods. Personal matters bring pleasure.

A child born on this day may be versatile and talented in many directions and may have the diligence, industry and application to forge ahead to the goal.

In every rank or great or small, 'tis industry supports us all.—GAY.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

What Every Woman Expects

THERE are times when it's difficult for the most hard-boiled business man to regard his blonde stenographer as "just a part of the office machinery."

A man's indigestion is usually the result of his mother's over-feeding; his disposition the result of her catering; his morals the result of her training, and his marriage the result of her opposition.

HELEN ROWLAND

A word to the wise may be sufficient, but it takes at least three words to make a woman happy—and she wants to hear them every day.

Nowadays it's difficult for a girl to decide whether she would rather be fascinating enough to get a rich husband or rich enough to get a fascinating one.

Talent is what enables a woman to earn a living without marrying for it, but real genius is what enables her to marry a living without working for it.

Every wife suspects that, even after he has gone to heaven, her husband will always be losing his halo, dropping ashes all over the golden streets, tearing snags in his wings, and snooping in the ice-box, to see if there is any angel-food left.

* * *

Somehow, even the most indifferent or indignant divorcee can't help feeling sort of "related" to her ex-husband.

A man loves his wife only so long as she is lovable; but a woman is supposed to go on automatically loving her husband, until the judge tells her to stop.

The man who fondly fancies that he "understands women" goes through life with one foot in the quicksand and the other on a banana peel.

There are weaker moments in even the most efficient modern girl's career, when she secretly yearns to be an "empty ornament" in some man's life.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl -:- Story by Lloyd Mayer -:- By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, I'm so MAD I could GARgle BUTtermilk at this point—I mean I couldn't BE more upSET because I haven't YET been able to get ARab to help 'BULL' with his psyCHOLogy, my dear, and if he doesn't BULL'S' SURE to FLUNK the course, my dear, and be dropped from the TEAM—can you COPE with it? ACtually ARab makes me so MAD I could SPIT, because all he DOES ... obviously that he's being TORN between two FIRES or something because he says he can't deCIDE whether he ought to HELP 'BULL' for the good of the TEAM or let him FLUNK for the good of himself or something, and I'm simply POWerless to DO anything aBOUT it at this point, which makes me simply LIVid because I mean I can USually wind Arab around my dimpled KNEE, but I HONestly thought I'd have hysTERics because when he and I were sort of ARguing frantically about the situation, my dear, 'BULL' suddenly appeared and my dear I think his MIND'S been kind of afFECted on account of this STRUGgle he's had with this psyCHOLogy course, my dear, because I mean he's been TERribly morOSE and feROcious, sort of, of LATE, but ANYways he SUDdenly made a LUNGE for Arab and deMANDed in DESPrate ACcents why Arab wasn't HELPing him with the old course, my dear, whereupon Arab, COYly eVADing him and taking to his HEELS, GLIBLY rePLIED that if 'BULL' underSTOOD THAT cryptic point he wouldn't NEED any help with his psyCHOLogy—can you COPE with it, my dear? I mean I HONestly think it was a TERribly SUBtle reMARK or something, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE UNKNOWN

By LOUISE F. ARMSTRONG

DAN WHITTAKER, vice president of the First National Bank of Camden, had asked Tom Winston to come by some afternoon and go over correspondence they had had with a refractory indorse. "He certainly got us in a jam," Dan said with a wry grin. "Insisted on indorsing for his friend, and now that the fellow has failed to pay his note, he gets sore about it, says we persuaded him to put his name on the paper."

"Why not let me reduce the claim to judgment?" Tom asked.

"Can't do that unless we're forced into it," Dan answered emphatically. "He'd take his business away from the bank, and his account is worth a great deal. But you might be able to suggest something we could write him—"

So Tom Winston stopped at the bank one afternoon while Dolly was on a trip to Richmond. She would spend the night there with his aunt, so he did not need to hurry home. Dan said that was fine, Clara, his wife, was away from home, too. She had just taken their small son, Bobby, to the city to have his tonsils out, and would probably be there two or three days. "Told the cook to leave something cold in the icebox and fix the percolator on the stove," Dan continued. "When we get through here come by and have a bite with me instead of dining at the hotel."

It was later than they realized when they finished. Dan locked the bank, set the burglar alarm and saw that all was secure.

"Right many robberies of banks in small towns," Tom observed as they walked together up the streets toward the Whittaker's apartment in the West End.

"Bad management," Dan said, "for a small bank to keep too much cash in the vault in these days of telegraphic transfer of funds. Anything valuable left accessible is an invitation to the thing. A burglary breaking in on us would be disappointed."

"Queer what chances they take, though," Tom continued his reflections. "Jewel thieves! If detective stories are true, there's a type of man who is ready to lay down his life at any moment to obtain possession of a priceless ruby, an emerald, or diamond he's seen and wants. I understand many of the connoisseurs of the underworld are actuated more by intense desire to acquire rare and priceless things, than by mercenary motives. Look at your drawing room window," he broke off to say. "Your maid has turned on every light, and gone off for the night!"

"Clara has spoken to Elly about that several times," Dan said irritably.

They entered the building and were quickly taken in the elevator to the sixth floor, the whole of which constituted the Whittaker's spacious apartment. As Dan bent to insert the latch key in the outer door he must have pushed against it, for it swung open silently. "That's queer," he observed, staring at the door.

"Went off and left the doors open too," Tom said, still thinking of the maid.

"No," Dan replied. "There's something wrong here. Elly goes out the back way. I locked this door myself before I left this morning."

Tom stiffened and seemed to be listening. "Thought I heard a sound in the drawing room," he said in a whisper. "Anything valuable in there, Dan?"

"Gosh!" Dan ejaculated under his breath. "That Sully portrait Clara bought last week from the Davisons! I wonder—"

They stood uncertainly on the threshhold of the apartment, looking gravely into each other's face. At length Dan, with an air of resolve, closed the outer door and heard the latch click. They strained their ears, but everything was still. If there were anyone in the drawing room, he had been warned by the careless entrance of the two unsuspecting men.

"Keep back here, Tom," Dan said in an undertone. "No use your going in there."

"Nonsense," Tom exclaimed in a whisper. "Of course I'm going with you."

Together they traversed the corridor inside the apartment which led from dining room to drawing room. The drawing room was empty. At first glance nothing appeared to have been touched, then Tom gave a startled exclamation and pointed to a large gilt frame above the high mantel.

"Good Lord!" Dan cried in real dismay.

The Sully that Clara Whittaker had purchased from the Davisons for $10,000 the week before had been cut from its frame and carried off.

"I'll call the police," Dan cried, starting to the door. "An outrageous thing to happen in a place like this!"

Dan was working himself into a rage, and his voice rang through the room. But as he dashed to the door, Tom Winston put out a hand and stayed him. "Wait," he said. "Don't call the police just yet!" Then in an undertone: "Get your gun, Dan!"

"What do you mean, get my gun? When the portrait has been stolen and the thief gone? I—"

In his excitement and anger, Dan's voice had risen higher, but it now suddenly froze in his throat. For the imported screen Clara had placed before the north window, on which the Criers of London Towne was painted in dashing color, crashed to the floor, and a voice said defiantly: "Hold up your hands!"

The masked burglar was just a boy, or a very young man. Dan could tell that by his voice, and his slim figure. But though young, Dan could see he was desperate. The gun he held wavered alarmingly—if scared any more by threats of the police, Dan thought, he might pull the trigger anyway! If he, Dan, had listened to Tom, slipped quietly out and got his own revolver! But he had roared out like a stupid fool, and now they were both about to be shot down by an amateur housebreaker! In all Dan's complacent existence he had never been so utterly vexed with himself.

"I've got the painting, see?" the burglar said. Dan noted the roll of canvas under his arm. "And you fellows better not try to stop me from getting away! There's a party going to give me big money for this. The dirty liar swore the place was empty! I'm taking the painting to him—and you bet your life he'll pay!"

Dan had an idea. "Why not sell it back to me?" he asked.

The burglar laughed. "And get myself stuck behind the bars in a week?"

"On my honor," Dan told him, "I'll give a thousand for the portrait, and make no effort to learn your identity or to have you arrested."

The masked boy hesitated, the gun in his hands steadied, sank to his side. "I'll take you up on that," he said.

"No you won't," Tom Winston calmly interposed.

Dan and the burglar both whirled and faced him. "Why not?" the latter asked.

"Because," Tom said, "I happen to know who you are. The last words you spoke were in your natural tone of voice. But I won't betray you, even to my friend here if you put that canvas on the table and walk out of this place at once."

The burglar was clearly appalled; the gun dropped from his nerveless fingers, and when he tried to speak his voice croaked hoarsely in his throat.

"I knew you wouldn't shoot the minute I recognized you," Tom said. "And you would do anything now to make me keep your secret. Pick up that gun and give it to me! Now put the canvas on the table and beat it."

"They heard the outer door open and click shut again. "You really mean to let the little sneak go?" Dan asked. "Why not 'phone the police?"

"I gave my word," Tom Winston said.

Dan turned to hide the flush on his face, for his friend's words cut. He picked up the canvas from the table, unrolled it and gazed into the eyes of the beauty Sully had made live there in all her witchery. Finally, unable to contain himself, he asked: "Tom, who was the boy?"

Tom laughed. "I'm keeping that part of my promise too, Daniel."

But hours later, sitting before the fire in his own home, Tom pondered vainly. That voice—where had he heard it before? Something strangely familiar too about the gesture of the hands, the defiant set of the dark head. Somewhere he'd seen the youthful burglar. He might be an automobile mechanic, a soda clerk, or the son of a prominent citizen of the town. Tom finally gave up and went to bed. He'd seen the burglar before—perhaps knew him well. But he just couldn't place the chap!

He grinned as he switched off the light and crept between cool linen sheets. "Great bluff I put up," he complimented himself. "Have to tell Dolly about it when she returns. Had the masked boy scared out of his wits, and poor Dan utterly bewildered. Yes, sir, during those few minutes I certainly held the center of the stage!"

BURY PUBLISHER IN CHICAGO

BOISE, Ida., Nov. 8.—(AP.)—The body of Calvin Cobb, publisher of the Idaho Daily Statesman, today will be taken to Chicago for interment, accompanied by Miss Margaret Cobb, the publisher's only surviving child.

Cobb died Wednesday night, ending a career as head of a newspaper that had come through the hectic days of the gold and silver rush in Idaho, and the troubles later in connection with the assassination of Gov. Frank Steunenberg.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Bettie Berger Dunlap Presented to Society At Afternoon Tea

EVEN though some of the golden cordial of Indian summer still warms our hearts, we cannot fail to perceive that winter is approaching. Already the landscape is becoming that of late November. The delicate tracery of the trees, robbed of their golden leaves by the monkish winds, is silhouetted against the dull blue-grey sky. Beauty there is in Pittsburgh Novembers, but not the flambouyant beauty of fall.

Now the vivid color and gayety of fall one must seek and find indoors. This is the time when one dreams beside the warm heart of the home, the fireplace, and entertains one's friends there.

Youth finds its expression, and the older set, too, in the colorful entertainments of the social season which heightens as the sun wanes.

AND this week has embodied the very essence of the brilliant winter season with its four "coming out" teas. Today the fourth bud of the season steps forth to make her bow to the social world. Bettie Berger Dunlap, daughter of the Will Knox Dunlaps, is being presented this afternoon at a tea her mother is giving in the Twentieth Century Club.

The debutante, who is receiving with her mother, is wearing a smart gown of white moire fashioned with short sleeves, and long white gloves, which give a suggestion of quaintness to this bud of the twentieth century. Her hat is of white moire and white maline, and of course her flowers are her gift bouquets. Her mother's gown is of black velvet, and her hat of black velvet, too.

Mrs. Dunlap has as her aides Miss Mary Guffey, Mrs. Thomas MacConnell, Mrs. Charles Arbuthnot, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Shaw Arbuthnot, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Mrs. Charles Dickson, Mrs. William Sage Dalzell, Mrs. Charles Murray, Mrs. Frank B. Gordon, Mrs. William G. Costin, Mrs. Edward Bindley, Mrs. Walter Schleiter, Mrs. Theodore W. Friend, Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Mrs. John Chalfant, Mrs. T. Coleman Ward, Mrs. Merrill Wright, Mrs. Leonard K. Guiler, Mrs. George Reed and Mrs. M. Curtin.

Sister debutantes are Bettie's aides.

Tea is being served in the dining room, fall flowers and fruit suggesting the harvest season. Southern smilax and yellow pompons lend warmth to the scene in the other two rooms.

MANY of the debuts are over, but there's something to look forward to, even after the last bud has been presented. The charity ball is coming. It will be given on December 27, we've mentioned before, and, of course, in the William Penn Hotel ballroom.

Marjorie Kimball is general chairman, assisted by Helen Leovy as vice chairman. Marjorie has let it be known, by the way, that an orchestra famous in this country of radios will play.

In charge of the programs will be Mrs. Sidney Hammond. And Mrs. James P. McKinney, Jr., will arrange to have a number of prominent society women as patronesses. Anna K. Childs will be in charge of boxes; Elizabeth Telfer, of tickets; Mrs. William H. Stevenson, of supper; Miss Helen Rauh, of safety; Mary Rhodes, of the cafeteria; Mrs. John S. McCormick, printing; Frances Heckert, of cigarets; Mrs. George A. Kelley, III, and Mrs. Shirley Austen, of dances.

Gerladine West is treasurer for the event; Eleanor Grier, recording secretary, and Mrs. George S. Hoster, corresponding secretary.

ONE of the most interesting announcements of the week is that of the betrothal of Augusta Glenny Leovy to Clarence Stanley, son of Mrs. William Stanley, of Great Barrington, Mass. The engagement is announced today by Augusta's parents, the Frank Adair Leovys, of Beechwood boulevard.

THE St. John's Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association will hold its annual dance November 21 in the Nurses' Home in Fleming avenue, for the benefit of the endowed room for nurses. Miss Helen McDonough is general chairman, with Miss Henrietta E. Mang in charge of publicity and Miss Mary Schiffgens, music.

* * *

ALUMNAE of the University of Pittsburgh chapter of Beta Phi Alpha will hold a theater party tonight at the Alvin. Miss Margaret Boyd is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Leasure and Miss Vera Lohmeyer.

* * *

MRS. EDWARD W. zur HORST will be matron of honor at the wedding of her aunt, Miss Mary Genevieve Harris, of Harris terrace, Crafton, and John Taylor Wurtz, of Connellsville, which will take place Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock in St. Philip's Catholic Church, Crafton. John Duggan, of Connellsville, will be best man and the ushers will include Andrew Jackson Wurtz, John Farrell and John H. Harris.

* * *

PURITY CHAPTER, No. 411, O. E. S., will celebrate its anniversary with a dinner Saturday night in the Seventh Avenue Hotel. Mrs. Pearl H. Buschek is chairman and there will be an entertainment.

* * *

MRS. CHRISTINE IRELAND, of First street, Aspinwall, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ruth Ireland, to G. C. Pelcer, of Detroit. The wedding will take place late this month.

WRALPH M'NULTY POST, No. 214, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold an informal dinner dance Monday in the Hotel Chatham roof garden to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice. Commander-in-chief Eugene P. Carver and State Commander James E. VanZandt are expected to attend.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT has been received here of the marriage of Miss Anna Marie McAliney, daughter of Mrs. Margaret McAliney, of Los Angeles, and George K. Linderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Linderman, of Los Angeles, formerly of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized last Friday in Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Linderman will make their home in that city.

* * *

MRS. J. E. SWEENEY, of Arnold, entertained Wednesday with a bridge luncheon in honor of her sister, Miss Nelle Parshall, of Dormont, whose engagement to Edward W. Wentworth, of Edgewood, was announced.

Patricia Pitt

State Federation To Meet in Erie

UPON invitation of the northwestern district, the thirty-fourth annual convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women will be held in Erie, October 14, 15, 16 and 17. Headquarters will be in the Lawrence Hotel.

* * *

DR. ZOE ALLISON JOHNSTON, president, Central Roentgen Ray Society of Pennsylvania, addressed the Ingomar Woman's Club yesterday when it met in the home of Mrs. L. V. Hartman. Dr. Johnston's subject was "The Story of Radium and Its Use in Medicine;" Mrs. Gertrude Johnston Barry furnished two piano solos. Mrs. J. J. Morris and Mrs. Charles E. Willets were assistants to Mr. Hartman.

* * *

MRS. HARRY J. M'KINLEY, new head of the Hazelwood Woman' Club, was honored with a reception in Odd Fellows' Hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs. McKinley was introduced by her predecessor in office, Mrs. E. E. Roney, and was presented with a basket of flowers. The program consisted of piano solos by Mrs. Bertha Gross King, vocal numbers by Mrs. Henry Weber, readings by Mrs. W. R. K. Scott, the outline of the year book by Mrs. F. D. Sawers and greetings from the visiting presidents. The tea hour was in charge of Mrs. O. C. Schlag and her committee.

MRS. HOWARD K. JONES, Mrs. Frederick W. Winter, and Mrs. Edward E. Phelps gave the papers at the Epoch Club meeting yesterday morning. Helsingfors, ancient capitols of Scandinavia and waterways of the north were described in the papers. Mrs. Arthur Hall Smith, of South Negley, was hostess.

THE Foreign Language Association of Pittsburgh has been invited to meet with the Alliance Francaise for its first lecture of the season tonight in the Twentieth Century Club. The speaker will be E. B. de Sauze, of Cleveland. On December 3 the Alliance will meet in the Frick Training School to hear Prof. Daniel Michenot, of Strasburg, Alsace, and the students of French in the city high schools will be guests. Mrs. William R. Jarvis, of South Graham street, will entertain the Alliance at tea in her home November 24.

SCHENLEY REVIEW, No. 140, Women's Benefit Association, will have a card party in Moose Temple, Penn avenue, next Friday. Mrs. Anna Spahr will entertain the guard club on November 21. The juniors of Review No. 111 will give an entertainment in their hall, Federal street, Monday night.

* * *

MRS. J. C. M'QUISTON, Mrs. S. B. Cuthbert and Mrs. W. E. Brinker comprise the committee in charge of the thirtieth anniversary luncheon of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club, which will be held Monday at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

AT the meeting of the Chatham Parent-Teacher Association, which will be held at the school, Thursday evening, Dr. Max Schoen, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, will be the speaker. His topic will be "The Effect of Environment Upon the Child."

* * *

MRS. WILLIAM H. POSTNER, president of the Tabernacle Society of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, announces a card party for tomorrow in McCreery's. Miss Ellen McCarty, general chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. D. J. Sullivan, Miss Catherine Griffin and Mrs. Mary D. McGinniss.

GERTRUDE S. ELY ELECTED HEAD OF VOTERS LEAGUE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Miss Gertrude S. Ely, of Bryn Mawr, today was elected chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters following her unanimous nomination for that office at the ninth annual convention of the league here yesterday. Miss Ely will succeed Mrs. John O. Miller, of Pittsburgh, who has been chairman of the league since its inception nine years ago.

Others elected are: Mrs. John Y. Huber, Ardmore, secretary; Mrs. George Vaux, Jr., Bryn Mawr, treasurer; Mrs. George Sellzer, Philadelphia; Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Harry E. Kohn, Erie; Mrs. George Kunkel, Harrisburg; Mrs. Anna C. Clarke, Scranton; Mrs. L. Walter Davis, Altoona, and Mrs. William G. Reagle, Grove City, regional directors.

Vice chairmen elected are: Mrs. A. H. Bowman, Pittsburgh; Mrs. W. O. Hickok III, Harrisburg; Mrs. Charles M. Lea, Devon; Mrs. Walter T. Merrick, Wellsboro; Mrs. John O. Miller, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles J. Rhoades, Media; Mrs. Thomas Ross, Doylestown; Mrs. Herman L. Schwartz, Haverford; Mrs. Francis R. Strawbridge, Philadelphia; Mrs. Harry Whitney, Kennett Square; Mrs. R. Pier Wright, Erie; Mrs. William E. Wright, Harrisburg, and Mrs. Edwin A. Yarnall, Swarthmore.

FISHER SPEAKS

Gov. John S. Fisher, Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters; Judge Harry E. Olsen, chief justice of the Municipal Court of Chicago, and President Judge William M. Hargest addressed the conference.

With a record of impressive contributions in war-time service and in organizations devoted to the domestic welfare as well as those in the international field, Miss Ely is regarded as one of Pennsylvania's outstanding citizens. Miss Ely, who is counselor of new voters for the National League of Women Voters, has been an active worker in the League of Women Voters since it was organized. Before becoming the counselor of new voters in 1925, she was a director of the National League and in charge of organization development in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey Delaware and Maryland. She has been a member of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania league for several years.

Miss Ely was one of the large group of American women who saw active service in France during the World War. After serving the Y. W. C. A. in this country during the early days of American participation in the war, Miss Ely sailed for France in September, 1917, as a canteen worker, and was assigned to the First Division of the A. E. F. After the armistice, she accompanied the First Division into Germany and crossed the Rhine with the first soldiers on December 13, 1918. She served in Germany for eight months with the army of occupation.

WORKER FOR PEACE

Her wartime observations sent her back to the United States an ardent advocate and steadfast worker for world peace. She has been a close student of international affairs, has attended the Williamstown Institute of Politics for several years and has been an interested observer of peace efforts at the Hague. In 1926 she made a special study of the governments of India, Turkey and Syria. She attended the Institute of Pacific Relations in Honolulu in 1927.

Miss Ely has been equally interested in domestic problems, particularly in educational matters. She has been a staunch supporter of efforts to give adequate educational facilities, especially to Indians and Negroes. She is a member of the board of directors of the Eastern Association of Indian Affairs, the Pennsylvania Civil Service Association, the Hampton Association and Labor Legislation Association. She was one of the organizers and a former president of the Philadelphia Junior League and was instrumental in starting the free Sunday concerts at the Academy of Music, in Philadelphia.

SMITH FIGHTS BECK VOTE IN PHILA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—(AP.)—A petition for a recount of the ballots cast at Tuesday's election in the seven wards of the First Congressional District, will be filed with the courts by the Democratic campaign committee.

Announcement to that effect was made tonight by Thomas A. Logue, chairman of the Democratic campaign committee, which, in cooperation with the Smith-for-President Citizens organization, conducted the Philadelphia campaign for Gov. Smith.

The petition, Mr. Logue said, would allege fraud in the election in the First Congressional District, and would be filed in the name of Gov. Smith.

Such action was determined upon, Mr. Logue said, when it became apparent that William L. Rooney, Democrat, who opposed Representative James M. Beck in the First District, was "disposed to accept without contest" the official count of the ballots which is now in progress.

The latest unofficial figures for the district show Mr. Beck's election by a majority of 16.

Philippines Ask Hoover for Liberty

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—On the eve of adjournment today the Philippine Legislature passed a resolution congratulating Herbert Hoover on his election to the presidency. A rider to the resolution contained a request that the next administration grant independence to the Philippines. An amendment to the corporation laws designed to liberalize the regulations for the admittance of foreign capital to the islands was passed.

Boys Blamed for Lincoln Pl. Thefts

Boys are sought by Mifflin township police as the persons who early yesterday robbed the Lincoln Place Postoffice and a chain store in the community. A small quantity of stamps and some change were missing from the postoffice, according to Anna Kerr, postmistress, who discovered the loss. The chain store nearby had been robbed of $25.

Australian Airmen Land at Rangoon

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Capt. Frank Hurley and Flying Officer Moir, Australian airmen, who are flying from Australia to England, arrived here early today from Victoria Point.

AUTOIST FREED IN DEATH OF WOMAN FROM DORMONT

Samuel H. Bales, 21, of 11 West Main street, Carnegie, was found not guilty on an involuntary manslaughter charge before visiting Judge J. H. Chambers, of Lawrence county, in Criminal Court today.

The charge was the outgrowth of an automobile accident in which Mrs. Mary Adamson, 54, of 1318 Illinois avenue, Dormont, was killed. Mrs. Adamson was a passenger in Bales' machine.

The accident occurred July 16, when the automobile driven by Bales, and in which Mrs. Adamson and her daughter, Dorothy, were riding, collided with a machine driven by David Frances. Mrs. Adamson, it was testified, was riding in the rear seat of the Bales car.

The two machines collided head-on. Frances testified he was blinded by the lights of Bales' automobile.

BRIDGE SITES TO BE CHECKED

An inspection tour to look over the sites for the West End-North Side and South Tenth street bridges will be made by County Commissioners. The erection of the West-End-North Side span over the Ohio river and the replacing of the South Tenth street bridge, were among the items in the peoples' $43,680,000 bond issue authorized this year.

G. O. P. GAINS 6 CONGRESSMEN IN MISSOURI

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Republicans gained six seats in the Missouri congressional delegation and may gain another, nearly complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's election tabulated by the Associated Press indicated last night.

The only race apparently in doubt was in the Third District, where incomplete returns, H. F. Lawrence, Republican, of Cameron, was leading Jacob L. Milligan, of Richmond, Democratic incumbent, by 73 votes.

If Lawrence should be elected, the delegation would be composed of 11 Republicans and five Democrats, almost a reversal of the present representation of 12 Democrats and four Republicans.

The closest race other than in the Third was in the Fifth District, where Edgar Ellis, Republican, of Kansas City, had a lead of 502 over Floyd Jacobs, Democrat, also of Kansas City, in complete returns. Jacobs said he would not concede defeat, awaiting the official count.

New Bridge At Lancaster Planned

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Commissioners of York and Lancaster counties, at a conference here yesterday, decided to erect a $3,000,000 concrete bridge over the Susquehanna river between Columbia and Wrightsville.

SHIELDS LOSES APPEAL IN WHISKY SENTENCE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 9.—Daniel J. Shields, of Johnstown, Pa., twice convicted of a conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act in the manufacture and sale of beer and whisky, must pay a fine of $2,000 and serve a year in the Cambria County Jail, under a decision handed down here today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The court upheld Federal Judge Gibson, of the Pittsburgh district, in his refusal to set aside Shields' second conviction in May last, and ordered its mandate be sent to the United States District Court at Pittsburgh within the next 15 days, for the carrying out of the sentence. Shields still has a chance to take the matter before the United States Supreme Court, which heard the case once before, and which granted Shields a second trial. Shields and 18 others were indicted by a federal grand jury at Pittsburgh in 1925 for conspiracy, growing out of their operations of the Emmerling Products Company and the Conemaugh Products Company, both in Johnstown, where, it was charged, the group manufactured high powered beer and whisky. Six defendants, including Shields, were convicted, others pleaded guilty, while a few were acquitted.

After losing an appeal in the Circuit Court here to set aside his conviction, Shields carried the case to the Supreme Court, which reversed the conviction and sentence and ordered a new trial. When Shields was tried again in May last he was again convicted and Judge Gibson imposed the same sentence as at the first trial. Shields' second appeal was based on technicalities, among which were an attack on the validity of the indictment against him, but the Appellate Court sustains the conviction and sentence, adopting in its entirety the opinion filed by Judge Gibson, in which he gave his reasons for refusing to grant a new trial.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

WINS TILT WITH FAULKNER ON RAID TRIAL

A. Berkowitz, former Woods Run saloonkeeper, who has been a star witness before the Federal and county grand juries investigating wholesale vice here, came out on top yesterday in a legal tussle with Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, of the North Side.

Faulkner had raided Berkowitz many times and one of the charges against the man came up in Criminal Court yesterday with Faulkner eager to prosecute.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner explained to Faulkner that he was not ready and had decided to postpone the case for a time.

Faulkner evidently did not believe the district attorney as he went before Judge James B. Drew to demand the case go ahead. Gardner did some more explaining to Judge Drew, stating that neither he nor United States Attorney John D. Meyer wanted Berkowitz tried until after he had testified in the trials resulting from both investigations. Judge Drew ruled against Faulkner and Berkowitz had quite a laugh at the expense of the North Side police official.

9 Held for Driving Man From Coal Town

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Charged with battering down the door at the home of "Jack" Lewis, a Negro, breaking his furniture and ordering him at the point of guns to leave the town, nine men of Sheppton, a coal mining village near here, are under $500 bail each today. They were arrested by state troopers on complaint of Lewis, who recently located there and is the first of his race to set up housekeeping in that place. The accused men are Henry Bley, Samuel Bley, John De Long, George Clark, David Powell, Joseph Kowalsky, Nicholas Walters, Philip Narrow and Oliver Powell.

Menu for Sunday's Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY

Roast Beef.
Yorkshire Pudding.
Browned Potatoes.
String Beans.
Endive Salad.
Baked Apple Dumplings.

I AM giving you a real English dinner this Sunday. Have a rolled or standing roast of beef, whichever you prefer, but have it well larded with fat. If you wish, place a piece of suet on top of the meat, allowing the emlting suet to run down over the meat as it cooks. Beef should be cooked in a hot oven and basted often.

Pat a little flour over the meat and sprinkle well with salt and pepper. Place it on a trivit, for the Yorkshire pudding is ecoked in the pan and there must be a little space between the pudding and the meat. Place peeled potatoes about the roast when you put it in the oven. In one hour they should be well cooked and brown. Take them out and set in the warming oven to keep hot.

Allow 20 minutes to the pound if you wish your meat rare. Half an hour if you wish it well done.

Twenty-five minutes before taking the meat up, pour the Yorkshire pudding into the pan under the roast and allow to cook that length of time.

FOR the pudding, sift one cup of flour and one teaspoonful of salt. Add a cup of milk slowly. Beat two eggs until light and add to the batter. Pour into the hot pan.

For the apple dumplings, pare and core apples. Make a rich pie dough of 1½ cups of flour, one teaspoonful of salt and water to mix. Roll out and cut in squares. Place an apple in the middle of each square. Fill the core cavity with sugar, sprinkle with cinnamon and put a dab of butter on top. Press the crust up about the apple. Place dumplings in a baking dish, and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Serve with hard sauce.

HOME-MADE TAFFY—Two cups sugar, 2 cups corn syrup, ¼ cup water, 2 tablespoons Blue Ribbon Malt Extract (plain). Cook to a good hard ball, but not until it cracks. Then set off fire and add 2 level tablespoonfuls lard and 2 level tablespoonfuls of butter. Stir until mixed through and then add Blue Ribbon Malt Extract and a pinch of salt. Then pour in buttered pans and let cool until almost cold. Then put on a hook and pull as long as possible. This can be flavored lemon or vanilla, if bitter chocolate is used, add 2 ounces.

WHEN the Creole of a few generations ago suffered from a cold, he drank onion juice sweetened with a little sugar. I'm not suggesting this for my reader. I'm merely suggesting that onions are good for you, and that you should eat them more often and in more varied form.

Have you ever tried stuffed onions? Parboil a quart of medium-sized onions and remove part of the center, leaving the root end intact. Fill the cavity with equal parts of onion, just removed, soft bread crumbs and bits of cooked meat, all chopped and seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with cream or melted butter.

Place stuffed onions close together in a buttered baking dish and cover with white sauce, sprinkle with a layer of crumbs, two boiled carrots, an egg and a bunch of parsley, all chopped fine. Dust a little flour over top and bake in moderate oven until top is browned.

BOILED ONIONS—Peel onions under water. Put in sauce pan with boiling, salted water, a teaspoon of salt to a quart of water. Cook one hour, or until soft. Drain, add a little milk, butter, salt and pepper to taste.

* * *

ONIONS AU GRATIN — Peel onions and remove thick layer next to skin. Cook in salted water until nearly done. Drain well, and place in baking dish. Make one cup white sauce and pour over onions, add a layer of buttered crumbs and

Milk and Cocoa--

Blended as in our Famous Milk Chocolate

THE milk's already in Peter's Milk Cocoa, blended with the cocoa and sugar just as our famous milk chocolate bar is blended.

You don't cook Peter's Milk Cocoa. You make it right in the cup just by adding hot water. This hot water merely replaces the moisture that has been removed from the milk.

So there is no "cooked taste" of boiled or heated milk—no scorching—no scum. Nothing to impair the chocolate taste. In Peter's you always get the full natural flavor of rich chocolate.

Peter's Milk Cocoa is prepared in the heart of a famous dairy region with an unfailing supply of the freshest, purest, full-cream milk. Its purity and freshness are safeguarded by the most scrupulous inspection and supervision from milking time until Peter's Milk Cocoa is ready for you in vacuum-packed, air-tight tins.

WITH ORDINARY COCOA YOU MUST BUY 3 THINGS

WITH PETER'S YOU NEED ONLY HOT WATER

Fresh full-cream milk and fine table sugar are already in it. No bothersome cooking, no scum, no scorching, no pans to wash.

PURE SWEETNESS

Here's the best ever!
A new cereal that crackles in cream!

Kellogg's RICE KRISPIES

THE crispest cereal you ever tasted. You can actually hear it crackle when you pour on milk or cream!

And as for flavor! Rice Krispies have that famous Kellogg flavor. Golden bubbles of toasted rice. You've never tasted any cereal like Rice Krispies. None was ever made before.

You'll surely welcome it. Such a different dish for breakfast. Such a tempting treat for lunch—the kiddies' evening meal.

Fine to put in soups. To use in macaroons, candies. Sprinkle Rice Krispies over ice cream. Butter them and serve like crisp pop corn.

bake 10 minutes to heat through and to brown crumbs. Serve hot.

BAKED ONIONS—Select even-sized onions, wipe, but do not peel. Place in a baking dish, roots down, and bake one hour, or until tender. Remove from fire, remove roots, peel carefully. Return to dish, add pepper, salt and a little melted butter. Let stand five minutes in oven, then serve hot.

ORANGE SWEET PICKLE—Four oranges, 2 cups sugar, 1 1-3 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon stick cinnamon.

Peel oranges, removing all white membrane with peel; cut into thick slices; steam until tender and translucent. Boil sugar, vinegar and spices, tied in cheesecloth, for 25 minutes. Add fruit, and put in fireless cooker, or simmer slowly on back of stove, for one hour. Place in glass jar, and let stand a week or two to ripen before using.

FILLING—Six oranges, ½ cup sugar.

Wash the orange, remove the skin, cutting off all white membrane. Cut the orange in half and cut in cubes of uniform size. Sprinkle with sugar, then spread between the prepared crusts. Serve with a sauce made with the juice of two oranges and three-fourths cup sugar.

ESCALLOPED TOMATOES—Instead of using bread, take the macaroni which comes in fancy shapes or alphabets. Boil in salted water about half the time required. Then add to stewed tomatoes and put in the baking dishes. Sprinkle the top with buttered crumbs and bake half an hour.

CHURCHILL NOW UNION MEMBER AS BRICKLAYER

International News Service.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—England can boast of being the only country in the world with a properly accredited bricklayer as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Winston S. Churchill, the present chancellor, who during the course of his striking career has been soldier, writer and statesman, has taken up bricklaying as a hobby. So enthusiastic is he regarding his new accomplishment that he has taken out membership in the Amalgamated Union of Building Trade Workers.

During the recent summer vacation Churchill helped to build a villa on his estate at Westerham, Kent. Wearing a good quality lounge suit, soft hat and gold watch and chain and smoking an expensive cigar, he laid bricks at the rate of one a minute. His "mate" was his youngest daughter, Sarah, who fetched bricks while her father laid them.

Churchill forwarded a year's subscription to the union after he received a chaffing letter from its vice president. In all seriousness he received by return the regular membership card, which was inscribed in large red letters: Winston S. Churchill, Westerham, Kent. Occupation—bricklayer.

Accompanying the card was a letter from James F. Lane, mayor of Battersea and an official of the union, which, in part, said:

"I think that as time passes you will improve your craftsmanship. We do not expect you to spend much time at your calling, particularly in view of the position you hold in His Majesty's government.

"The entrance fee, as you have not been a member before, is only a nominal one of five shillings ($1.15) and a weekly contribution of ninepence (18c) entitles you, in addition to trade protection, to $5 per week should you be called out on strike, and to an unemployment benefit should you at any time fall out of employment."

Union officials are now wondering whether Churchill will agree to become a member of the Labor party under the so-called "contracting in" clause of the Trade-Union Bill. This class enables trade unionists to become members of the Labor party and subscribe to the party funds if they so wish.

Interviewed at Westerham, Churchill declared he is now making much better speed with his bricklaying. "My speed is now well over one a minute," he said. "If I could spare the time from my official duties I am sure I could become a most proficient bricklayer.

Eldest and youngest children in the family constellation tend to be both blessed and cursed, in the opinion of Dr. R. D. Gillespie, London physiologist.

In an address before the British Association meeting here on the relations of the size of the family to physcho-neurosis he declared the youngest and eldest children appeared to be fraught with special possibilities.

"People of genius," he averred, "tend to come from one or the other.

"In the cases of the eldest children the ratio of chances of genius are three to one compared with intermediate members of the family, and in the case of the youngest children, two to one.

"But in compensation eldest and youngest children tend more to become idiots and criminals, particularly the latter."

Remarking that American law does not rule in the Scottish courts, the Inverness, Scotland, sheriff ordered Mrs. Thomas A. Scully, the wife of an American citizen, to register with the local police as an alien.

Scully resisted summons to the court on the ground that his wife was Scottish born, and since she was not an American in the eyes of the American la , if she so described herself she would be making a false statement and would be liable to prosecution.

Mrs. Scully therefore enjoys the unenviable position of being an alien both in the United States and Britian.

Dry Agent Tells How He Drinks At $1 a Drink

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Testimony by James L. White, special undercover dry agent brought here from Columbus, O., to aid in drying up the night club belt, in Federal Court yesterday revealed what agents drink and how the government foots the bill.

At the trial of Luigi Cardi and four employes of Luigi's Greenwich Village restaurant on charges of violating the dry law, White told how he paid a dollar for a single drink and $12 a quart for cut whisky.

White said he sampled various whiskies, beer, cordials, and cocktails in a single evening of evidence gathering and remained sober.

Cabinet Crisis in Portugal Is Ended

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—It was announced today that the political crisis precipitated with the resignation of the Freitas cabinet has been solved with the reconstruction of the ministry under the old leadership.

BROWN ACTS TO NIP MINE FIRE

It will cost the county possibly $50,000 to extinguish the fire in an abandoned coal mine in McElhaney plan, Mifflin township. Director Norman F. Brown, public works department, was granted permission to advertise for bids for the job.

Two lives have been lost since the mine became afire. A boy and a man were suffocated when the earth gave away and hurled them into the buring pit.

County engineers intend to cut a ditch through the abandoned workings, isolating the burning part from the other section of the mine. Steam shovels will be necessary to do the work.

Cleveland Art Fans To Visit Exhibit Here

More than 200 artists, art teachers and students from Cleveland will visit the Carnegie International Sunday. This will be the annual pilgrimage of the Cleveland people to Pittsburgh. The trip has been arranged under the auspices of the Cleveland School of Art, of which Henry Turner Bailey is the director. The group will arrive in Pittsburgh on Sunday morning by special train and will be taken at once to the Carnegie Institute, where they will spend the day.

3 HILL STORES HIT BY DRY RAIDERS

Three Hill district stores were reported raided by Federal prohibition agents late yesterday. Three men arrested in raids in which large quantities of moonshine were reported confiscated, were released on $1,000 bail each, agents say.

Badway Jacobs, 44, was arrested at 80 Elm street, where the raiders said they seized 11 half pints of moonshine. A square away at 141 Elm street, Philip Connors, 42, was taken into custody when a quantity of moonshine was found in a grocery store at that address. In a confectionery store at 71 Washington street, the seizure of 13 half pints of moonshine and the arrest of Frederic Iarorior, alias Fred Piggi, 45, was reported.

WELFARE MEET IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—A meeting of the Public Charities Association, of Pennsylvania, in the interests of a 10-year-old child welfare program, was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms here.

A representative from each charity organization in the county was present. Arthur Dunham, secretary of the child welfare division and Mrs. Helen Glenn Tyson, of Pittsburgh, vice chairman of the child welfare division were the principal speakers.

The following subjects were discussed. "Fatherless Children Under the Mothers' Assistance Fund;" "Family Aid from Public and Private Agencies;" "Children Away from Home, in Boarding Homes or Institutions;" "Children Before the Courts;" "The Marriage Law and the Child;" "The Deserted Family;" "Children of Unmarried Parents;" "Crippled Children, Blind Children and Children With Mental Handicaps."

Ohio Youths Flee Home; are Captured

Crash Suit Charges Reckless Driving

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—Mrs. W. H. Koch, of Wheeling, Wa. Va., has instituted a damage suit against L. S. Barfour, of Houston, seeking $50,000 as a result of an accident last February near Beallsville. In the bill Mrs. Koch charges that Barfour was driving recklessly on the wrong side of the road. Mr. and Mrs. Koch were injured and their machine wrecked.

Mail Truck Kills Railroad Shopman

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 9.—Struck by a United States mail truck, Harry S. Hetrick, 53, a railroad shopman, was killed near his home yesterday. His skull was fractured. The fatality was the third of the week in which pedestrians were hit by automobiles. Fred Kirkham, of Duncansville, driver of the truck, is being held for the coroner.

Democrat 70 Years, Shifts to Hoover

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—After voting a straight Democratic ticket for 70 years, Rev. D. M. Thorne, 91, cast his first ballot for a Republican candidate here Tuesday when he voted for Hoover. "Daddy" Thorne, as he is known to Westminster College students, is one of the oldest living alumni of the college, having been graduated with the class of 1868.

JELKE GOOD LUCK MARGARINE

Over and over the Challenge Test teaches the same powerful lesson—how YOU can greatly reduce your food bills by using GOOD LUCK exclusively on your table and for cooking and baking.

NO other profession requires the keenly developed senses and perfect co-ordination of nerves demanded of the intrepid air pilots who daily, through all kinds of weather, fly from Chicago to the four corners of the land.

Foremost of the great lines carrying mail and passengers is the National Air Transport Company Above is shown one of its planes at the Chicago Municipal Airport. In the foreground a group of aviators are making the famous Challenge Flavor Test.

Having been served with samples of both, they were asked to tell which they had tasted first—whether Jelke GOOD LUCK or the most expensive spread-for-bread.

And again was exploded a false notion held by some housekeepers, for none could answer. Not one could tell which was which.

IN WELFARE FUND RADIO PROGRAM

TEDDY JOYCE, HELEN GREENWOOD, VIOLA BYGERSON, A. K. OLIVER

Four principals in the Welfare Fund program to be broadcast tonight over KDKA and WCAE. Teddy Joyce will lead the Penn Theater Orchestra; Helen Marie Greenwood will contribute soprano solos; Viola K. Bygerson, contralto, will open the program over WCAE by singing "America;" Augustus K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund Association, will give a two minute address at 9:38 p. m. Several theater acts will take part.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

CLOSE to 300 artists will take part tonight in a Welfare Fund program to be broadcast over KDKA and WCAE. Acts from downtown theaters and the best local talent available will participate. The program marks the opening of the campaign for the financing of 25 Pittsburgh philanthropies.

Separate programs will be broadcast. Dennis Harris will be master of ceremonies on the KDKA program, which will go on the air at 10:30 o'clock and conclude at 2 a. m. Saturday. The presentation at WCAE will be in charge of Bert Mustin and will go on the air at 9:30 o'clock, concluding about 1 a. m. Saturday.

Augustus K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund Association, will give a two-minute talk on the purpose of the program.

In addition to the Pennsylvania Railroad Red Arrow Quartet and the International Hawaiian Trio, the following soloists are scheduled to appear:

Vera Kaighn Nirella, soprano; Viol K. Bygerson, contralto; Mary Redmond, violinist; Raymond Griffin, bass; Frederick G. Rodgers, baritone; Helen Marie Greenwood, soprano; Mrs. Charles Aufhammer and double quartet; Mrs. Marion Clarke Bollinger and Henrietta Bodycombe, pianists; Mrs. John Byerly, pianist; Mrs. Romaine Smith Russell, soprano; Mrs. Winifred Perry, contralto; Mrs. Gertrude Hespenheide, contralto; Miss Elizabeth Irwin, violinist; Miss Helen Roessing, pianist; Mrs. Henry H. Hanna, contralto.

A one-act comedy, "Brass Tacks," will be presented. The author, Duffy West, will listen in on the presentation at her home in Cincinnati. The play is scheduled for KDKA.

THEATER ACTS

Because of the uncertainty as to time and the inevitable switching of artists from one station to another it is quite likely there will be several changes in the announced programs. For this reason the Sun-Telegraph does not print the programs in detail. It has been this writer's experience that very few special programs of this type ever adhere to a set schedule. The artists will be divided between the stations. According to advance programs WCAE will broadcast acts from the Penn, Pitt, Nixon and Sheridan beginning about 11:15 p. m. Station KDKA will present acts from the Pitt, Alvin, Harris, Sheridan, Penn and Stanley, starting about 11:45 p. m. The listener is again cautioned that these schedules are subject to radical changes at any time.

WCAE FEATURES

Other features on local stations today are as follows:

From WCAE at 7 o'clock Mrs. William Maclay Hall will present Esther Edmundson and Julius Von Spindler Heuhn with gold medals in recognition of their selection as first choice in the Atwater-Kent State Auditions. The winners will give a short recital. Immediately after the concert Miss Edmundson will leave for New York to take part in the Northeastern United States eliminations, which will be broadcast Saturday night, beginning at 7 p. m. from WEAF.

In tune with the spirit of Armistice Day, O'Rourke's special arrangement of "War-Time Medley" will be sung on the Cavaliers concert at 8 o'clock. A series of selections will depict the lives of famous beauties—"A Vision of Aphrodite," "In the Palace of Old Versailles" and "At the Court of Cleopatra." Goddard's "Andante Religieux" and a viola solo, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" are other numbers. "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" will be sung by the Cavaliers.

An episode in the celebration of Armistice Day in Paris will be reproduced in the "Evening in Paris" presentation at 9 p. m. As an opening novelty "Tu Ne Sauras Jamais" will be sung by a street singer accompanied by a hand organ. Other popular war-time hits inclue "Madelon," "The Last Rose of Summer," "Dear Old Pal of Mine," "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "Roses of Picardy." The band will play the "Lorraine March."

PROGRAMS AT KDKA

The Gold Spot Pals will celebrate the installation of a radio set in their clubhouse over KDKA at 6:30 o'clock.

Anecdotes and amusing stories about Eugene Field, President Cleveland, Queen Victoria and Thomas Edison will be told by "Uncle Bob" Sherwood, clown, in the Dixie Circus at 7:30 p. m. The clown and bands, calliope, the barkers, animals and performers will lend color to the musical background. "Captain Jinks" and "Forty-Nine Battles" will be played on the calliope and the band will play "The Victors" and "Circus Parade."

"She'll Be Comin' 'Round the Mountain," a descriptive tale of a mountain belle, will be sung by the Pickard Family at 8 o'clock. Mazurka from "Coppelia" will be played by the orchestra and a novelty quartet will sing "Midnight Express."

Irma de Baun will sing the "Italian Street Song" from Herbert's "Naughty Marietta" during the program at 8:30 p. m. The male quartet will sing "The Owl and the Pussy Cat" and "Down By the Old Mill Stream."

World War songs will be reviewed by the Wrigley Spearmen at 9 o'clock. "Stars and Stripes Forever" will open the program. The march from "Aida" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" are other numbers. The comedy duo will sing "Don't Be Like That." An accordion solo, Ivory Lace," is a feature.

Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, will play "Meditation" from "Thais" on the Stromberg-Carlson concert at 10 o'clock. Keith McLeod will play a vibraphone solo, "An Old Song," and Andy Canella, guitar, will play "Chinese Lullaby" from "East Is West." The quartet will sing "Annie Laurie."

GRAND OPERA AT WJAS

"Cavalleria Rusticana" will be sung in English by the United Opera Company at 10 o'clock over WJAS.

In the True Story Hour at 9 o'clock Mary and Bob will continue their motor trip amidst the autumnal splendor of the Berkshires. The green-eyed monster, jealousy, enters the subject tonight.

Maggio's Roseland Orchestra is the attraction on Kappel's Hour, a new feature, over KQV tonight at 11 p. m. Charles Mazzetti will play a number of trumpet solos and Ed Sprague, tenor, will sing.

U. S. AGENTS "SHADOW" RUM RING TRIAL JURORS

A large number of the 125 petit jurors who are expected to hear the trials of the North Side defendants in the booze conspiracies, are under the surveillance of government agents, according to reports at the Federal Building.

It is not known whether local agents of the prohibition department are doing the "shadowing" or whether agents have been brought here from other districts. The precaution is taken by government officials to prevent any possibility of "fixing."

Six of the defendants indicted by the grand jury last June will be government witnesses against the group of defendants who are expected to go on trial Tuesday. United States attorneys say that Eugene Cappi and Arnold Thornburg, classed as whisky distributors, and collector for the North Side ring, have pleaded no defense and are ready to testify against the heads of the ring.

ELECTED, WEDS SECRETARY

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Cassius C. Dowell, bachelor congressman from Iowa's seventh district, who was re-elected Tuesday, was married yesterday to Miss Belle I. Riddle, his secretary for several years.

Miss Riddle has served as his secretary through his congressional career, and prior to that, while he was in the Iowa Senate.

They left immediately after the wedding ceremony for a honeymoon trip to Washington.

Drama as Literature and as Entertainment Noted in Theater Programs

PEOPLE ARE READING DRAMAS AND BOOKS OF PLAYS ARE IN GROWING DEMAND

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

PEOPLE in Europe usually read a play before going to see it, to make sure it is worth going to see. In America plays have not had many readers until a few years ago. Now nearly all the publishers put dramatic works into their lists, and some go in for this sort of thing on a grand scale. There is a little old bookshop on Market street that specializes in play books, where you may sometimes find half a dozen amateurs congregated looking for "vehicles." But aspiring actors are no longer the only ones to buy dramas. The drama has become a form of literature among us—as it always has been in Europe.

GEORGE SEIBEL

Perhaps that accounts for the complete "Plays" of John Galsworthy (published by Scribner), which is to the author of "Strife" what the First Folio was to Shakespeare. There are 25 plays in this volume of 682 double-column pages, beginning with "The Silver Box" and including "Escape." Many people who know Galsworthy only as a novelist will find a new phase of the man revealed in these dramas, with their technique and social message both reminiscent of Ibsen.

Scribners publish many plays, among the latest being Barrie's "Peter Pan," which makes particularly interesting reading after "The Jealous Moon" has been viewed by Pittsburghers. Fantastic plays are the most difficult of all to write, because they call for a delicate poetic vein found in few authors.

Writers Afraid To Be Romantic

ONE reason for this lack may be explained by the preface to "The Queen's Husband" (also published by Scribner), a drama that will be seen at the "Y" Playhouse in Pittsburgh later in the season. Robert E. Sherwood, who also wrote "The Road to Rome," has to say:

"The American writer is desperately afraid of glamorous romance. He knows, because the critics have told him so, that Romance is Hokum, Fantasy is Hokum, and Sentiment is the lowliest Hokum of all."

But Mr. Sherwood, who disagrees with this, assures us that.

"To be able to write a play, for performance in a theater, a man must be sensitive, imaginative, naive, gullible, passionate; he must be something of an imbecile, something of a poet, something of a liar, something of a damn fool."

So he has laid the scene of his play on an imaginary island where a mythical queen bosses an abnormally meek husband. It is all fanciful satire—and ought to play well.

One-Act Plays Now Popular

THE rise of the Little Theaters has brought a great demand for one-act plays, which many publishers are striving to supply. "Mon Ami Pierrot," by Carroll Fitzhugh (published by Houghton-Mifflin), is one of six short dramas dealing with everyday life in amusing fashion, sometimes, as in "The Snake," in serious fashion. These playlets have good acting possibilities.

Acting possibilities are also present in "A Good Provider," by Elaine S. Carrington; "The Prize Winner," by Merrill Denison, and "Shame the Devil," by Kenyon Nicholson and Alis de Sola (published by Appleton). All these miniature dramas reveal the fact that our writers are learning the art of playmaking, just as our audiences have acquired the habit of play-reading.

HOLLYWOOD LASSIES :-: IN CAMERA SNAPS :-: NOT FOR MOVIES

Josephine Dunn has had an adjustable tray made for her make-up box, to be used when she goes "on location," as trips away from the studio are called. It fits onto the door of her car.

Jean Arthur adopts rodeo tactics in snaring the chief ingredient of her Thanksgiving dinner. If you intend to follow the example of this screen actress, get out your lasso and practice.

TWO HOUSES RETAIN BILLS

Besides Eddie Cantor, the cast of Ziegfeld's "Whoopee," which is to remain in the Nixon next week, includes Chief Caupolican, Indian baritone; Ethel Shutta, Frances Upton, Tamara Geva and a host of others. Myrna Darby, of Dormont, is among the "glorified" show girls. Wednesday and Saturday are matinee days.

"The Desert Song," now in the Alvin Theater, will play a second and last week, which begins next Monday night. Alexander Gray, Bernard Granville and Bernice Clare are the three featured stars.

The Mahoney clan is coming. That is Jiggs, Maggie and Dinty, in a new "Bringing Up Father," which will be seen in the Pitt, beginning next Monday night. Matinees are listed for Thursday and Saturday.

Among the acts in the Davis next week will be "Hopping Off," presented by Nat Rennard and Lillian West, described as a "trans-Atlantic comedy with song."

Ballet Is Next In Bortz Concerts

A company of 28 artists will appear in the Bolm ballet next Monday evening in Carnegie Music Hall as the second Bortz deluxe concert. Many of the dancers have appeared with the Chicago Civic Opera. They dance numbers by Strauss and Debussy, Schubert, Lizet and other composers.

Wrong 'Phone No. Gets Her in "Dutch"

DALLAS, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Among the many complaints from those who got the wrong number, one Dallas woman today had a grievance far and above the usual telephone miscues.

Calling her hardware dealer's number, she asked briskly for a pound of bottle caps. By mistake she had been connected with the police station and 450 pounds of bluecoats were delivered instead in the persons of Officers Dean Goss and Charles Burrus. The woman's beer was destroyed and she paid a $25 fine.

CALL BLACKMER FOR U. S.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—H. M. Blackmer, missing Teapot Dome oil witness, whom the United States government is seeking to have extradited to stand trial for alleged perjury in connection with his income tax returns in Colorado, was ordered yesterday to appear in court on Saturday for "official identification."

This order is in connection with the formal demand of the United States government that Blackmer be turned over to the American authorities.

"No More Dishwashing Drudgery For Me"

Here's a quick, workless way to wash dishes. It's a new-type cleanser that turns grease into soap.

WASH DISHES without work! The very idea. Sounds impossible. But still it's true.

Now you can say goodbye to all that drudgery.

You don't have to rub and scrub to get china clean any more. There's no need now to polish glasses with a towel. No need to spend countless minutes scouring frying pans clean.

How do you do it? With "Old Witch," the new-type ammoniated cleaning fluid that thousands of women have adopted.

What it is—What it does

"Old Witch" is an ammoniated cleaner in fluid form. A super cleanser, 3 times as efficient as ordinary household ammonia.

It polishes . . . without rubbing. Cleans . . . without scrubbing. Actually turns grease into soap . . . and thus reverses all past theories about dishwashing.

Old Witch saponifies grease. Softens the water. Instantly it removes all clinging particles of food.

Out come the dishes spick and span . . . sparkling as they never did before. It's simply wonderful.

And best of all, "Old Witch" actually saves your hands . . . keeps them satiny smooth, never coarse and red looking.

A giant sized bottle costs only 35c . . . so you see it's not expensive. Remember, "Old Witch" is what you ask for . . . your grocer has it now.

"Heet" relieves instantly! With applicator attached to cork, just brush "Heet" over the pain area, whether in knees, feet, legs, hands, shoulders, back, neck or body. Instantly you feel this harmless, glorious, penetrating heat draw the pain, soreness and stiffness right out of the aching or swollen joint, muscle or nerve. "Heet" contains two soothing, penetrating ingredients, too expensive to use in ordinary liniments or analgesics. It is a clean, pleasant liquid; doesn't stain, blister or irritate, and costs only 60 cents at drug stores.

Pgh. Real Estate Man Held in Auto Death

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—E. L. Browar, reputed wealthy Pittsburgh real estate man, was arrested here today charged with manslaughter in connection with the death Tuesday night of E. W. Evans, restaurant proprietor, who was run down by Browar's automobile. Browar furnished a bond of $1,000 and was allowed his freedom.

Mr. Browar is president of the Browar Realty Company, which has offices in the Chamber of Commerce Building. At his office today it was said illness had prevented him from attending to his business for the last year and that Mrs. Browar, who lives at 6301 Morrowfield avenue, was in charge.

ONLY BALL BAN IS IN THIS STATE

PENNSYLVANIA is now the only state, and Pittsburgh the only western city in the entire circuits of the major baseball leagues, in which the playing of Sunday games is not permitted by law.

Emil E. Fuchs

The passing of a referendum by the voters of Massachusetts, making legally permissible on Sundays all paid-sports with the exception of boxing and automobile racing, means that the Boston Nationals and Boston Americans will play Sunday games at home next year for the first time in history.

All that is necessary under the referendum to make Sunday sports possible in cities of Massachusetts is the granting of special local licenses by city authorities, and there is said to be no doubt of favorable action on that detail by the council of Boston.

THE big league circuits include seven states and the District of Columbia, the states being Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Missouri and Michigan. Some years ago New York and the District of Columbia fell into line with the Western states by legalizing Sunday baseball and other sports.

Now that Massachusetts has joined the majority, Pennsylvania remains as the only state in the majors in which such sports are prohibited on the first day of the week. Of the 16 clubs in the big show, 13 may legally play games at their homoe parks on Sundays, the exceptions being the Pirates, Phillies and Athletics. The Athletics made a test case of the Pennsylvania blue laws but the State Supreme Court ruled that Sunday baseball could not be legally played within the boundaries of the Keystone commonwealth.

INDICATIONS are that when Sunday major league baseball is started in Boston next year, all such games in the Hub will be played at Braves' Field, the home park of the National League club of that city.

The explanation is that the new law requires that grounds on which Sunday games are played must be a certain distance from any place of worship. Fenway Park, the home field of the Red Sox, is located near a church, so that it will be necessary either for the owners of the club to purchase the church property or to play all home Sunday games on the grounds of the Boston Nationals.

Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, has expressed a willingness to make the latter arrangement, and an agreement to that effect probably will be reached, as it will be an easy matter to provide for non-conflicting schedules.

Fred Maguire

THE fact that the consummation of the long-expected deal sending Rogers Hornsby to the Chicago Cubs was announced soon after election day does not mean that the dicker hinged on the result of the Sunday baseball balloting in Massachusetts, as reported. On the contrary, it is known that the whole thing was cut and dried and that Hornsby's sale to the Chicago club was agreed upon before the conclusion of the world series in early October. Both sides evidently were bent on getting all the advertising and publicity possible out of it by delaying the announcement for several weeks until the excitement incidental to the presidential campaign had passed over.

BOSTON, of course, though receiving five players in the deal for Hornsby, is not getting the value of Rogers in playing material. That was not the object of the transaction. The motive of the Brave owners in transferring the star hitter to the Bruins was to obtain for him as much money as possible to offset the heavy financial losses of the Hub outfit last season.

And that President Fuchs and his associates got plenty for Hornsby in the shape of American dollars, aside from the players involved, is officially admitted. It is said that the Cub owners had to pay from $150,000 to $200,000 on the side. Boston gets a fine secoond baseman, though a light hitter, in Freddie Magnire, and a fair pitcher in Percy Jones, but Catcher Louis Leggett and Pitchers Harry Seibold and Bruce Cunningham are mere rookies. Most fans got a kick out of the announcement that President Fuchs will be "active managing director" of the Braves and that Johnny Evers, coming back to the big show, will be his "chief assistant." The general opinion is that the pair will get along peaceably together for about two innings.

THE failure of Bill McKechnie to sign a contract to manage the Cardinals again in 1929 during his conference with President Sam Breadon in St. Louis yesterday is not to be taken as meaning that Bill will not continue as leader of the Redbirds next year.

It can hardly be considered likely that Breadon would have sum-

Champion batter of the National League, who has set a record for being traded in the major leagues through the deal that sends him to the Chicago Cubs for next season in exchange for five players and a large sum of money. This will be the fourth club for him in as many seasons. He was manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and led them to the National League pennant and world championship in 1926, was traded during the winter to the New York Giants, with whom he played in 1927, and then was shunted to the Boston Braves as playing manager for last season. Inability of the Braves to carry his heavy contract, due to lack of patronage, brought about his latest transfer. Cub fans are reported looking pennantward with the great Rajah in their midst.

COAST EXPECTS TARTANS TO BE CHOSEN

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Football circles heard today that Carnegie Tech, of Pittsburgh, would represent the East in the annual Rose Bowl football classic at Pasadena, Cal., January 1, next, California for some time has been rumored as the Western representative. Les B. Henry, chairman of the Tournament of Roses football committee, said today, however, that he had extended no invitations and that he himself did not know who would play in the Rose Bowl New Years' Day.

The Carnegie Tech team is undefeated to date and holds victories over Washington and Jefferson and the University of Pittsburgh.

Carnegie Tech has Georgetown, Notre Dame and New York University yet to meet. California has its big game with Stanford before it.

CONFIRMATION LACKING

Should Carnegie Tech's football team play in the Tournament of Roses game on January 1 it will be the second Pittsburgh team to represent the East in the annual Pacific coast grid classic in as many years. The Pitt Panthers lost to Stanford, 7-6, in the Rose Bowl on January 1 of this year.

Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, and other Tartan sports officials are in Albany with the Carnegie team today, and whether or not they have been approached by Tournament of Roses officials could not be learned.

TARTANS IN ALBANY TO PLAY GEORGETOWN

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—A jump and a half behind the invading football teams of Carnegie Tech and Georgetown University, close enough that the cold and chill struck the boys right in the back of the neck, came a break of cold weather and a bit of snow—they call it a bit of snow here, where they've already had their first fall flurry more than a week past. Back home in Pittsburgh it would be a "right smart storm."

All of this, of course, changes the aspect of tomorrow's game. The snow and cold won't change the fact that both the Tartans and Hilltoppers are still undefeated and will be battling in one of the three big ball games of the day in the East. But the least little bit of a thaw, the least bit of sun and there will be a heavy field for the powerful elevens of Bob Waddell and Lou Little to trapse over.

STUDY ALBANY FIELD

The tough part of this is that neither team goes well under such conditions. The husky Tech eleven didn't look so good against Pitt on the wet turf at the Panther stadium two weeks ago. They will drill at Chadwick Park Stadium this afternoon. It is fortunate that the invading elevens will have an opportunity to become familiarized with the local field.

Chadwick Park Stadium is the converted baseball park of the Albany Eastern League baseball club and it will be necessary for the opposing field generals to get the lay of the land today. How can you put out of bound on the two-yard line when you don't know where said two-yard line is located? Answer that one.

Tomorrow's game looms pretty much as a toss-up, Georgetown, mainly because of the triumph scored over New York University a week ago, when Chick Meehan's hopes of an undefeated season had their annual dousing in cold water, has been established a slight favorite in some quarters. Prior to the Tartans' departure from Pittsburgh yesterday, Smoky City gamblers in the downtown section had offered odds of 10 to 8 on Georgetown.

TECH INEXPERIENCED

Local fans, unacquainted with the relative strength of either team, seem content to call the game a draw—and will likely do their betting on the team's colors which happen to strike their fancy. Betting on horses is another good way to lose your dough.

Tech coaches will admit that their eleven has failed to "click" in the games played so far. This may be attributed to the fact that the Carnegie eleven, despite its weight, is an inexperienced machine, and inexperienced machines in football have tough sledding. You will find few men who were real stars during their sophomore years, regardless of the amount of preparatory school experience they may have back of them.

Tech has never had more than six lettermen in the lineup at one time this year, the usual quota has been five. In the backfield, Harpster, Letzelter and Moorehead compose the veteran trio. On the line you have Saul Meltzner, Bob Schmidt and Tony Sweet. Write your own ticket.

But there are great potential qualities in the Tartan players. John Karcis gives every indication of developing into a great fullback. Highberger and Schnupp have the weight and natural ability to carry them to the heights as tackles. John Dreshar is a good guard, even though he may not know quite what it is all about as yet, and Howard Eyth, Oscar Carlson, Malcolm Hilty and Thayer (Slats) Flanagan are as sweet a set of young backs as one could wish for.

Ted Rosencweig has already demonstrated his possibilities as an end; so has the other Flanagan kid, Latham, nicknamed Pete for no reason at all.

With Pete Stauffer, Kousman, Kerr, Yerina, Marshall, Shaughency, Lovewell, the members of the team who have seen more or less varsity service in past years, these are the fellows who will seek to end the carousing of Georgetown among the undefeated tomorrow.

With all the Tartans in good physical shape, no startling changes

EYTH IS SEEN AS TECH ACE NEXT YEAR

By HARRY KECK,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

WHAT player on the Carnegie Tech eleven, so far undefeated, and hopeful of defeating Georgetown, Notre Dame and New York University in the remaining games on the schedule, will fill the shoes of Capt. Howard Harpster, the brilliant quarterback, when the latter rounds out his college career this season?

Howard Eyth.

Don't bet more than a thin dime that the big star of the 1929 campaign will not be Howard Eyth, the 165-pound, 5 foot 10 former Mars (Pa.) High School star, a speedy halfback, who so far this season has not been able to get going in his freshman stride of last year, but whose ability and worth are widely recognized by Tech men nevertheless.

Eyth is one of those retiring athletes, much like Harpster himself. He is inclined to minimize his own ability and they tell a story about him to the effect that at the start of the present campaign he replied, when asked what he thought of his chances of making the varsity eleven, that he "ought to make the team next year."

Coach Judge Wally Steffen believes Eyth will find himself in a big game one of these days, and from then on will be one of the finest backs in the land. In this connection, he recently related an experience in his own career at the University of Chicago, where he was an all-America quarterback a score of years ago.

Steffen was understudying the great Walter Eckersall, at that time rated the best player in the game, and naturally felt his limitations. Although a star in his own right in his prep days, he was in a tough spot trying to compete with an ace of the magnitude of Eckie.

"THERE came along a game with Purdue," Steffen said, "and it looked like a tough one. They were picking Purdue to beat Chicago (it seems Old Man Stagg was fearing Purdue even in those days). Just before the battle, Eckersall was hurt and it was necessary for the coaches to groom me to take his place. You can imagine how much I felt the responsibility that fell on my shoulders.

"But the breaks were with me and I ran wild that afternoon, scoring five touchdowns myself. The next day one of the Chicago papers came out with a glaring headline to the effect that 'Steffen out-Eckersalls Eckersall.'

"From then on I realized that I was pretty good myself, and there was no holding me. I had found myself in that test."

Steffen likens Eyth to himself in that pinch. All Howard needs is a big day in an important game to give him the necessary spark to convert him into a star of the first order, and his moment may come in one of the three remaining important games on this year's schedule. And if it does, he may be ripping and tearing vice Harpster next year.

Football players are not the only athletes who "find" themselves in the heat of action. Boxers have been known to go dubbing along for several years and then find themselves in one fight and go on to win championships. Benny Leonard was knocked out twice early in his career and was regarded as merely a clever boxer with a cream puff punch. Then, one night, he knocked out Joe Mandot, the great lightweight of

DUKES' FLOOR SCHEDULE IS COMPLETE

John D. Holahan, Duquesne University's graduate manager has announced the completed basketball schedule for this year. The Dukes will play 19 games this seson, nine at home and ten away.

There are three newcomers on the card in Ohio Northern, which opens the season in Pittsburgh on December 21, St. Thomas College, to be met in Scranton, February 7, and Manhattan College, to be played in New York, February 8. Ten of the contests are home and home affairs with members of the Tri-State Conference. The schedule:

December 21, Ohio Northern, home.
January 4, Marrietta College, home.
January 11, Westminster, New Wilmington, Pa.
January 14, Manhattan College, home.
January 19, Thiel, Greenville, Pa.
January 22, Geneva, home.
January 29, Waynesburg, home.
February 2, Bethany, Bethany W. Va.
February 7, St. Thomas, Scranton, Pa.
February 8, Manhattan, New York.
February 9, New York City College, New York.
February 11, American University, Washington, D. C.
February 12, Catholic University, Washington, D. C.
February 15, Waynesburg, home.
February 22, Bethany, home.
February 23, American University, home.
March 1, Waynesburg, Waynesburg, Pa.
March 2, Thiel, home.
March 5, Westminster, home.
March 8, Geneva, Beaver Falls, Pa.

Creditors Swamp Chicago Promoter

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—James Mullen, Chicago's leading boxing promoter, who is under indefinite suspension by the state athletic commission, today received another blow when his famous gymnasium was closed on a foreclosure writ. Creditors took possession of the gymnasium, probably the best equipped for boxing in the world, to satisfy their claims against him.

Majors May Open Season Week Later

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — (AP.) — Under present plans the major league baseball campaigns will start a week later in 1929 than they did this year, John Heydler, president of the National League, said it was expected to open the season in both leagues on April 16 and close on September 29. The 1928 season opened on April 11 and closed September 29.

Ketchell Scores K. O.

ELAM, Pa., Nov. 8.—(AP.)—Young Ketchell, Chester, Pa., welterweight, scored his second technical knockout in three weeks in a local ring last night when he stopped Al Conway, of Philadelphia. Conway was unable to answer the bell at the start of the sixth round, and the referee awarded the fight to Ketchell.

M'Fowler, Haggerty Johnstown Winners

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 9.—Ike McFowler, Johnstown Negro, was awarded a decision over Frankie Wine, Billings, Mont., in a one-sided 10-round bout here last night. McFowler weighed 138, Wine 132.

In the six-round semi-final Young Guido, 146½, Youngstown, O., won the decision over Allen Beatty, 144½, McKeesport, in six rounds.

Johnny Haggerty, Pittsburgh, was awarded the verdict over Young Kane, Pittsburgh, in six rounds. Both weighed 120.

Otis Sapp Clears Up Mystery of Why Tech And Georgetown Are Playing in Albany

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The dirt is out—Otis P. Sapp, man about town and about broke—has told all in an exclusive interview with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's correspondent.

The dirt concerns the whyfore and wherefore of the staging of the important Carnegie Tech-Georgetown University football game in this town tomorrow. Albany isn't very close to Washington, the home town of the Irishmen, and it is even farther from the abiding place of the Tartans. The alumni of the two institutions here, all three of 'em, were at the station to greet the players on their arrival this a. m., with their three-buck-and-a-half ducats for the game clenched firmly in their hands.

Otis P. Sapp.

As the crowd about the station rushed forward to welcome the disembarking players, shouting "taxi, peanuts and popcorn, rubber balls, magazines, candy, chewing gum" and other encouraging things, a dignified gentleman with a wonderful mustachio, nine inches from tip to tip as the soup flies, stalked majestically forward, and, grasping the hand of Buddy Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, spake in a cheerful voice:

"My pal, in the name of the Albany Joint Debating Society, I welcome you and yours to Albany. Now, if you can find a suitable joint, we will hold a little debate."

TALK ABOUT GATE

"Thanks," came back Buddy, quick as a wink, "I detest ginger ale, but I would like to go into a huddle with you and get the lowdown on the size of the gate you expect for this game tomorrow. Our boys don't play so well before small crowds."

"How many were at the Pitt-Syracuse game last week?" returned Otis P. (for it was indeed he), winking slyly at Wladek Peruvian McJugg, who had just popped up. (Wladek popped down again and will not be mentioned further in the story).

A palatial car rolled to a stop at the curb and Old Pal Sapp (we all were calling him pal by this time) invited us to step in. We all found seats and he started the lizzie and we were whisked down one of Albany's boulevards, which was littered with funny-looking buttons, which resembled in many respects a zebra minus his stripes.

Arriving at our destination, which proved to be the headquarters of the Albany Joint Debating Society, and passing through nine doors and peeping into nine peepholes, we emerged in the club rooms of the A. J. D. S. We lined up at the club's shrine, but had to sit down pretty soon because the Pittsburgh boys kept getting sawdust in their shoes. That is what they get for wearing lowcuts—the ninnies.

At this point, Old Pal Sapp grew very confidential, and, taking this correspondent over to a corner, gave him the exclusive interview, the lowdown on the reason for Albany's giving itself a break and booking the football game which will be played for all the folks in Albany tomorrow who do not go to a movie, stay at home with the kids, do their Sunday marketing or traipse down to the gas works and watch the Albany Tigers battle with East Side Firemen.

THE REAL LOWDOWN

"One year ago," Old Pal Sapp began, "an affable stranger dropped anchor in these parts, bearing with him a gigantic brief case. He was a presentable sort of a chap, you understand, and had a way about him. He soon worked his way into the inner circle of Albany society, and finally, at one of the regular meetings of this club, took off his sheepskin and showed himself to be the wolf that he was, and, so far as I know, still is.

"He wound up by selling most of the good people of this burg, and some of the bad ones, too, a set of books. Each tome had a department devoted to college cheers and songs, with full instructions on how they were to be used. Well, what could we do? Albany folks, you will find, are a thrifty lot, and, having paid out $149 for the books, simply had to make use of them.

"We had to get ourselves a col-

KID CHOCOLATE WINS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Kid Chocolate, latest Cuban bantamweight sensation, pounded out an easy 10-round decision over Pinky Silverburg, of Ansonia, Conn., at the St. Nicholas Arena last night. The Kid could not drop the New Englander, but outpointed him by a wide margin.

WESTINGHOUSE, PEABODY TO BATTLE

The sectional championships in the City League may be settled by nightfall. Though there are only two league games scheduled, both are of titular caliber, where victory for the right team will assure the fortunate eleven of a chance to play for the 1928 crown.

In Section I, where Peabody upset Schenley last week, the Highland avenue eleven will clash with Westinghouse for the sectional lead. Both elevens have won two games and lost none. Peabody entered the game with Schenley on the short end of the betting, but by a sensational final period rally, during which two touchdowns were scored, emerged with a 13-7 triumph. Westinghouse will be somewhat of a favorite as the teams line up for the battle today. In the event that the Silver Lakers won, they will still have Schenley to get past, and in the event that they fail there, the three teams will be tied for the lead. Peabody can clinch the title by winning this afternoon. The game will be played on the Westinghouse gridiron.

South Hills will confront the last obstacle in its chase for the banner in Section II in the embattled Carrick High gridders. South Hills, like Peabody, can cinch matters by winning today, while a defeat will toss the team into a tie with Allegheny for the lead.

CARRICK NO SETUP

Carrick was not rated as a strong contender when the campaign opened, but the Lyons eleven has come along in fine shape, and with two victories and a tie in the last three games, figures to give the section leaders a hard game this afternoon.

Perry High clashes with Oliver in another Section II game. Neither eleven has a chance for title rating, but the game promises to be one well worth seeing. The elevens are hot rivals. The game is booked for the Oliver field.

Fifth Avenue, with no league competition listed, meets up with New Kensington at New Kensington tomorrow, and Schenley, still smarting from the sting of the Peabody defeat, plays Norwin away from home.

In a Section II battle yesterday, Allegheny trampled Langley, 31 to 0, on Oliver High School field, in Brighton road. The title contenders were by far and away too classy an outfit for the sectional trailers.

Touchdowns were amassed by Weimer, Lee and Bernhart, the fullback getting a pair. Reisacker kicked one point after touchdown. The lineup:

Allegheny—31.		Langley—0.
Horton	L. E.	Speer
Reisacker	L. T.	Anderson
Bailey	L. G.	Keller
Sedlak	C.	J. Booth
Tiernan	R. G.	Borghini
Blatosky	R. T.	Miller
Mundy	R. E.	Flint
Weimer	Q.	Ryan
Sewell	L. H.	Scudder
Nee	R. H.	Ward
Bernhart	F.	Astor

Score by quarters:

Allegheny	6	18	7	0	—31

Touchdowns—Weimer, Nee, Horton, Bernhart 2. Point after touchdown—Reisacker (dropkick). Missed points after touchdown—Allegheny 4. Substitutions—Allegheny, Phillips for Nee, Haseman for Weimer, Timmons for Horton, Chidlow for Reisacker, Reisacker for Mundy, Powers for Sewell, Vollmer for Reisacker, Elphinstone for Tiernan; Langley, Douglas for Ryan, W. MILKS, DARRAGH IN; PADDY OUT

By CARL W. SHATTO.

HIB MILKS and Harold Darragh, two of the outstanding stars of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club and of the National League, quit the holdout ranks last night and signed contracts for the 1928-29 ice campaign. The contract signing took place at Duquesne Garden at a conference attended by Milks, Darragh, Manager Odie Cleghorn, Charley Leonard, club secretary and brother of Benny Leonard, owner of the franchise, and President J. F. Callahan.

Following the conference, Secretary Leonard wired Frank Calder, National League president, asking that Milks and Darragh be reinstated. They were suspended by the league head on November 1 for failing to sign before that time. There is little doubt but that they will be reinstated immediately, as their signing is regarded as an automatic lifting of the ban.

SULLIVAN FAILS

In announcing the signing of the former holdouts, Manager Cleghorn further stated that Paddy Sullivan would not be tendered a contract. Sullivan, who starred at center for the local amateur teams a few years ago, joined the Pirates at the start of the training campaign in an effort to do a comeback after a couple years' layoff. He has practiced and scrimmaged with the local National Leaguers in their every workout, but he has been unable to regain his former brilliant form. Sullivan, too, is extremely small in stature, and Manager Cleghorn feared that he would not be able to withstand the continual "roughing" to which present-day National Leaguers are subject. The little Oakland dentist has a host of friends among local ice fans who will be disappointed at his failure to "make the grade."

WORTERS GOES HOME

Roy Worters, who refused to quit the holdout ranks at a "showdown" conference last night, today made preparations to return to his home in Toronto. The diminutive goalie was "sent home" by Pirate officials Wednesday night when he refused to come to terms, and it is probable that he will be idle throughout the season.

Although Worters is regarded as the best goalie in the league, his absence will inflict no great hardship on the Pirates, for Joe Miller, league-owned goalie who is to take his place in the local lineup, is a smart, experienced net guardian of the first rank. Secretary Leonard has asked the league prexy to send Miller here, and because he is kept in reserve for just such emergencies as this, there is little doubt but that Leonard's request will be granted.

Miller, who first achieved stardom while a member of local amateur clubs, added to his fame when he substituted for Chabot in the Ranger nets in the New York Rangers-Montreal Maroons world series of last spring. He will remain in the local lineup until such time as the Pirates are able to sign a "regular" successor to Worters.

ROY NOT TO BE TRADED

And the successor to Worters, according to officials of the local club, will not come here through the medium of a trade. Benny Leonard, in discussing Worters' stand recently, said that Roy neither would be traded nor sold. Leonard is confident that he dealt fairly with Worters in offering him a $1,000 salary increase, and plans to penalize the goalie by keeping him idle without pay.

Manager Cleghorn expressed great satisfaction over the capitulation of Milks and Darragh from the holdout ranks. Milks is the Buce' regular center and Darragh is one of the best wingmen in the loop. Odi is confident that with these stars in the lineup, and with all of the players in their present fine shape, the Pirates will be a championship contender from start to finish.

The league season is to open on November 15 when Boston will appear here.

moned McKechnie to St. Louis for the purpose of dismissing him, or, that if he had any such move in mind he would have arranged another conference with the Wilkinsburg citizen for December 11. Surface signs indicate pretty clearly that McKechnie is to stay as leader of the Cardinals.

Jim Jeffries

"THREE minds are better than one," said Boxing Commissioner William Muldoon, of New York, to Joe Vila in defending the present system of giving decisions in bouts. "Decisions by modern officials are an improvement because a bout is decided by a referee and two judges, whereas in the old days the referee officiated alone. Of course, mistakes are made now and then by referees and judges, but in a large majority of bouts the verdicts are eminently fair and just. A successful referee or judge must be honest, fearless and competent. He must have a practical knowledge of the scientific points in boxing.

"I CAN recall one referee's decision that was unfair, to say the least. I never can forget the twenty-five round bout between Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey at Coney Island. George Siler was the referee on that occasion. He was believed to be absolutely fearless, yet, in my opinion, he was afraid to call the bout a draw.

"Siler declared Jeffries the winner in spite of the aggressiveness of Sharkey during the first 18 rounds. I always shall believe that Jeffries purposely lost one of his gloves in the twenty-fifth round, which gave him a short breathing spell. Sharkey's gameness and courage entitled him to a draw at the worst."

IN AN editorial on the signing of Donie Bush to manage the Pittsburgh club again next year, "Sporting News," baseball publication of St. Louis, says: "Rumor had it that the Pittsburgh Club would lose its manager in 1929. The story went the rounds that Donie Bush would go to Detroit to manage that team, because Bush once had been a Detroit shortstop when the Detroit team was a conspicuous figure in the baseball world.

Bush's closest friends believed none of the rumors. They were wise in that, because Bush is to go on with Pittsburgh in 1929. He is not of the type that likes to surrender to the belief that he is defeated or has been defeated. That is the easiest way in which to put it, because it is the most characteristic description of the man.

Percy Jones

"THIS little fighter failed to win a pennant in 1928, but he pulled a team out of a hole into which it seemed to have sunk beyond rescue. At one time he almost succeeded in raising it to the level of a contender in the race. That is an achievement. We are profuse with our compliments to the manager who wins a pennant, but after all there is as much success at times in lifting a team upward from the bottom, or near bottom, even if the lifting does not win a championship, as there is in taking an early lead for a pennant and bowling on without interruption until the 154th game of the season is played. If Donie Bush were not a fighter the Pittsburgh team would not have landed where it did in 1928. The changes that Bush assisted in making in Pittsburgh were more profitable than otherwise. He got more than value received on the Aldridge trade for Grimes and certainly Cuyler did not win the pennant for the Cubs."

Fight Results

At McKeesport—Cuddy DeMarco defeated Benny Burns, 10 rounds; Teddy Welch defeated Georgie Peck, 6 rounds; Jack O'Banyan knocked out Tommy Hellman, 2 rounds; Howard Williams defeated Bob Smoller, 4 rounds.

Peabody High Girls Cop Swim Laurels

Peabody High, winner of Section I in the dual meets, nosed out South Hills, winner in Section II, by a point for the senior girls' high school swimming championship of the city yesterday afternoon in the Fifth avenue pool. The score was Peabody 19, South Hills 18. Perry and Westinghouse, tied again for third place.

McCullough, of Peabody, broke the only record of the afternoon by plunging 60 feet 5½ inches in 50 seconds.

South Juniors, victors in Section I of the dual meets, captured the Junior city title yesterday with an overwhelming score of 25. Perry of Section II, was second with 15 points. Carrick ranked third place with five points.

Joe Mannion May Be Back in Harness Soon

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Coach Crowe, of St. Vincent's College, thinks Joe Mannion, the halfback, who was forced to leave the field yesterday when his left shoulder was injured, will be able to play Saturday if necessary. Treatment is bringing him back to shape, it is thought. Mannion has been playing a good game all season and his presence in the lineup is desired.

A Year Old—and Now A Prize Winner

Kaufmann's Annex Is Now a Year Old

We're considerably proud of the youngster . . . proud of its splendid first year record . . . proud of the many new friends it has made by its consistently fine offerings.

It is really a separate store for men and specializes in "Plus-Six" clothing at 21.50 . . . in our estimation, the best that the price can purchase in Pittsburgh.

Easy of access, just across Diamond St. from the main building, the Annex has provided Pittsburgh men with additional proof of Kaufmann service . . . and the fair price Kaufmann policy.

Choose Your "Plus-Six" Suit, Topcoat or Overcoat From New and Finer Quality Assortments

ALWAYS 21.50

Remember, your Kaufmann charge account is honored here and you need pay no charge whatever for alterations. Delivery will be made by our regular delivery service, if requested.

The regular makers of "Plus-Six" clothing consented to better the usual "best-at-21.50-quality" as a matter of congratulating the Annex upon its successful first year.

As a result the present offerings are far and away the finest we've yet had here . . . certainly they're much superior to any other clothing that bears this price mark.

Sizes for every build . . . models for every taste . . . seasonable new shades and patterns . . . a huge variety is here now. Drop in at the Annex to-morrow and see these, you'll surely be agreeably surprised at the values.

86,000 TO ATTEND

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Yankee Stadium will hold a record-breaking Metropolitan crowd of 86,000 for the Army-Notre Dame game tomorrow. It is a sell-out for the fourth year in succession, with wagers on the outcome favoring the Cadets at odds ranging from 5 to 3 to 2 to 1.

EVERS DESERVES BIG CHANCE TO COME BACK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Boston club next season will help the National League to pay a debt of gratitude. Johnny Evers is coming back to be the field director of the Braves.

The league itself, perhaps, does not deserve one iota of thanks for the Boston decision to restore Evers. It probably is not stretching the truth one bit to say that the league has been very ungrateful to fellows like Johnny and Honus Wagner.

HELPED GAME

Regardless of what success Johnny meets with in his new position, few will deny that he was one of the untiring gladiators who put professional baseball where it is today.

A ball game with Evers was a serious event—something to carry out of the clubhouse and to be fought over as late as midnight if he could find another athlete who would argue with him.

You may say that Evers had the wrong idea in that he hurt his own health and upset the nerves of other athletes by his insistence in going over mistakes of the day long after the battle was over, yet who will discredit the part he played in building up the sport?

There is nothing in baseball to surpass the performance of Evers as he captained the Braves of 1914 to the most spectacular pennant in history—a pennant that was followed by the smashing triumphs over the Athletics in the World Series.

REAL VETERAN

Why should Evers be out of the councils of baseball over a long period of years while others who have contributed little or nothing for the good of the sport bask in the spotlight? And the same goes for the Flying Dutchman.

It is to be hoped that Evers has toned down in his actions on the field. At his worst, Johnny's speech was not half as foul as the talk that passes from the lips of certain players now in the sport: his worst offense being biting sarcasm that weakened many at whom it was aimed. Evers did not resort to the gutter-type jargon.

Off the field Johnny is as gentlemanly and as courteous as a Boy Scout.

EDDIE WAGNER TO TRAIN HERE

Eddie (Kid) Wagner, the veteran lightweight of Philadelphia, who meets Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, will arrive in Pittsburgh Sunday morning and will work out in the afternoon in the Motor Square gym. This final drill will be in the nature of a public performance, to which the fans will be admitted free.

Rudy will stage his last hard workout this afternoon. He plans to taper off tomorrow and may not work at all on Sunday. Always in excellent condition, he has taken extra pains to prepare himself for his first local main bout and does not want to run the risk of overtraining.

Lou Scozza and Jack McVey, middleweights, box in Buffalo tonight. Billy Kowalik and Frankie Garcia will clash in the semi-final. Joey LaGray, of Johnstown, boxes Spider Kelly, of Kansas City, in Brooklyn. This bout marks the Eastern debut of the highly-touted Kelly, who claims victories over Jimmy Finley, Myer Grace, Irish Tommy Jordan and other good ones. Dick O'Leary and Joe Dragon meet for 10 rounds at Fort Hayes, Ky., Tuffy Griffiths boxes Joe Anderson, Lope Tenorio battles Ray Miller and Harry Ebbets clashes with Harry Peterson at Detroit, and Herman Folins, of Ambridge, boxes Ruby Ziegler in a six-round bout in New York.

Cuddy DeMarco boxes Iowa Joe Rivers at the Coliseum in Chicago next Thursday night.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Andy Stahura, of Braddock, will box the 10-round main bout of the special Armistice Day boxing matinee at Windber tomorrow afternoon. Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, will engage Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, in the semi-final.

Tony Ross, Carnegie lightweight, suffered a split lip in his bout with Norman Brown at Chicago, Tuesday night and has had to call off plans for a bout with Mushy Callahan, at Peoria. He will return home within a few days to rest up.

Howard Mayberry, veteran bantamweight, of Donora, will top the card at McKeesport, next Thursday night. His opponent likely will be Eddie Elbowd, of Columbus, another clever veteran.

Young Guido, of Sharon, and Georgia Peck, of the North Side have been matched for the second bout of four rounds at Motor Square Garden, Monday night. Frankie Maegn, of Braddock, has been substituted for Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, against Frankie Lanz, of Sharpsburg, in the four-round opener, and Frankie Palmo, of Cincinnati, and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, will provide the eight-round semi-final. Jess Hoak, of McKeesport, and Jackie Murray, of the Hill, will box the six-round preliminary.

Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, and Joey Medill, of Chicago, have been matched for a 10-round bout at Chicago next Tuesday night.

A double windup two eight-round bouts has been arranged for East Liverpool, O., next Monday night. George Tomosky, of Wilmering, and Jackie Powers, of Youngstown, flyweight, will appear in one of them and Harry Morris, of Steubenville, and Johnny Pollock, of Youngstown, in the other.

TECH AT ALBANY

are planned for the lineup for tomorrow's struggle. Harpster, Kurcis, Letselter and either Moorehead or Eyth will start in the backfield. Lovewell and Dreshar will be at the guards, Meiliziner at center. The tackle posts will be filled by Schnupp, Highberger or Schmidt. Sweet, Rosencweig and Shaughency will be chosen for the ends. All three will likely see service.

Lou Little, who hasn't changed his starting lineup all season, figures to send his warhorses in against the plaid just as they lined up against New York. That means that Ken Provincial and Tomanini will be at the ends, Liston and Mooney at the tackles, Capt. Carroll and Cordoyano at the guards and the light Wynnkoop at center.

In the backfield, Duplin is the likely choice to start at quarter, with Bozek and Hudak at the halves and the hard hitting Barabas at full.

The advance sale of tickets for the game has been just fair. Graduate Manager Overend said last night on the train that he would be satisfied with 15,000—which looks to be a reasonable hope, what with the Army and Notre Dame clashing less than 200 miles away.

And after all, this is Albany's first experiment at big time football.

New Orleans, and from then on he was the outstanding challenger for the title, a smart, hard-punching ringster, possessing class and a punch. There was no stopping him and he became one of the greatest champions in history.

Baseball players, tennis players and golfers and others in the limelight similarly have become great in a crisis and retained their new found winning form. Hard work and close application are necessary to lay the foundation on which this greatness is to be built, and the spark of genius that comes in a flash does the rest.

TECH does not fear Georgetown in the battle at Albany, N. Y., tomorrow. It respects the Washington eleven, but by no means has suffered from an inferiority complex in preparing for the battle with the undefeated conquerors of New York University. Tech is good and knows it, but, withal, will not enter the game in a cocky frame of mind. Whatever cockiness the Tartens felt as the result of easy early-season victories was knocked out of them in no uncertain way in the 6-0 battle with Pitt two weeks ago. They realize the folly of underrating a foe and are determined to keep their feet on the ground against the Catholics to avoid getting off to a bad start.

A man high in the athletic councils of Tech made a wise observation yesterday when he gave his reasons for figuring victory for the Plaid tomorrow.

"Georgetown is a powerful offensive team," he said. "But no team that relies merely on power will beat Tech if the Tech team is playing its game. Our defense in the scoring zone is virtually impregnible. Our heavy line and smart, strong secondary defense have proved their mettle throughout the season and should be able to hold any opponent that plays a driving game."

IF Carnegie is able to come through on top in its remaining games there is every likelihood that Capt. Harpster will be the general choice for all-America quarterback, a post he richly merits. Six feet tall and weighing only 150 pounds, he can do anything a man in his position is expected to do, and do it in brilliant fashion. He is a cool, resourceful field general, a great passer, a good punter, a wonderful tackler in the open, a good interferer, a demon at returning punts and a sure goal line plunger. While he has not carried the ball much on runs this season, he has shown in the past that he also excels in this department when called upon. A perfect season, with victories over Pitt, Wash-Jeff, Georgetown, New York U. and Notre Dame, with this star bearing the brunt of his team's play, would be such a showing that it would be a rank injustice to deprive him of his rightful place along with Chris Cagle and the other outstanding backs of the year.

These games are not yet all won, of course, and those still remaining to be played are the hardest on the schedule. The honor that awaits Harpster at the end of the trail, however, is an added incentive for his teammates to give their all in recognition of his great performances, and they may be relied upon to put forth every effort to pull through undefeated not only for the glory of their alma mater but also for national recognition for their leader as well.

PANTHERS REST FOR BATTLE WITH W.-J.

JOCK SUTHERLAND sent his Pitt Panthers through their final workout for tomorrow's battle with the Presidents of Wash-Jeff in the stadium yesterday afternoon, and was about as optimistic as he has ever been prior to a game, when the drilling was completed. A determined Panther squad is eagerly awaiting battle time.

Today, Coach Sutherland will confine his footballers to light work, so that they may be in the best of fettle for the Presidential affair. It is expected the same lineup that faced Syracuse last week will oppose the Kerrmen.

Parkinson was in uniform yesterday testing out his fractured ribs. It was easy to be seen, however, that he will be in no condition to play tomorrow, despite his recuperation.

Andy Kerr's gang will arrive in town all pepped up to show the Panthers their best, and it is expected they will offer the locals most formidable strength over which to argue.

The Dukes will rest today and get only light work tomorrow, after which they will begin serious preparation for their contest with Thiel in the Pitt Stadium a week hence.

In tonight's other game, the league will have its season inaugural in Chris Dimling's, Smithfield street, George Pitfield meeting William Greenwood, of Ellis'.

In last night's game, Robert Carter, of Kalmer's, winner of last season's title, defeated Dale Campbell, at Ellis', 48 to 37. Each had a high run of five.

DEMARCO BEATS BENNY BURNS

Cuddy DeMarco easily won a 10-round decision over Benny Burns in the welterweight windup at the Majestic Club, McKeesport, last night. Cuddy's shifty boxing and hard punching, particularly in the last four rounds, earned him the victory.

In the semi-final, Teddy Welch, substituting for Johnny Vivio, defeated Georgie Peck in their six-round setto. Welch was the winner all of the way, although the judges split on the decision and left it up to the referee.

Jack O'Banyan made short work of Young Heilman, of Monongahela, in another scheduled six-rounder. The Clairton fighter knocked out Heilman in the second round with a solid smash to the jaw.

The lid-lifter proved to be a slugfest between Howard Williams, Negro welter of Swissvale, and Bob Smoller, of Pittsburgh. Williams getting the verdict.

Manfield's Scotch Grain leather lined Wing Tip Brogue purchased by us for 78 shillings $18.70 in London

Regal Reproduction of Manfield's Scotch Grain leather lined Wing Tip Brogue in all stores $6.60 all one price

We bought forty pairs of the original models of these leather lined English Oxfords in the Regent Street store of Manfield & Sons, London. Today the originals with the Regal Reproductions, are now on display in 76 Regal Stores in the U. S. A. from New York to San Francisco.

Manfield & Sons are the largest makers of high grade shoes in England, and this is what they told us:

"You may rightly regard this shoe as the finest specimen of Rugged College and Country shoe produced in England.

"We feel safe in saying that in the Country Houses and Shooting Boxes of over half the Nobility of England, this shoe may be found."

The upper leather in both shoes is Martin's of Glasgow, Scotch Grain, and as there is only one Genuine undiluted Scotch Grain, our men went to Glasgow to see Mr. Martin personally, and rush shipments to our factory of identically the same tannage that is in the English shoes.

Now in addition to this famous Wing Tip leather lined heavy sole Galosh Oxford, we have forty-one other styles of Genuine Scotch Grain, Heather Grain and Holland Grain. High shoes and Winter Oxfords, Plain and Fancy patterns, Wing Tips, Ball Straps and Saddle Straps, we believe it represents the most complete line of Genuine imported High-Grade leathers ever offered in America, and they are all One Price, $6.60.

Corporations Must Serve Us or Die; We Are the Boss

By B. C. FORBES

THE greatest corporations in the country must become our servants, or die.

Let that truth be clearly understood by all classes, and much of the antagonism to large-scale business would disappear.

TO LIVE, huge corporations must have a large income. They can get that income only from the public. And, except in the very rare cases of unregulated monopolies, they must offer you and me something which we are convinced is worth buying at the price asked. In the case of public utilities they must satisfy politically-appointed regulatory commissions that the rates they charge or propose to charge are absolutely reasonable.

TAKE actual illustrations.

General Motors is classed as the greatest money-making organization in the United States. Why is it so prosperous? Because it manufactures products which millions of people willingly buy at the prices asked, in preference to similar products manufactured by competitors.

Were General Motors to cease to provide satisfactory products and service, it would go bankrupt. You and I hold its life in the hollow of our hands.

America's first billion dollar enterprise was the United States Steel Corporation. At first it was extremely loose jointed. It was unable to provide products which consumers would buy in sufficient volume to yield the corporation enough profit to earn dividends on its common stock. That stock fell below $10 a share. Indeed, on one occasion the late J. P. Morgan was so worried over the corporation's financial condition that he cried like a child when the late Henry C. Frick, who was called into consultation by the veteran banker, told him that the preferred dividend should be stopped. It was continued only because Mr. Morgan protested that he could not bear up against such a "disgrace."

By and by the far-flung plants, mines, etc., became more closely knit, more efficient and therefore more profitable. The management learned the art of making its products more attractive to buyers. In other words, the Steel Corporation became a more efficient servant.

THE largest corporation in the world is the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. "It is a monopoly," you may say. Let us accept that statement, even though it is not completely true. But this nationwide organization would not prosper as it does prosper, monopoly or no monopoly, were it grossly mismanaged. So far as I know, every telephone system in Europe is more or less of a failure; certainly there is no system in Europe comparable with ours in efficiency, none has been able to induce so large a percentage of the population to become telephone subscribers. We have in this country 19,000,000 telephones because American Telephone and Telegraph has succeeded, better than any other telephone system in the world, in providing service which the people consider worth the price. And of course America has left every other country far in the rear in developing the science and the practice of telephony.

Were the company to fall down on its job ignominiously it would either go bankrupt or be taken over by the government—perhaps both. It must serve or perish.

THIS same rule, this same economic degree, applies to every business enterprise. Each must furnish either goods or service acceptable to you and me, or it will not survive. You and I and our fellows are the real bosses of all our industrial giants—General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse, Chicago's Packing Houses, Bethlehem Steel, National Cash Register, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber, our giant oil companies, Ford and Chrysler and Willys-Overland and other motor companies, the Radio Corporation, our great newspaper and magazine publishing houses.

AGAIN the heads and other executives of business enterprises can make money, as a rule, only by making it for all other stockholders in their concerns. It is the rule rather than the exception for responsible executives to invest in their own stocks. The greatest fortunes today come from dividends on stocks. And there are few large companies whose stocks are not available for purchase by you and me on exactly the same terms as they can be purchased by millionaires. To get rich, managers of enterprises must become efficient servants doing things satisfactory to us, and in nearly every instance the public can participate in their money-making abilities by becoming stockholders.

SEEING then, that you and I, after we manage to save some money, can become the employers of the brainiest business giants in America by buying stocks of the companies they are giving their lives to build up, let us, whenever we may feel disposed to rail against "rich corporations," try to console ourselves with the thought that they are not our masters but our servants and that they can live and prosper only by serving us acceptably.

'BULLS' RENEW ROCKETING OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The "bull" movement in stock prices, which was interrupted by heavy selling late yesterday, was resumed in today's market under the leadership of the railroad shares, nearly a score of which advanced 3 to 12½ points. Some irregularity developed in the industrial list as a result of the usual week-end profit-taking, but the general list pointed upward with merchandising, independent steel, food and high-priced specialties in the forefront of the advance.

Trading facilities of the exchange were again inadequate to handle the large volume of trading, the ticker falling 45 minutes behind the market by early afternoon. Total sales crossed the 2,500,000 share mark before the end of the third hour.

Call money renewed at 6½ per cent, as against 6 per cent yesterday, and advanced to 7 per cent as banks called upwards of $15,000,000 in loans to meet week-end currency requirements. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady. Railroad shares were brought forward by operators for the advance when some of the popular industrials showed signs of lagging. Although the gain in brokers' loans was less than generally expected, the sharp expansion in recent weeks nevertheless induced considerable selling by cautious investors and traders. The volume of loans now outstanding exceeds the total money in circulation in the United States.

Montgomery Ward continued its spectacular advance by soaring 23 points to a new peak at 389 and then toppled 11 points on realizing. General Motors canceled practically all of its initial gain of 2¾ points, indicating that the dividend distribution had been fairly well discounted. Commercial Solvents, A. M. Byers and Jewel Tea extended their initial gains to 8 points or more, the last-named setting a new high record. Vanadium Steel and General Electric advanced 5 and 6 points, respectively, to new peak prices.

American Linseed broke nearly 5 points, Standard Commercial Tobacco 4 and Warner Brothers and Wright Aeronautical 3½ each.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Rail Stocks Move Forward.

Railroad stocks had their flourish in the Hoover victory celebration in today's market. Leading investment rails went forward with impressive ease, led by such issues as Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and several other prominent carrier stocks. Industrials were strong as new bidders for prominence came to the front and some of the old leaders added to their gains. Montgomery Ward soared conspicuously and there were notable gains in A. M. Byers, Vanadium, General Electric and the sulphur stocks. There were a few weak spots, however, notably the Warner issues. Coppers were strong but appeared to be meeting a rather heavy volume of offerings on the upturns. Steel issues were also strong with Steel common responding mildly to the rumors of a pending melon. Republic was in demand on buying stimulated by a Wall Street Journal analysis hinting at a big merger in which the company may play a prominent part. The money market was firm at 6½ per cent for call loan renewals followed by a later rise to 7. The Street apparently disregarded the further increase in brokers' loans to within a few million dollars of the five-billion mark. General Motors had discounted the directors' action in ordering the 2½ for one split-up and there was no demonstration in the stock. Oils dragged despite a further advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude. Pennsylvania's oil plays but a minor part in the great oil scheme these days, however, and a change in quotation here does not have the same influence as in years gone by on the price in the local grades meant an almost certain adjustment in other producing areas.

Near the close a sensational rise in Steel and Radio added further enthusiasm to the morning's strong buying movement. The ticker tape was an hour behind the actual sales on the floor and at one time Radio was selling $13 above the price showing on the ticker tape in the brokers' offices.

Reserve Discounts Increase.

Consolidated statement of the condition of the Federal Reserve banks on November 7 shows increases for the week of $25,100,000 in holdings of discounted bills and of $8,300,000 in bills bought in the open market, and a decrease of $4,400,000 in United States Government securities. Federal Reserve note circulation increased $32,600,000, while member banks reserve deposits declined $41,200,000 and cash reserves $4,600,000. Total bills and securities were $29,000,000 above the amount held on October 31. The system's holdings of bills bought in the open market increased $8,300,000, of United States bonds $1,000,000 and of Treasury certificates $1,900,000, while holdings of Treasury notes declined $7,300,000. Federal Reserve note circulation shows an increase of $8,500,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $4,800,000 at Philadelphia, $4,100,000 at San Francisco, $3,800,000 at Richmond and $32,600,000 at all Federal Reserve banks.

43,500,000 Shares of G. M. C.

The split-up of the General Motors common stock is regarded as in line with the corporation's established policy of obtaining as wide a distribution of its shares as possible at a reasonable market price. Total of common stock outstanding will be increased to 43,500,000 shares calling for annual dividends of around $130,500,000. At present 30,000,000 shares of common stock are authorized and there are about 17,400,000 outstanding. The split-up is the fourth the corporation has made in recent years. In 1920 outstanding stock of $100 par value was split 10 for 1 through issuance of no par shares. In 1924 the directors voted to simplify the capital structure and subsequently reduced the number of shares outstanding to 5,000,000 by creating a new $50 par stock and offering it in exchange for no par stock, on the basis of one $50 share for four no par shares. In 1926 parity again was eliminated and a 50 per cent stock dividend declared, while last year the company placed the stock on a $25 par basis and gave shareholders two new shares for each old share held.

Extras Seen for New Stock.

It was explained that the proposed change in no way will alter outstanding capital and surplus accounts of the General Motors Corporation. The directors are not required to establish the regular dividend rate on the new stock until the February meeting, but in the official announcement made after yesterday's session it was said that, barring unforeseen contingencies, it is expected the new stock will be placed on a regular dividend basis of $3 per share per annum. This is equivalent to $7.50 per share on present stock as compared with the current regular rate of $5, with occasional extras. "The directors feel that the position of the corporation is such that it is prudent to look forward to this contemplated increase in the regular dividend distribution," the official statement said. "Extra dividends hereafter, if any, will be entirely dependent upon future net earnings of the corporation. The extra cash dividend declared on the present common yesterday makes the total of extras paid this year $7 per share and brings the aggregate of extra and regular dividend payments on common to $12 per share.

Vanadium at New High.

Vanadium was one of the strongest of the industrial specialties reaching new high ground as the buying which became noticeable yesterday increased with the advance in the stock today. Vanadium, which has been a leading factor in the production of steel alloys, has branched out into the field of industrial chemistry, and has developed 100 important products in this line. People sponsoring the present movement in the stock expect these developments to be reflected strongly in next year's earnings, and a showing of $15 to $20 a share is predicted for 1929. In addition to its large vanadium deposits, the company is opening a new titanium mine in West Virginia, which will be the first commercial ore body to supply the paint industry with this product, which is considered more suitable than zinc or lead oxide as a base for most qualities of paint.

Kennecott and Newmont.

Some say Kennecott Copper is selling higher than justified by earning power of more than $10 a share, and it is because of this that the Street believes a big transaction of some sort is pending. Some go even far enough to say that American Smelting and Refining is in some way involved.

Kennecott and Newmont are closely allied, as the latter owns more than 250,000 shares of Kennecott.

Reserve Head Sees Improvement.

Gov. R. A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, addressing the annual stockholders meeting of representatives of member banks in the First Federal Reserve District at Boston said: "Autumn activity in production and trade this year has exceeded that of previous years. Manufacturing production has been especially large and prices of many important manufactured goods and minerals have advanced somewhat within recent weeks in response to the active demand for industrial products. Production of crops in the aggregate for 1928 will exceed the 1927 total by about 5 per cent and prices of agricultural commodities which had advanced considerably last year, and until September of this year, declined somewhat in recent weeks."

October Building Sags.

Building in October, as in August and September, showed a decrease from the like month of 1927, but the percentage of decline was smaller than those shown in the two preceding months, with the value permitted for the lightest for any month since January, according to Bradstreet's. Following, as it did, decreases in the like month of 1927, 1926 and 1925, it points to a continuance of the subsidence noted in this month in other years. By building, it might be explained, is meant the construction of ordinary house, office and store construction for which permits are granted in the leading cities of the country. The total value of the building permitted for in October at 162 cities of the United States was $216,923,558, which marked a gain of 3.1 per cent over the like cities' expenditure in September, but a decrease of 2.7 per cent from October a year ago, in which month a decrease of 31.6 per cent was recorded from October, 1926, the latter month, in turn, losing 1.1 per cent from October, 1925.

Hardware Exports Increase.

Exports of hardware and allied products from the United States for the first nine months of 1928 were valued at $52,982,723, an increase of $5,211,053 over the same 1927 period, according to the Department of Commerce. Substantial gains were realized in shipments of hand tools, cutlery, abrasives, stoves and furnaces. Increases were also noted in exports of builders' hardware, household utensils, plumbing fixtures and safes and vaults. Shipments of lamps and lanterns, chains and scales and balances declined slightly.

Calumet and Arizona.

Calumet and Arizona has not moved proportionately with other metal shares, but excellent accumulation is reported to have been in progress. The important ore discoveries made by the property last year are just making their effects felt in the earnings and the holdings of New Cornelia are looked upon as having prospects for special benefits for Calumet stockholders in the future. Profit of Calumet and Arizona for quarter ended September 30, 1928, was $1,380,321, after charges, but before depreciation and depletion, comparing with $923,301 in the same quarter of 1927. For nine months ended September 30, profit was $4,327,077, before depreciation and depletion, as against $2,918,281 in the first nine months of 1927.

Loans Up $71,804,000.

Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City increased $71,804,000 during the week ended November 7 to $4,978,968,000, a new high record. This compares with $4,907,164,000, the previous high, on October 31, and $3,384,529,000 on November 9, 1927. Detailed figures compare as follows (000 omitted):

	Nov. 7, '28	Oct. 31, '28	Nov. 9, '27
For own account	$1,064,398	$1,020,710	$1,125,439

Net earnings of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, of Chicago, for the five months ended October 31 were $2,473,276. This compares with $553,358 in the entire year of 1927. Sales for the five months were $27,814,000 and for October $5,160,000. October net earnings were $775,000.

ENGINEERING SAGS OFF FIREPROOF HOLDS GAIN

Prices were steady on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in today's session, but fluctuations were narrow and quotations at the finish showed few changes exceeding one point.

In the early market the list was a little irregular, with United Engineering and Foundry sagging off and Blaw Knox showing a recession of a point from yesterday's final figures. There was a fair turnover in Engineering, but only a few shares of Blaw Knox were handled. National Fireproofing held around the best level of the current movement, but was quiet in comparison with the activity in the stock a few days ago. It was said last week when the stock was on its way up from around 19½ to the present price above 22 that interests well informed on the company's operations were accumulating in anticipation of favorable news later in the year or early in 1929. The company's financial position is understood to have been strengthened materially over the past few months.

Fuel issues were quiet, with prices holding stady. In the early market there was very little trading in Arkansas Gas or Lone Star, but the quotations prevailing in the late trading yesterday were established again in the first hour today.

Local oils made only a meager response to the advance in Pennsylvania crude prices. Pittsburgh Oil & Gas scored a fractional gain, and Devonian was firm, but there was practically no market in other local oil issues. Likewise the oil stocks in New York ignored the raise and, with few exceptions, lagged drearily around the levels prevailing on the close last night.

In the late market Lone Star Gas developed sudden strength and moved up to a new high record for the present capital. Other fuels did not follow this move, but maintained a generally firm tone around the best level of the early trading. The turnover in Lone Star extended materially as the advance proceeded.

Butte and Superior.

Profit of the Butte and Superior Mining Company for the first nine months totaled $48,020 or 17 cents a share, against $203,246 or 70 cents a share in the corresponding 1927 months.

Let's Make Pittsburgh A City That Will Not Repel

Blue Law Is Obstacle in Bringing Industries to This District.

"Industries Are Established in Cities Where Men Like to Live." These words were made prominent through capitalization in the recent proclamation of the Chamber of Commerce, outlining the five great objectives toward which Pittsburgh must work if it is to be recognized as belonging in the front rank among the leading cities of the country.

The sentence is a comment of the committee which framed this admirable civic platform aimed to bring about model living conditions in Pittsburgh.

And what should they embrace? Not alone cleanliness and order and neat homes with modern conveniences, set in a cheery bit of lawn, with shrubbery and bloom painting a picture of what externally appears to be a basis for satisfaction and contentment. That is a picture, an ideal physical aspect, but, as desirable as it appears, it would only be a shell filled with emptiness were it not to become a home. A house, no matter how perfect, is not a home merely because it is a practical and esthetic example of creative art. It can have everything the designer could think of for the inducement of comfort and happiness and yet if the family occupying it does not feel at home it will be no home.

Of course we want all these things—we desire the ideal—because they are conducive to comfort, the satisfaction of living and pride of possession. But more is needed to make a city "where men like to live."

Since we are speaking from the premise contemplating the establishment of industries, we can change "men" to "working men." And very few working men living outside of Pennsylvania would view with satisfaction the location in [illegible]h of an industry that would involve their moving into [illegible]here their right to the "pursuit of happiness," the which an ideal home is built, is denied. If working men in other states demur at coming to Pittsburgh, a serious obstacle to establishing industries here is presented. Remember, we are speaking on the positive declaration of the Chamber of Commerce that "industries are established in cities where men like to live."

Is it fair to blame a working man living where he may devote part of his day of leisure—Sunday—to simple, innocent pleasure and amusement which do no harm to anybody, for objecting to moving into a state where indulgence in such diversions would make him a violator of law? Of course, thousands of others hold the same view he does, but just now we are speaking of the worker as a specified class because his choice as a place in which to live has been designated as a factor in the establishing of industries. Many here who are not classed as "workers," as well as that great army, look with envy upon other states where the residents do not have to suffer restrictions to the individual choice as to the manner of living one's life. They look with envy upon states that would not tolerate the cramping, puritanical Sunday Blue Law enacted by Pennsylvania in 1794.

Hence, if "industries are established in cities where men like to live," part of the aim covered by that declaration should be the repeal or amendment of that ancient law, to the end that Pittsburgh becomes a city where men will like to live. It has such cultural and other advantages that we who live here are proud of our city in that respect. These would be real "selling points" in presenting our good qualities were they not countered by the statement of a prospective manufacturer—"our men would leave us—they would not live in a city where they could have no Sunday freedom."

And don't think that is not a real obstacle. It is felt every day here. Employers reach out of town to get a desired employe. And find when he arrives that he is critical of our ways and discontented. The date of his departure in disgust is measured by from a few days to a few months. Or, if he remains because other conditions are overpowering, he considers residence here an ordeal and he becomes a chronic "knocker."

Now, we are all in accord with the Chamber's plan to further the bringing about of model living conditions. We know we have a good town that could be made better and that better living conditions are a worthy ideal. But we also know that no stilted Spotless Town can ever be a home if the heart is not there.

Let the Chamber of Commerce make repeal or modification of the objectionable old Blue Law part of its campaign to make Pittsburgh a greater city!

Wheels Set in Motion For Welfare Fund Drive

Last night at a mass meeting in the William Penn Hotel the "pep" to vitalize the public and workers in the Welfare Fund drive was let loose with enthusiasm that forecasts great success for Pittsburgh's first "community chest." The meeting was preliminary to the beginning next Monday of the actual campaign for funds for 25 philanthropic agencies grouped in the Welfare Fund. At that time 10,000 workers will begin a drive that is to continue for 10 days, the goal being $965,679.

This should be an easy matter, since the public mind ought to be well prepared by this time. The desirability of mass contribution for charity instead of response to many separate appeals has long been conceded. It has been commented upon time and again. Now we are to have this ideal in fulfillment. The Welfare Fund, organized many months ago, has been engaged in mapping out plans for the campaign and in recent weeks the details for handling such a huge activity have been perfected.

A. K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund, lends to the organization a valuable experience in this kind of work gained [illegible]s activities as chairman of the local chapter of the during and since the World War. For some time and his assistants have been making preparations for such an efficient solicitation that failure of the drive can only be possible if the public shows itself to be ungenerous. That, we can say, has never been a Pittsburgh trait.

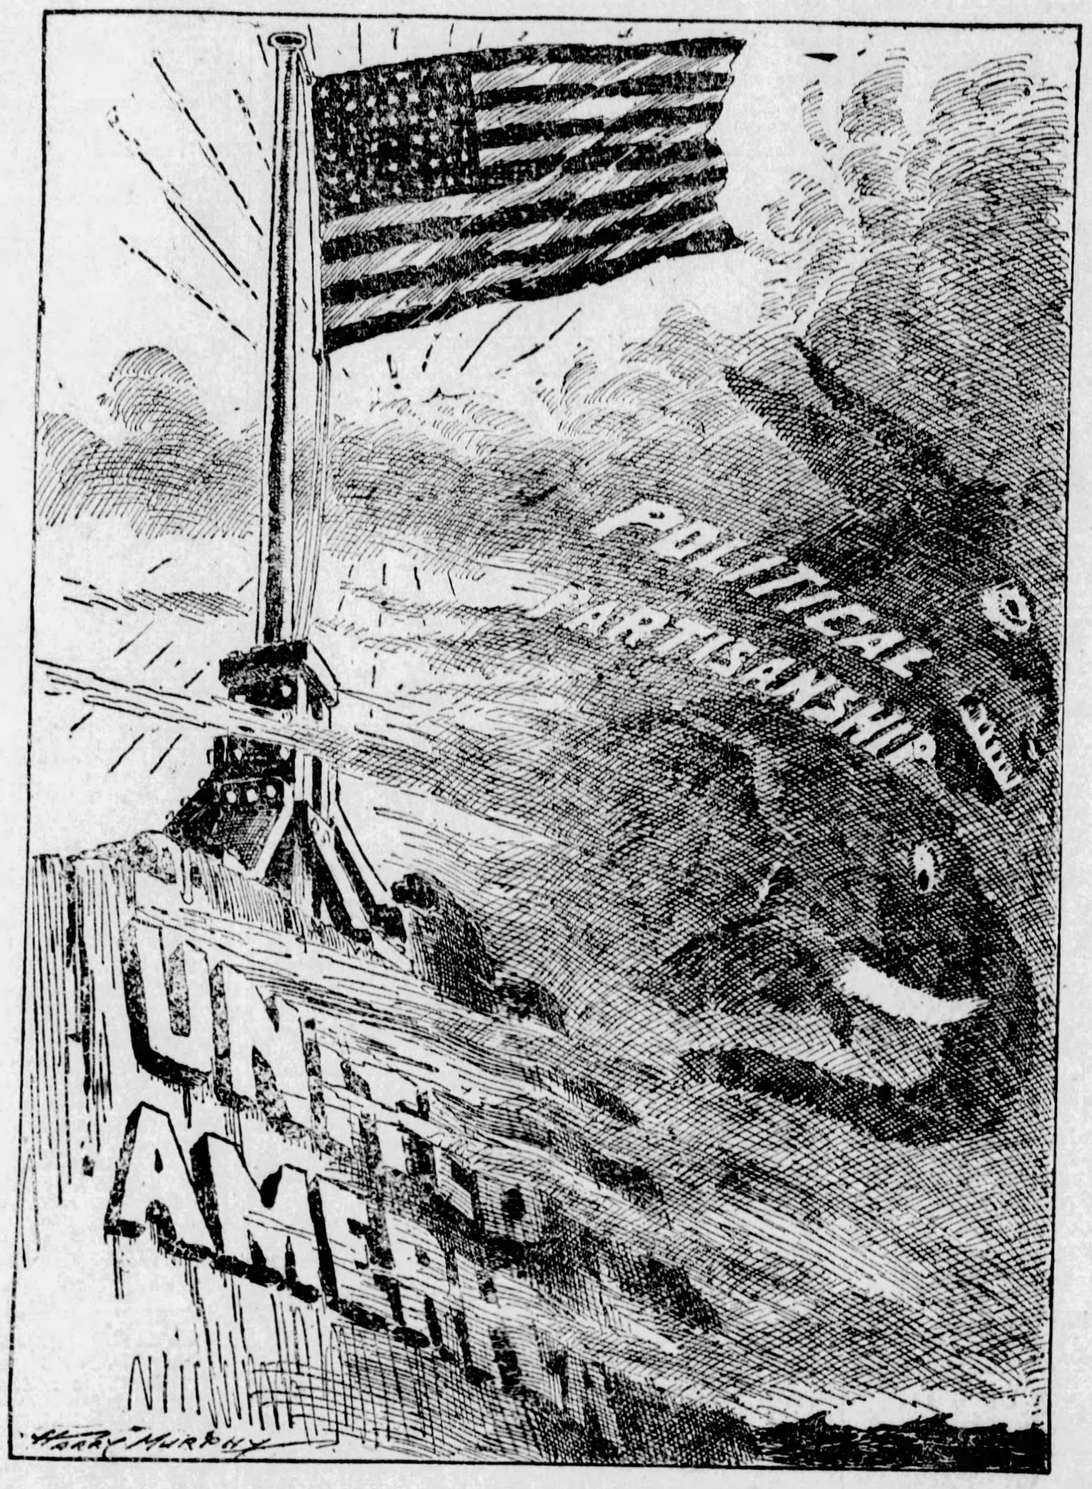
Arguments in favor of the Welfare Fund plan of providing for charitable activities are numerous and have been stressed often. The prime reason for taking it up is the practical one of greater efficiency. It does away with duplication of effort in solicitation and also in the waste and leaks that are certain to occur when the activities of 25 organizations are diffused instead of being grouped. These organizations are those we have always been supporting, the only difference being that we give for all at one time and have the matter done with for an entire year.

If we have had confidence that the funds of our charities would be well expended in the past, as they have been, we can be assured that prudence and wisdom will continue to guard the channels through which our dollars will flow to the unfortunate who need them.

Pittsburgh never has been appealed to in vain. It will not now fail to make its first effort toward establishing a "community chest" a success.

The Welfare Fund agent will call on you soon. Be prepared to do your bit.

When the Fog Rolls By



THE flag still flies where it flew when the clouds of political partisanship drifted down on it and concealed from the view of some. We know that the ideals of the nation have not been altered by the election, and that the still small voice of patriotism was never silenced by the clamor of the shouters on either side. Blown out in the winds of liberty, shining in the sun of national vigor, the flag still flies.

Tact

A POLICEMAN on traffic duty had held up a large touring car for nearly five minutes when there was no need.

The driver, a middle-aged woman, was indignant.

"Good gracious me, officer!" she said. "Do you realize that you have delayed me? Have you never been on traffic duty before? I want to know why you held me up?"

"I beg your pardon, madam," said the young policeman, "but at first I thought you were too young to be driving a car."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

HERE'S another school story, only it seems this is high school.

The English teacher says, "Well, Thomas, this is a fine essay you turned in about traveling with a donkey."

"Thanks," he says, "I liked it myself."

"Yes, but I was going to say, I thought it especially swell because you never turned in a good one before."

"Yeah. Well, I'm just hittin' my stride, Miss Jones."

"C', I see. And another thing, this happens to be word for word like an essay that Robert Louis Stevenson wrote. What do you want us to think about that?"

"Why, I think you'd ought to conclude that Stevenson was a pretty good write too."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Bequests

IN passing, childhood left me this
To make the long years bright:
The memory of my mother's kiss,
Her lullaby at night.

And when first love's bright dream was done
It did not take away
All rainbow loveliness it spun
To veil the common day.

For sometimes, when the world is cold
And all my hopes retreat,
Come visions, joyous as of old,
To make the hours sweet.

And as bequests for all my years,
Lest I should go, bereft,
These talismans to conquer tears
Childhood and youth have left.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IF you were a young man of 28—a good job—no bad habits—and wanted to settle down and have a regular home which girl would you choose for a wife, a business girl or one of the old-fashioned domestic treasurers?

Bert would like to know—for that's his problem.

There are two girls, both of them perfectly willing to be Mrs. Bert, and he's having the deuce of a time deciding between them.

There's Rose. Rose, as you might suspect, is fluffy and sweet and cuddley—and she mixes a mean sponge cake. Bert's house will be like a garden if he marries Rose—and she the prettiest flower in the place. But—and here's the rub—if Bert wishes to discuss anything but biscuits or babies, Rose will be a total loss. And Bert's one of those chaps who likes to "talk things over with the Missis."

Edna would be a wonder to talk things over with. Edna's brisk and energetic and tremendously efficient. Life arranges itself in systems and schedules and budgets under the touch of her cool, capable fingers. She's drawing down a big salary as private secretary for one of our biggest men and she'd keep Bert up on his toes, trying to equal her record. But—

She has never done an hour's housework in her life. Yet she's willing to try for Bert's sake.

And if she does? Well, it's a pretty sure bet that she'll never have that "homey touch" which Rose has. She may count calories and budget bills, but she'll never, never melt into Bert's arms and gurgle a welcome and make him feel like a Great Big Wonderful Conquering Hero. In fact, if the awful truth must be faced she's much more apt to make him feel like a dented nickel in comparison with her snappy performance.

And suppose she does? Suppose she does keep life dynamic and difficult—isn't that better for a man than sinking into a padded chair and listening to gurgles?

Bert's mother says "No!" She wants her boy to have an old-fashioned wife with none of these newfangled notions.

But I'm thinking that wife without new-fangled notions, who doesn't understand the world of today and the problems her man must meet, is a bad investment for any bright boy.

If I were a man I'd pick a girl who could think—and take my chances on the apple pies. For you can manage to fumble through life without apple pies, but you're certainly out of luck if your comrade lacks an understanding brain.

LOOK FOR METEORS

By Garrett P. Serviss

TWO famous meteor showers occur in the month of November. The first of these is the "Leonids" which appear on the night of November 14-15, radiating from the constellation Leo, whose sickle-shaped figure is seen rising north of east about midnight. The best time to look for the meteors is in the early morning hours, after their radiant point has risen well above the horizon. During the celebrated shower of these meteors in 1833, they filled the sky for hours with streaks of fire, the appearance being, when Leo was nearly overhead, like that of a fiery umbrella. All accounts agree that they were as thick as snowflakes in a winter storm. There was a brilliant display in 1866, but there has been none equal to that since.

The Leonids come from a direction nearly opposed to the motion of the earth in its orbit at the time of the shower, so that their velocity is added to that of the earth's motion, causing them to move as they plunge through the atmosphere at a high rate of speed, perhaps 40 miles per second at the moment of contact. Their color is an indication of the intense heat which their swift motion gives rise to, for they show a bluish tint, and leave very bright trains. They are supposed to be traveling in the track of Temple's comet, which was seen in 1866. The separation of the meteors from the comet (and their scattering around the orbit, so that some of them appear every year when the earth crosses that orbit) must have occurred a long time ago.

The second great meteor shower of November (which, however, only appears great semi-occasionally) is that of the "Andromedes," radiating from the constellation Andromeda, on the night of November 24. These may be seen early in the evening, Andromeda crossing the meridian north of the zenith between 9 and 10 o'clock. Unlike the Leonids, the Andromedes, at the time when the earth crosses their orbit, are traveling in the same direction as the earth, so that their velocity appears greatly reduced. Nevertheless, they shoot like fireballs through the sky, exhibiting a reddish tint, which may be taken as a visual indication of their relatively low temperature. They may not move through the air, on first entering it, more than eight miles per second. They are bright, but seldom leave noticeable trains.

Bible Passages

The Word

(John 1:1-17)

IN the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

The same was in the beginning with God.

All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made.

In him was life; and the life was the light of men.

And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.

There was a man sent from God, whose name was John.

The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light; that all men through him might believe.

He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.

That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

He was in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

He came into his own, and his own received him not.

But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believed on his name:

Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me is preferred before me: for he was before me.

And of his fulness have all we received, and grace for grace.

For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.

Isn't It So?

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Thoughts while strolling: Dorothy Knapp, the highly advertised "most beautiful girl in the world." And very near that, too. Who remembers when money was called spondulix? Jules Bache, the banker and his monocle. An expressman named I. Swann.

The theater with a row of seats equipped with phones for the deaf. Wesley W. Stout, a Kansas City, Mo., boy, who made good in the city. Lads sporting sideburns to appear Argentine-ish. Very few hat cleaning shops any more. The pet white owl that rides with a taxi driver.

Sign: "Colds cured while you wait." Liver becomes more la-de-dah every day. Displays of Palm Beach things. The site of the new Metropolitan Opera house—and a lot of speak-easies will have to move. From whispering to yelling, as it were. And that's not so good, either.

Anna Held's sloe-eyed daughter. Stocky booking agents. With tightly gripped cigars. A man with a wrist watch swinging a pick. A hop shop called "The Liberty." A double-breasted suit called "The Herbert Hoover." The columnist who wears a red tie and poses as a cynic.

Nothing so clumsy as a sheep dog. Winter is here—Al Jolson brings out his belted leather coat. The East Side gunman known as "The Tarantula"—the red scar on his cheek having been made by the sting of one. Wonder what that guy gets a week for wearing a uniform and looking important?

A steam roller driver eating lunch and reading Ludwig's "Napoleon." Sulka, the haberdasher. Sometimes I think I'll take up golfing. And then I spend an evening with those bores who have. Puzzle: Find the Broadway entrance to the Hotel Astor. The soda clerks have gone South. New faces.

The Paramount clock only eight seconds wrong. Harry Acton, who goes out to sea to meet ships. Cool winds at dusk. Freighted with the salty tang of the sea. The buoyancy of home going crowds. Color, zip, speed and dazzle. What a town!

That Broadway slang for an important person—the big shot—is a phrase out of Hollywood by the well-known Roscoe Arbuckle.

Broadway refuses to permit others to select its celebrities. Had even Lindbergh arrived in Boston first he would have found enthusiasm cooling by the time he reached New York. If Broadway bestows the first back slap the hero is taken to its bosom—otherwise how have you been?

A notable example is Paul Ash, a smooth jazz orchestra leader with a mop of wavy red hair brought from Chicago to grace a large cinema temple as master of ceremonies. In Chicago he was knee deep in dalsies. Women neglected housework under the spell of his "It." Flappers cried for him.

No entertainer had received such an advance fanfare of publicity. He was trumpeted with bands and received by welcoming committees in braided cutaways, winding up in a parade through town. New York only yawned. Mr. Ash was somewhat of a flop. His "It" became "If."

Paul Whiteman was famous on the west coast before he came to town, but he sneaked into the old Palais Royal with practically no local buttering or ballyhoo. His success was instantaneous. New York thought it had discovered him.

* * *

There are innumerable entertainers clicking out yonder who find it rough sledding if they arrive in New York on an avalanche of press puffs. New York isn't jealous exactly. Wonderful weather we are having!

A wealthy elderly widow recently married a notorious young rake. At the Players' Club that evening her grown son was asked: "How do you like your new pa?"

"You mean," he replied gloomily, "my faux pas?"

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

WERE Solomon the unwise to be reincarnated and spend a thousand years as a child and be whipped with a rod every day of that infernal millenium, he could not atone for the pain he has caused childhood by his cruel text, "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

Probably there is not on this planet a single good educator or a single good psychologist who would agree with that injunction.

The rod is not a magic wand whose touch will turn bad children into angels, but it is the cudgel of a bully which turns angels into bad children.

Sometimes we question Solomon's monopoly on wisdom. He was so extremely married, with his 700 wives and 300 affinities. Think of the alimony possibilities therein involved!

And Solomon's precepts on child culture were so erroneous that we surmise his pre-eminence in wisdom was only a bit of clever work on the part of his publicity agent.

Friend Solomon would gasp in surprise if he could sit at a modern child clinic where psychology is the ultimate and determinant.

Alleged naughty children are brought in and the good doctor shifts that adjective to the parents. Children with the only-child complex, petted and pampered; children with the truancy complex, who do a little roof raising with tantrums.

The good doctor is as gentle as a mother with the child; as frank as a court sentence with the parents; and as clever as a magician with the students present, talking to them like an ostrich, over the heads of the parents and the child.

This is one of the most significant and wholesome movements of our modern social order.

It will be a jubilee day for childhood and the world when Solomon's rod shall follow child labor into the never-returning bourn of oblivion.

Children aren't bad; parents are!

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A LADY secured a divorce the other day because she caught her husband giving another woman what he termed "a chaste kiss."

A chaste kiss is something no married man ever can give a woman other than his wife. If his wife knows and is mad about it you can depend upon it the kiss was stolen, hence sweet, hence—grounds for divorce.

A New York college girl married a man because—she wanted to travel and meet famous people, and enjoy literary advantages. She didn't love him, she says. Now she claims fraud and wants the marriage annulled.

You see she found out he didn't know George Bernard Shaw and other famous men, wasn't a member of English society, and didn't have money.

There was a fifty-fifty marriage if ever there was one and she got exactly what she gave—nothing.

A Chicago girl screamed when a flirt accosted her. The police came running.

Somebody should buy her a poke bonnet, some lace mittens and a garden with hollyhocks.

The same day in New York a girl was flirted with and she laughed loud and long, and when the traffic cop came to see what the trouble was she couldn't tell him for giggling. The man had run away.

In San Francisco next day a girl slapped a man for speaking to her, and walking too close to her on the street.

In Denver a girl was driving her car to the curb when an idler standing nearby asked for a ride, and made a few remarks. The girl backed the car up and ran it up on the walk so close to the offender that it knocked him over. When the policeman nearby came to see why she was driving on the sidewalk she saidt "The brakes didn't work."

I would say they did.

There are so many ways of killing cats, besides choking them with butter.

A lady wanted some combs to water-wave her hair. She knew the hair store where she traded wouldn't deliver just a few combs, so she ordered a list of things, including perfume, hair tonic, face powder and what not.

When the package came, she took out the combs, paid the boy, and sent the rest back.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOUR outlook appears mighty gloomy to you.

At the limit of your earning capacity and haven't saved a cent.

Your job requires all your thought and attention.

You dare not put it in jeopardy.

You have had opportunities to better your condition.

But your expenses, those you consider necessary to the family upkeep, cannot be met unless you are earning all the time, as at present.

The new undertaking might not at the start bring in what your present salary is.

You are doomed to stay where you are as long as the firm will keep you, is the alarming thought you have.

Many thousands are situated as you are.

Many are planning to make a little on the side, others cut down expenses.

But you are unwilling to live on less, isn't that the trouble?

You must earn more money, is your cry, yet you never reduce expenses.

Isn't it plain that if you cannot add to your income you have but one other way to get together the money for the business of your own which you want?

You will not make a success in business for yourself till you learn to shave expenses on general principles.
